'Curse' Told in Poison Trial

Today

Slicing the Taxpayer.
Labor Will March.
Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont.
Will Power vs. Youth.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

HERE AND THERE men are able to reach decisions, even in these wobbling days. Mr. Mason Houghland, of Nashville, Tenn., sends the Rockport Democrat, of Rockport, Ind., its inside pages completely filled with announcements of property to be sold for delinquent taxes.

On the front page in big type, inserted at the last moment, a statement signed by J. C. Jolly, Auditor, and Joseph Holtzman, County Treasurer of Spencer County, expresses their regret that they printed the advertisements of tax sales and adds:

"WE have decided, owing to financial conditions, NOT to conduct the public sale this year. No property in Spencer County will be sold because of delinquent taxes, whether the Legislature, now in session, declares a moratorium for one year or not. We hope our action will meet with the approval of the taxpayers."

No doubt it will, for to have property sold for one-tenth of its value for taxes, without giving the owner a reasonable opportunity to protect himself, is not wise or helpful.

TREATING TAXPAYERS as the ancient, nomadic Tartars treated their cattle cannot go on forever. The Tartars traveled slowly on their shaggy ponies, driving cows and oxen before them. When they wanted meat they cut a piece off the living animal, and the suffering animal was driven on. When from too much cutting it could walk no longer, it was slaughtered.

All cattle could stand that for a little while. None could stand it indefinitely. The government will find that the taxpayers cannot stand the same treatment indefinitely either.

NEW YORK STATE finds that it is spending more than it has to spend. Has it planned to cut down expenses as a business house would do? No. Next Monday the Legislature will get a bill suggesting new taxes to meet the deficit, another slice cut from the hip of the tax-paying cow.

New York City, wiser than the state, decides that the way to meet a deficit is to cut expenses. The new Mayor, Mr. O'Brien, notifies city officials that $20,000,000 must be cut off the city's budget and immediately.

MR. GREEN, as conservative, careful a leader as the American Federation of Labor ever had, following more radical farm leaders, warns that a labor "uprising" is not far away and labor will "soon be on the march."

In what direction labor will march, what it will do when it gets there, will be decided later.

Mr. Green is careful to say that labor will fight "with every LEGITIMATE weapon at our command."

UNPLEASANT to some of our "best minds" are Mr. Green's words:

"We are out to end legalized robbery in the United States."

Legalized robbery would presumably include printing worthless watered stocks, and ending that would end some very successful financial careers.

MR. GREEN wants "a protective governmental service for investors," and demands "recognition of the equities of workers in the industries in which they work."

And "equities in industries" are cheap today.

Mr. Green says labor is not losing its head, but has given "government, industrial management, and finance every opportunity to produce a remedy," and now it proposes to find a remedy for itself.

If it does, 12,000,000 idle will rise up and called it blessed.

Mr. Green asks:

"I am aware that my declaration sounds harsh. Why not? Can anything be harsher to the privileged than the words 'There is no work' are to the unemployed?"

MRS. OLIVER H. P. BELMONT is dead in Paris at eighty, and a determined, able American woman passes on to other triumphs. She knew what she wanted, exactly, and usually got it.

She said she did not want her daughter, Consuelo, to be married for her money by some little "Newport cocktail drinking American." Those were her words.

So she took her husband, William K. Vanderbilt, and his giant yacht all the way to India. There she picked up an important British official who had in his hands the affairs of the young Duke of Marlborough, took him to London, had her daughter, Consuelo, introduced properly, and married her to the duke with loud applause in Fifth avenue, New York. She said:

"I want my daughter to have a career."

Blenheim Palace, given the original Marlborough by England, was done over, inside and out, with old "Commodore" Vanderbilt's money, and Consuelo added some fine children to the Marlborough-Churchill strain.

Then the duchess married somebody else, the duke married somebody else and everything went on happily. In the long run the little imaginary cocktail-drinker from Newport might have done as well.

IT IS NOT true that a man is as old as he feels. Sometimes he feels young when he is old and silly. But it is true

HIT-RUN KILLER ELUDES CHASE

'SPELL' TOLD IN POISON TRIAL

Accused Woman Says She's Under Curse Of Accuser

Mrs. Mary Chalfa, of Munhall, testified in Criminal Court today that even as she sat in the witness chair defending herself against "poison plot" charges, she was under the "spell" of Mrs. Gizella Young, the state's star witness.

She testified:

"Mrs. Young could put a curse on me a mile away."

The defense for Mrs. Chalfa and Mrs. Anna Allas, accused of poisoning Stephen and Andrew Allas, is based on the "spell" attributed to Mrs. Young, a fortune teller who has testified the defendants confided details of the alleged poison plot to her.

Defense Attorney Louis Little said yesterday he would show that Mrs. Chalfa and Mrs. Allas were under the influence of Mrs. Young in anything they did.

TELLS OF MEETING

Assistant District Attorney John Haggerty asked Mrs. Chalfa today when the "evil influence" appeared. She said it was one month after she met Mrs. Young. She said she visited the fortune teller to learn when she could pay a mortgage on her house.

Mrs. Chalfa testified she had no insurance on her husband's life when she met Mrs. Young, but now has him insured for $20,000.

Insurance was obtained by her on the lives of eight other persons besides the husband and herself, she said. The state charges Stephen and Andrew Allas, stepsons of Mrs. Allas, were poisoned in a plot to collect their life insurance.

Those who Mrs. Chalfa said she had insured include her father and mother, a cousin, Joe Chalfa, and his wife, and her own four

HOUSE WETS ACT TO KILL DRY FUND

Amendment Demands Enforcement Money Ban

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Anti-prohibitionists opened a drive in the House today to eliminate prohibition enforcement funds for the 1934 fiscal year from the Justice Department supply bill.

The proposal to eliminate all of the $9,120,000 the bill carried for enforcement was made by Rep. O'Connor (Dem.), of New York, leader of the Democratic wet bloc.

Before his amendment was offered, it had been agreed to limit debate on this portion of the bill to two hours.

Other proposals also were presented by anti-prohibitionists. Representative Griffin (Dem.), of New York, proposed to cut the $9,120,000 total to $7,199,986.

AMENDMENTS OFFERED

Representative Tinkham (Rep.), of Massachusetts, offered amendments to prevent the use of money for wire-tapping, for the purchase for use as evidence of any intoxicating liquors, and for the hire of special employes under contract.

Meanwhile, Senate Democrats decided in conference today, upon a much less drastic policy of economy than was sought yesterday, but the Republicans demanded a showdown on the original plan.

Debtor Or Dictator?

FOR EGREGIOUS asininity the speech of Neville Chamberlain, the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, at Leeds, dealing with revision of the war debts, has perhaps never been equalled.

We would add that it probably never will be surpassed but for the fact that further utterance by him may be anticipated, as he is to be one of England's spokesmen in the discussions which President Hoover and Secretary Stimson seem to have succeeded in finally bringing about.

Mr. Chamberlain tells us just what the UNDERLYING POLICY of the British government IS to be in its prospective war debt negotiations at Washington.

The fact that the United States may have a policy seems not to have dawned upon him. However, WE are ONLY CREDITORS. Let us see what OUR DEBTOR PROPOSES TO DO TO US.

TO BEGIN WITH, we are assured that whatever settlement is reached MUST BE FINAL. And second, that it MUST BE for A SUM SO SMALL that it will NOT NECESSITATE the resumption of the CLAIMS ON GERMANY FOR REPARATIONS, beyond the nominal sum tentatively fixed by the Lausanne agreement of last July.

We are furthermore told that Britain is going to adhere to the principle of the Balfour note. She will demand no more from her debtors than she has to pay to the United States. But . . . hear again the stentorian and authoritative voice of our debtors . . . England WILL PAY the United States NO MORE than she CAN COLLECT from Germany and her other European debtors.

In other words, regardless of her obligations, she will pay no more than what somebody may hand her for the purpose.

THIS IS FUNNY enough. But Mr. Chamberlain grows funnier as he proceeds.

"I had hoped," said he, "we might have been spared the DILEMMA in which we were placed last December, when we had to choose between DEFAULT upon our obligations and PAYMENT, etc."

Of course, this IS something of a dilemma. But all debtors, since the world began, have been faced with it.

"During the 10 years 1922-31," he continues, "the United States received from foreign countries £400,000,000 in war debts, £1,000,000,000 in net interest on commercial loans and £1,200,000,000 for the surplus of American goods sold abroad over foreign goods sold to her. That makes a total of £2,600,000,000 in receipts."

Mr. Chamberlain asks:

"HOW did the FOREIGNERS pay that vast sum?"

WITH A LACK of humor which over here we think that only a Briton is capable of, he proceeds to show that "foreigners" have paid very little of it—PRACTICALLY NONE AT ALL.

"One billion, five hundred million pounds," he continues, "came from expenditures of American tourists in European countries and remittances from emigrants living in America to their European relatives. Another £100,000,-

BODY HAULED 8 BLOCKS IN ESCAPE

North Side Movie Man Questioned by Police

Fleeing with the body of his victim imprisoned between the fender and radiator of his automobile, a hit-run driver early today eluded police pursuers after a long chase over North Side streets.

The body of the victim identified as Lawrence Sutton, 47, of 15 Courtwright street, breeder and racer of homing pigeons, was jarred from the fender at Bartold street and Superior avenue, eight blocks from Brighton road and Woodland avenue, where the man was struck.

OFFICERS SEE CRASH

The accident was witnessed by Patrolmen John Carroll and Thomas O'Bronovich en route to their homes from North Side Police Station. They commandeered a passing automobile and gave chase.

When Sutton's body fell to the street, Patrolman Carroll, leaving the pursuit to O'Bronovich, had the mangled form removed to Allegheny General Hospital, where it was said Sutton probably had been killed instantly. The fleeing machine eluded O'Bronovich and was abandoned at Sheffield street and Allegheny avenue.

Early today police arrested Joseph Rand, 32, of 5544 Bryant street, operator of a North Side motion picture theater, on a suspicious person charge. He was detained for questioning by homicide detectives.

MAN QUESTIONED

Rand was taken to North Side Police Station for questioning after his brother, Louis, had reported to them that the automobile the former had borrowed from John J. Englert, of 239 Shaler street, to visit a girl friend in Oakdale, had been stolen. Louis Rand said the machine was stolen from Joseph at Perrysville avenue and East street while he had entered a confectionery to purchase a package of cigarets.

SCHWAB NIECE, CLERK ELOPE

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Jan. 27.—(INS.)—Miss Jane Schwab, 22-year-old niece of Charles M. Schwab, steel magnate, eloped yesterday with an "unemployed bond salesman now working as a bookkeeper," her parents announced today.

The pair vanished yesterday. Last night the girl telephoned her mother, Mrs. Edward Schwab, that she had eloped to Easton, Pa., where she had married Leonard Knowlton, of this city.

Knowlton is a graduate of Morristown High School. His parents said today that he "aspires to be a philosopher."

Edward Schwab, father of the bride, is a brother of the steel magnate. His daughter was educated at St. Elizabeth's College.

WOMAN SOUGHT IN CAR DEATH

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 27.—A woman's footprints in the mud around the abandoned automobile of David Dudgeon, 36, of Belle Vernon, drew a veil of mystery around his death in a culvert about a mile from here. His body, lying face down in a creew bottom, was found by police early today.

Death was due to a broken neck, it was believed, but investigators were at a loss to determine how it happened. There were no marks of violence on the body.

About 50 yards away in a muddy ditch Dudgeon's car was found, it's motor stalled. Dudgeon was dressed in his working clothes. His pocketbook contained $46.

ENVOY'S 'VISIT' TO SENATE HIT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Offering a resolution for Congress to reaffirm its expressed opposition to war debts revision, Senator Robinson (Rep.), of Indiana, told the Senate this afternoon that the Democartic leader—Robinson, of Arkansas—had violated Senate rules yesterday by inviting the British Ambassador into the legislative chamber.

The Arkansas Robinson, who twice already this week had clashed with the Indiana Robinson of opposite political faith, acknowledged taht he had made a mistake.

RIGHT CHALLENGED

Reading newspaper headlines that Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, had been invited into the Senate by Robinson, and had carried his campaign for reduction of the British debt to the floor, Robinson, of Indiana, said:

U. S. Pays High for Senate Shaves

Tonics, Ice, Soda Mints Swell Expenses

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—A Senate pledged in campaign utterances to economy in federal costs today had for its study—if members desired—a private report of the Senate secretary on its expenditures showing money paid out for everything from aspirin tablets to hair tonic.

The total involved—covering appropriations and expenditures for all the fiscal year 1932 and parts of other periods—was $4,116,455.

Actual expenditures were totaled as of June 30, 1932, at $128,227 less than that.

"Miscellaneous items"—as tabulated in the report by Edwin P. Thayer, the secretary—involving small sums in the fiscal years 1930 and 1931 and about $200,000 in 1932, aggregated $240,846.

Some items contained in this, in approximate amounts, covered such expenditures as about $8,000 for the barbershop and $9,000 for mineral waters, the price of the latter ranging from $7 to $11.75 a case, with hundreds of cases bought. Free barbering has been available to the legislators for years.

Distribution of the report, which is somewhat in the nature of a confidential matter, is limited to two copies per Senator, for them to do with as they will.

Two bottles of hair tonic, $1.20.

One pair of chauffeur's gloves, $3.45.

One rubber lap robe for the Senate garage, $2.25, and four feet of rubber tubing for the library, 72 cents.

To the Charles Heurich Brewing Company, $191, for 66,050 pounds of ice in June, 1931.

In August of that year, the ice bill paid the same company was $219 for 75,650 pounds.

Folding documents at the rate of $1 a thousand, $12,000 as salaries for the folders.

Upkeep of the Vice President's car, from July 15, 1931, to June, 30, 1932, $6,672, which included lots of cloth and polish for keeping it shiny, as well as gas and oil and chauffeur's salary.

Aside from salaries, the largest single item in the report was $457,933 for investigations, of which $358,980 was in the fiscal year 1932.

Salaries of officers and employes of the Senate took up $1,850,003, while the mileage allowance and compensation of Senators, which includes their salaries, was $1,200,466.

'Girl in Rags' Vanishes With Samaritan's Cash

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 27.—(AP.)—A ragged, little girl yesterday asked Mrs. Baldwin A. Wilson for aid, and today Mrs. Wilson would like a little help from that same girl.

Calling at the Wilson home, the girl, who said she was supporting three members of her family, asked for food and clothing.

Mrs. Wilson gathered up a half dozen discarded coats and dresses in the attic and gave them to the girl, happy in the performance of a charitable act.

Today Mrs. Wilson remembered that the lining of one of the old coats she had given the girl was the family "bank," containing two $100 Liberty bonds, a $100 bill, a $50 bill and a number of smaller notes, making a total of between $350 and $400.

She didn't know the girl's name but she remembered that the girl, who appeared to be about 16 years old, had told her she lived at 118 West Strawberry street.

The police, called frantically by Mrs. Wilson, made a hurried trip to the Strawberry street address.

EX-STEEL HEAD PLEADS FOR PROTECTION

Tells House Probers Foreign 'Dumping' Perils Nation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—American business today demanded protection against imports from countries that have reduced the value of their money.

James A. Farrell put the appeal before the House Ways and Means Committee in hearings on the Hill bill to raise tariffs against products from such countries. The former president of the United States Steel Corporation spoke as chairman of the Foreign Commerce Committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

In asserting that American business throughout the world was affected by the influx of cheaper products from these countries, he said:

"The whole business structure is inoculated in such a way as to be completely demoralized.

"In iron and steel with which I am particularly familiar, we have no protection at all under present depreciated currencies."

WOMAN SENATOR APPEALS

An appeal of the Legislature of Washington state for such protection was delivered by Kathryn Malstrom, its only woman state Senator. She said:

"The unemployed demand to know why there is so much talk of beer percentages and of Philippine independence 12 years off when they need bread."

The consideration of the step stretched to the White House where President Hoover called in Senator Moses (Rep.), of New Hampshire, and Walcott (Rep.), of Connecticut, to discuss action to remedy the situation.

At the State Department, meanwhile, advisors of President-elect Roosevelt were informing themselves on related matters which will be discussed in the forthcoming debt and economic conferences.

Prof. Rexford G. Tugwell discussed economic and debt questions with department experts, while Prof. Raymond Moley, another associate of the President-elect, was discussing that and similar problems with other government officials and members of Congress.

OUTLINES PRINCIPLES

Farrell indorsed no particular bill but laid out principles upon which the chamber believes legislation should be built. He testified:

"Stabilized currencies are one of the great needs of the world of business today. So long as our domestic market here is wide open to depreciated currency countries there will be little incentive for them, from our direction, to institute measures to bring about such return to currencies of known value rather than currencies of daily variation."

Only yesterday, a treasury spokesman told the committee that action to boost tariffs against cheapened foreign currencies might prove an "incentive" to force a return to the gold standard.

Farrell continued:

"Not only our business in the United States, but our business throughout the world is seriously affected by the chaotic state in which many world currencies flounder today and so long as they do flounder it is the course of wisdom for our country, in my opinion, to take such cautionary measures as this type of legislation proposes.

"These countries are having the time of their lives in flooding this country with goods on a depreciated currency basis.

THREATENS STANDARDS

"We hear much talk about the need of restoring price levels. Nothing is quite so destructive to sound efforts to restore prices as the presence in our American market of foreign competitive merchandise priced at levels so low that American competition with them is not possible unless we bring down our whole economic structure to the low strata of some of our chief competitors.

"It is like a spoonful of carbon black dropped into a pail of white paint—it doesn't change the paint black but it certainly spoils the whole batch."

Farrell said that in the first six months of 1932, imports from depreciated currency countries dropped only eight per cent as compared with the first half of 1931, while there was a 35 per cent decrease for countries whose currencies had not depreciated.

CHARGES BANKS RULE INDUSTRY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—President James A. Farrell's resignation as president of the United States Steel after he had advocated maintenance of wage levels was cited to a Senate committee today by spokesmen for labor as an evidence of "banker control of industry."

John P. Frey, secretary-treasurer of the Metal Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, recalled the resignation in elaborating his charge that New York bankers maintain a "stronghold" on industry, thus preventing improvement in working conditions.

He presented his testimony to the committee considering the Black five-day-week, six-hour-day bill.

Frey called attention to a statement Farrell had issued opposing reductions in wages as economically unsound. He added:

"J. P. Morgan is a chairman of the board of directors of United States Steel and his banking company is deeply interested in the steel company.

"Not long after Farrell's statement, he resigned as president and immediately Steel reduced wages."

Questioned by Senator Black (Dem.), of Alabama, Frey said two other Morgan partners—Thomas W. Lamont and James Spencer Morgan, Jr.—were directors of United States Steel.

MART IN INSULL FACES COURT

On the application of E. W. Bayly, deputy attorney general of Ontario, who is acting as special counsel for the state of Illinois, Justice Kingstone ordered Insull to appear before him this afternoon. Today the justice also will consider Mr. Bayly's application for a change of venue in extradition proceedings against Insull.

Insull is under indictment in Chicago on charges of larceny and embezzlement in connection with the collapse of the Middlewest Utilities Company.

Meantime, Samuel Insull, Martin's brother, remains in Greece. He was indicted with Martin, but the Greek courts refused a petition for extradition.

BELLEVUE BANK CASE NEAR JURY

Arguments of counsel were made today to end the embezzlement case against Ansley D. Smith, former cashier of the closed Citizens Trust Company, of Bellevue, before Judge A. B. Reid. It was expected the case would be given to the jury late today. Character witnesses testified for Smith today.

Most of yesterday's session was taken up with testimony of directors and former employes of the bank, called by the defense to refute the charges. George Campbell, George W. Snaman and John R. Longbaugh, directors of the bank, testified they knew of notes on which Smith borrowed money with which, it is charged, he played the stock market.

They said they had seen the report on the bank's condition prepared by the state bank examiners, in which these were listed. It had been implied by the commonwealth that Smith took the money, putting notes in the bank to cover the transactions, without authorization.

Employes of the closed bank all testified Smith had never asked any of them to make false entries or do anything irregular.

WHISKY TRIAL COST ON VOLPE

A "Scotch verdict"—not guilty but pay the costs—was returned against Joe Volpe, of Wilmerding, charged with violating the liquor laws, in Criminal Court today. His attorney, Edward G. Coll, didn't even put in a defense for young Volpe, a brother of the three Volpes murdered in Wylie avenue last summer.

The prosecution sought to show that Volpe owned whisky seized in a garage in Patton street, Wilmerding.

When first arrested by Wilmerding police, the charge against Volpe was changed to keeping a disorderly house, for which he was fined. This change was criticized by Judge George V. Moore.

W. Va. House Asked To Probe Utilities

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 27.—(AP.)—An investigation of "the utility problem" in West Virginia was proposed in the House of Delegates today by Delegate Holt (Dem.), of Lewis County.

The Lewis County Delegate introduced a resolution calling for the appointment of a committee of five Delegates to make a broad inquiry into the entire utility division including rate-making process and financial setup.

"Thousands of Americans desire reduction of their debts, but let them try to get onto the floor of the Senate to state their case."

Robinson, or Arkansas, replied that he had invited Sir Ronald onto the floor. He said:

"That was my mistake. I did not refresh myself on the rules. It was an unintentional disregard of the rules. The subject of international debts was not even mentioned, much less discussed."

RESOLUTION LAYS OVER

The Indianan's resolution on debts had to lay over at least a day under the rules.

In it, he sought to have Congress expressly register opposition to debts cancellation or revision, as it did in ratifying the Hoover moratorium.

Asserting that he had "nothing against" the British Ambassador or his nation, the Republican Robinson asked his colleagues:

"What difference is there between lobbying, though it be in high circles, for cancellation of the British debt, and the other lobbying around here by anyone else?"

Bullitt in Paris as Roosevelt Emissary

PARIS, Jan. 27.—(INS.)—Received by the French foreign office as an "accredited representative" of President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, William C. Bullitt, one-time emissary of the late President Wilson, called upon Premier Joseph Paul-Boncour last night and discussed the war debt problem in detail, International News Service learned today.

Despite a cryptic disclaimer from the foreign office, International News Service was informed by a close confidant of Premier Paul-Boncour that the conference actually took place at the Quai d'Orsay at 7 o'clock last night.

All outstanding Franco-American questions were discussed, it was said, with particular emphasis on the war debt.

Bullitt took the initiative, asking Premier Paul-Boncour what France intended to do in view of the fact that the Chamber of Deputies voted to default on the debt payment, which was due to the United States on December 15, last.

Paul-Boncour, it was understood, was exceedingly prudent in his replies, but expressed confidence that an invitation would be received from the United States within the next two weeks, affording France an opportunity to discuss the war debt situation formally.

Britain Must Remain Off Gold, Banker Says

LONDON, Jan. 27.—(INS.)—Great Britain must remain off the gold standard for some time to come, Reginald McKenna, chairman of the Midland Bank, declared at a meeting of shareholders today. He said:

"The thought of inflation, as long as it is controlled, does not alarm me. Almost everyone now realizes that a rise in primary prices is essential to world recovery."

DETROIT, Jan. 27.—Henry Ford today took a personal hand in efforts to adjust the strikes which caused shutdown of his nation-wide industry, throwing 150,000 men out of jobs.

Stalking dramatically through the picket lines, Ford, unattended except for a chauffeur, appeared at the Highland Park plant of the Briggs Manufacturing Company shortly before 11 a. m.

A surprised crowd of 200 pickets and onlookers made way for him as he marched grimly into the plant. Fifteen minutes later he emerged, snapped an order to his chauffeur, and sped away.

'OLD MAN' LEAVES

What action the motor magnate intended to take in this newest crisis to threaten his vast organization, could only be guessed.

The Rouge plant, central manufacturing works of the Ford company, closed yesterday afternoon, unable to continue production, Ford officials said, because of strikes tieing up body supply plants.

Early today Ford lieutenants began to carry out orders to close down the entire national organization. All over the country Ford assembly plants closed, laying off their workers indefinitely.

From London, England, came dispatches from the London Evening Standard quoting Ford as charging in a trans-Atlantic telephone interview that his competitors are responsible for the strike in the body plants.

A Ford official later told International News Service the Evening Standard's quotation was "substantially correct." He said:

ASK PRIEST'S AID

Meanwhile, in the motor capital, police prepared for threatened trouble. Ominous reports that Ford employes were planning to "bring pressure to bear" on the strikers, alarmed the city. Mayor Frank Murphy, declaring "the city's welfare is at stake," urged conciliation. A committee of strikers, after a mass meeting at 10 a. m., called upon the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, famed "radio priest" of Royal Oak, to act as mediator.

The strikers have appointed Phillip Raymond, former Communist candidate for Mayor, as their organizer, it was learned. Pickets insisted, however, that Communism was not involved. Many American flags were seen in the picket lines, and suspected Communists were promptly ejected from the mass meeting.

Plants of the Briggs Manufacturing Company have been closed for three days after a wage strike forced a layoff of 6,000 men. The Murray Body Corporation closed its plant throwing 4,000 men out of work. Murray officials denied, however, that a strike was responsible. Shortage of materials forced them to shut down, they said.

The two companies furnish all bodies for the new Ford models on which production was started a few days ago. Many of the Briggs strikers were women.

The strikers stared, but offered no comment, except a mutter, here and there:

"The old man himself."

PLANT HERE CLOSED

The Pittsburgh plant of the Ford Motor Company was closed today on orders from Detroit, where company officials announced a strike at body manufacturing plants had tied up the assembly units.

Officials here said they received instructions to close until further orders. Company heads said 100,000 men will be thrown out of work throughout the country. The number affected here could not be determined.

The Briggs and Murray body plants in Detroit, employing about 10,000 men, have been closed three days.

that a man is as old as HIS WILL POWER and no older.

In 1928, Leonor F. Loree, sixty-nine years old, was head of the Delaware and Hudson Company, with 870 miles of track, a small concern compared with the New York Central and its 11,000 miles of track.

Loree wanted his little railroad to control the New York Central giant, tried, and failed. At sixty-nine some men would have said:

"Well, I tried, and I am through."

Not so with this man. He has tried again at the age of seventy-four, and this time succeeded, getting enough New York Central stock to make himself the boss, able to carry out his plans—whatever they may be.

WILL POWER plus work, can do anything. Let young men past sixty remember that and refuse to be discouraged.

Debtor Or Dictator?

000 came by shipments of gold, making £1,600,000,000 altogether."

Then he asks sententiously:

"Where did the remaining £1,000,000,000 come from?"

He answers his own question:

"It came FROM LOANS made BY AMERICA to the rest of the world, and it was that £1,000,000,000 OF LOANS AND THAT ALONE, which made possible the payment of £400,000,000 of war debts."

He then referred to the dreadful consequences that would follow from any "resumption of war debt payments," asking us to believe that he was issuing no "threats," but only a "warning."

IN THE LIGHT of his own figures, it is difficult to see what ground there is for the phrase "RESUMING war payments." Can it truthfully be said that they have ever STARTED?

Regardless of the distinction which Mr. Chamberlain draws between a threat and a warning, he does not hesitate to assure us that concessions MUST come from the United States; and that if the debt payments are to continue, there MUST be modifications of the American tariff which would make such payments possible by means of commodities.

The point will not be lost that this warning to reduce our tariff, (or is it a threat?) proceeds from England's foremost representative in the recent imperial economic conference at Ottawa.

By agreements there reached between Great Britain and her dominions, all British tariffs throughout the world were raised against non-British goods.

THERE WAS NO concealment of the fact that the imperial economic conference was aimed primarily at the export business of the United States. Its damaging effects we have already felt.

Simple and confiding Uncle Sam!

He was going to make the world safe for democracy.

He thought he was preserving for all time those lights of civilization—England, France and Italy, and their little satellite nations close by, which reflected their beams.

He poured money into their exhausted coffers.

He could trust, for repayment, to the honor of his debtors.

Now, as the instalments fall due, his debtors speak to him with irritation of their "dilemma," as they contemplate the choice between payment and repudiation.

And they are coming over to TELL him—RIGHT PLAINLY AND TO HIS FACE—what he "MUST DO" and what he "CAN'T DO."

children. She valued the insurance at approximately $30,000.

RELATES 'CURSE'

Concerning the fortune teller's "curse," Attorney Haggerty asked:

"Do you mean to tell us that all your actions are controlled by Mrs. Young?"

Mrs. Chalfa answered:

"Yes."

"Can she control you now in the courtroom? If she wanted to make your testimony the same as hers, couldn't she do it?"

"Yes."

Mrs. Chalfa testified she collected $750 in life insurance after the death of Richard Duyva, an infant, boarded at the Allas home.

Haggerty asked:

"How did you collect it? By posing as the mother of the baby?"

"Yes."

She also said in answer to a question that she sent a daughter home when she was arrested "to empty a glass of powder and to take care of the insurance policies."

DOCTOR NOT CALLED

Mrs. Chalfa said there were no doctors present when Stephen and Andrew Allas and the Duyva infant died.

Haggerty asked the witness:

"Why did you go down to Philadelphia to see a lawyer before you were even arrested in this case?"

After hesitating, Mrs. Chalfa answered:

"Because of the talk and the newspapers."

The defendant was questioned concerning a visit to a Dr. Zeok and said she had gone at the suggestion of Mrs. Young, who, she said, told her "you look so yellow."

Asked if she told Dr. Zeok her husband was a drunkard, Mrs. Chalfa said:

"No. If I told my husband to stand on one foot, he'd stand on one foot all day."

Mrs. Chalfa denied she ever threatened Mrs. Young with a gun and an ax. While both were in jail during investigation of the alleged poison plot, Mrs. Chalfa said, Mrs. Young told her:

"Why did you get Mrs. Allas away from me? We could have put the blame on her, and you and I could be free. We could have collected the insurance and she could have sat in jail."

WETS SEEK END TO DRY FUND

lion dollar Treasury-Postoffice appropriation bill with instructions to slash it and future supply measures to a level of the indicated income for next fiscal year.

In its stead, they agreed unanimously to substitute a resolution to instruct the Appropriations Committee to make all reductions possible without impairing the efficiency of essential federal services and to attempt cuts of between $35,000,000 and $50,000,000 on the Senate floor.

REPUBLICAN OBJECTS

Senator Tydings endeavored to withdraw his original proposal when the Senate met, but Senator Kean (Rep.), of New Jersey, called for a vote.

Vice President Curtis ruled the motion could not be withdrawn without unanimous consent.

When Senator Smoot (Rep.), of Utah, observed that "we have marched up the hill and now we are marching down again," Democratic Leader Robinson replied this was "unfounded in fact, distorted historically and parliamentarily untrue."

Senator Byrnes, of South Carolina, said many Republican Senators wanted to kill all appropriation bills for this session and force the entire burden on the Democratic Congress. He said:

"Let's pass this bill and give the President power to reorganize the government."

$50,000 POOL PROPOSED FOR ROOSEVELT

House Asked to Vote Fund for Innovation At White House

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Appropriation of $50,000 to build a swimming pool on the White House grounds for Franklin D. Roosevelt was recommended by the House Appropriations Committee today.

Although the committee had no word from the President-elect, Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, who may be the next White House physician, advised its inclusion in the independent offices bill.

For years swimming has been virtually the only sport of the President-elect, whose athletic tendencies were curbed by infantile paralysis.

LOCATION UNDECIDED

Location of the pool has not been decided, but is expected to be in the spacious grounds in the rear of the White House. The committee made the money available soon as the bill is passed. Other appropriations are effective July 1.

Asked by Representative Woodrum (Dem.), of Virginia, in charge of the bill, if a swimming pool should be provided, Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant III, Director of Public Buildings, said Admiral Grayson told him some provision was advisable.

Woodrum then asked:

"Did Admiral Grayson consider the matter of a tank?"

Grant replied:

"Yes, as a matter of health; but I have no information directly from the President-elect authorizing me to ask for any such fund.

UPHOLDS PRECEDENT

"On the other hand it seems to me that in view of the action previously taken making a small sum available to each successive President, it would only be in accordance with precedent to make this appropriation that is asked for, and that would be entirely adequate to provide such a swimming tank."

He estimated the cost of the tank at $30,000, depending upon its size and location.

The committee was also asked to provide funds for purchase of new rugs and furniture for the White House. Grant disclosed that President and Mrs. Hoover have been using furniture and rugs of their own in the White House.

The bill also provided for continuance of three secretaries for the President, a precedent set by Mr. Hoover.

Billion Dollar Bill Reported to House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—(INS.)—The billion dollar independent offices bill was reported favorably to the House today by the Appropriations Committee coincident with a request from the National Economy League that it be held up until the special session to try to work out a big cut in the huge disbursements for veterans.

The committee disapproved legislation drafted by Brig. Gen Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, at the request of Representative Woodrum (Dem.), of Virginia, proposing a horizontal slash of 10 per cent in all veterans' outlays and recommended the exact budget figure—$945,988,634.

The Economy League protest urged postponement of passage of the measure until the President-elect has an opportunity to put into effect his promised 25 per cent reduction in the budget. Veterans' payments amount to about a quarter of the whole federal outlay.

As reported, the bill carries a total of $1,002,890,779, a cut of only $1,657,522 below the budget estimate and $21,395,262 below the current appropriation. Economy slashes elsewhere were offset by a budget increase of $18,039,634 over present appropriations for the veterans' administration.

The committee struck from the bill $288,134 with which the Federal Trade Commission planned to initiate three new economic investigations. One was to be an inquiry into the financial practices of corporations, other than banks and common carriers, as a result of the 1929 stock market crash.

The second was to be into the effects of anti-trust legislation with respect to the natural gas, petroleum, coal and lumber industries, and the third, the effect on the public of quantity discounts, below cost sales, brand advertising and related subjects. The committee did not believe new economic investigations at this time was wise or warranted.

Refusal to Curl Hair Made Tom Mix Star

The screen cowboy hero revealed in court yesterday:

"Back in 1909 I broke into the films as a double—taking the bumps for the heroes. That was all right but one day they wanted me to work for a marcel-haired hero and I called a halt at curling my hair.

"Later I wrote my own scenarios so they's have to use me."

Mix was testifying in his own defense in the $342,000 breach of contract suit brought by Col. Zack T. Miller, owner of the defunct 101 Ranch and Wild West Show. He claims Mix cost him a fortune by refusing to appear in his show after agreeing to accept $10,000 a week salary.

Mix traced his rise in the movies, in direct examination, and admitted to being 53 years old now "but still able to get and hold a cowhand job tomorrow if I had to."

The witness told of the effect the economic crisis has had on circus stars' salaries when he told of getting $10,000 a week in 1929 from Sells-Floto, $7,000 in 1930 and $4,000 in 1931.

The case is expected to go to the jury Monday.

Sons Visit Ex-Kaiser On 74th Birthday

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Wilhelm Hohenzollern, former Kaiser Wilhelm II, of Germany, today celebrated his seventy-fourth birthday.

Among members of the family with the former Kaiser and his second wife Princess Hermine were the former crown prince, Friedrich Wilhelm, who now is 50; Prince Eitel Friedrich, Prince Auguste Wilhelm and a grandson, Prince Louis Ferdinand.

BERLIN, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—A message from the former kaiser occupied the front page of Der Aufrechte, organ of the Hohenzollern family, today, in observation of his seventy-fourth birthday. The one-time monarch wrote:

"I bear my fate with resignation, for the Lord knows what He is doing. He knows why He laid this test of faith upon me.

"Only one thing grieves me—the fate of my country and my people. I am pained at the severe suffering of my German fellowmen which, while I am compelled to live in exile, I cannot help them to bear.

"Here in my loneliness I think only of and for the German people. Even harsh criticism never can subdue my love for my land and my people. I shall remain true to Germany no matter how some Germans may look upon me."

TWO WOMEN, POLICEMAN KILLED IN PHILA. VICE WAR

GUNMAN TAKES 3 LIVES IN BATTLE

Slayer Escapes After Chase Through Back Yards

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27. (AP.)—Blazing pistols in the hands of a marksman-killer claimed the lives of two women and a policeman last night in what authorities said may have been the outbreak of a vice war.

In a darkened house near the center of the city, Mrs. Yetta Cooper, alias Cohen, alleged proprietress of a disorderly establishment, was shot through the head with a .45-caliber pistol, and a young woman tentatively identified as Patsy Miller was shot between the eyes.

A third woman in the house was slightly wounded.

In an exchange of shots with the slayer, as he fled through yards at the rear of the house, Patrolman Frederick J. Dolan was killed.

The slayer escaped amid a fusillade of shots from police who went to the scene.

More than a score of persons were rounded up for questioning soon after the slaying, but no arrests were made. Among those detained was Ben Cooper, alias Cohen, husband of one of the dead women.

Outside the house, police found two heavy automatic pistols believed to have been discarded by the killer, but they were unable to locate Patrolman Dolan's weapon.

Addie Davis, Negro maid, told police the man appeared at the door shortly before midnight. He was admitted and asked for Mrs. Cooper.

The woman evidently knew him, the maid said, and they talked together for a moment before he suddenly whipped out two pistols and began shooting.

PAY SHAKEDOWN CHARGE AIRED

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 27.—Racketeers collected almost 50 per cent of the wages of seven men employed on the relocation of the Ruffsdale-Reagantown road, County Commissioner Elliott L. Hibbs, chairman of the Westmoreland County Unemployment Relief Board charged today. Hibbs said he had instructed the men, who paid $1.60 out of each $3.40 obtained to pay, to demand its return from C. R. Buttermore, and his brother, Homer Buttermore, of near Scottdale.

Those said to have made payments are Charles Bates, Ruffsdale; George A. Bungard, Mt. Pleasant; James C. Lane, Scottdale; Harry F. Hough, Alverton; Francis W. Wolfe, Ruffsdale; George A. Lynn, Smithton, and Paul Coultus, Mt. Pleasant.

Hibbs and Samuel S. Lewis, secretary of highways, conferred yesterday, and Lewis announced all evidence will be transmitted to Attorney General William C. Schnader.

PYRE MURDER CLUES HUNTED

SPRING VALLEY, N. Y., Jan. 27.—(AP.)—The pyre murder of an auburn-haired woman whose body was found aflame near Spook Rock baffled authorities today.

They sought to learn whether any woman answering the description was missing, and they also hunted a man whose truck was mired near the scene a half hour before the body was discovered.

Wisps of smoke curling upward in the snow-covered peach and apple country attracted Alonzo Osborn as he walked along a road. Behind a boulder he found the burning body, sprawled on its face.

Although the flames had charred it badly, an examination disclosed the woman was about 5 feet 1 inch tall, about 35 years old, and weighing about 115 pounds. A purse nearby held $16.50.

The body was found in the shadow of Spook Rock, a huge stone with an Indian legend.

CROONING JURY FREES SLAYER

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Exonerated of murder charges, 17-year-old Varner Corry today was back in the home circle from which the law removed him almost two years ago, shortly after he shot and killed a policeman.

A "singing" Criminal Court jury last night decided he was not guilty in connection with the slaying of Edward Smith, officer who was fatally wounded Memorial Day, 1931, when he interrupted Corry and two companions taking a clandestine swim in a public school natatorium.

The "singing jury," so-called because its members during moments outside the courtroom indulged in a penchant for rendering, en masse, the old choral favorites, including "Sweet Adeline," deliberated four and one-half hours.

Charge of Murder Laid Against Child

DETROIT, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Gilbert Stuart, 12, was named in a complaint filed yesterday by authorities charging him with murder for the death of his foster father last month.

The boy was arrested early in December following his confession that he accidentally shot his foster father, Harry Stuart. Later the boy fell ill with scarlet fever, and the case was halted for a time. The boy has maintained the shooting was accidental.

YOUNG CAPTAIN GIVEN MEDAL FOR RESCUE

Credits Crew With Saving 22 From Ship in Storm

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Capt. Giles C. Stedman, commander of the steamer American Merchant, was given the city's medal of valor today in recognition of his rescue at sea last week of the 22 survivors of a foundering British freighter.

Mayor John P. O'Brien pinned the medal on the lapel of the captain's coat in a simple ceremony at City Hall. It was the first of the city's new style receptions and took place inside the building. No bands played and less than six top hats were on display.

READS ADDRESS

The Mayor read a four-page address and Capt. Stedman replied by reading a few paragraphs from a typewritten sheet.

The American Merchant arrived with the survivors yesterday and sails again this afternoon for London.

The slim young master of the American Merchant stayed in his cabin yesterday while harbor craft of all kinds set up New York's welcome of whistles.

He went about his routine duties while the ship headed toward a pier loaded with cheering crowds.

He talked quietly of the rescue, but he insisted the credit belonged to others.

CREDITS RADIO

It was the accuracy of a radio direction finder, he said, that enabled the American Merchant last Friday to locate the battered Exeter City, after her bridge had been carried away, and her skipper, third mate and two members of the crew had been swept overboard by a 50-foot wave.

But those 22 sailors called Stedman a hero, and there were tears in the eyes of some of them as they sang his praise.

But Stedman, who in 1925 saved 26 men from a sinking Italian ship, held up a forbidding hand when anyone mentioned the word "hero," and much of his praise was for the "stamina," the "fortitude" of the rescued men—those men who had faced likely death for hours while they scanned the skyline with haggard faces for sight of some rescuer.

Bones of Massacred Heroes Uncovered

SAXTON, Pa., Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Massacred by red men when this land was young, bones of seven unknown heroes, who blazed trails across forgotten frontiers, were unearthed in this historic community and the search for additional skeletons continues today.

Almost at the base of a monument, erected in recent years in honor of 10 pioneer scouts who were slain by Indians on July 16, 1780, the bones—believed to be those of the frontiersmen—were found yesterday.

Bold Groundhog, Out Week Early, Irks Prophets

Then, apparently a little frightened at his bold performance, the groundhog scampered back underground.

This radical behavior—a week before groundhogs are supposed to come out and look for shadows—stimulated a furore among local weather prophets today. A score of controversies are being wagered over the proper interpretation of the event and its effect on the weather.

Her Ex-Husband Ill

COLLEEN MOORE . . . . . THEIR DIVORCE BROKE HIS HEART

Divorced Mate Dying Of Love for Colleen

Film Man Broken By 'Complex' For Actress

By WILLIAM PARKER
International News Service.

PARIS, Jan. 27.—Broken in health and bitterly disappointed, the man whose divorce from Colleen Moore shattered his spirit and blinded him to life's joys, lay seriously ill here today.

A few years ago he was jovial, strong and handsome.

Today he is gray, disillusioned, gravely ill.

Those assigned to his care say that he is the victim of an all-consuming love for the little actress who was once his wife; that he cannot forget her.

At the time Colleen Moore divorced him, McCormick, who had directed and produced some of her best known pictures, said that he could never love any other woman.

He repeated this today in an interview with International News Service in which he disclosed that he was doing everything in his power to overcome the "complex." He said:

"I have been traveling in search of health. While aboard a liner I met August Vollmer, a noted criminologist and psychologist and a lecturer at the University of California.

"He told me that a complex was undermining my health. He recommended a course of treatment under Dr. Jung, the famous psychoanalyst.

"I went to Zurich to see Dr. Jung. His price of $20,000 came too high. So I returned to Paris."

And Paris, recalling that Jack Pickford died here a few weeks ago mourning for his first wife, the ill-starred Olive Thomas, who died by poison in Paris, is asking:

"Is it true that a man can really love only once?"

DENIES CHILD DEATH GUILT

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Lloyd Price, 22-year-old Negro, pleaded not guilty today to a charge of murder in connection with the slaying of 6-year-old Helen Sterler in a Brooklyn cellar.

Price earlier today confessed, police said, to strangling the child.

He was arraigned in Brooklyn Homicide Court before Magistrate Joseph A. Maguire on an affidavit made by Detective James Cahill.

Assistant District Attorney D. A. Palmer said the state would require at least a week to prepare its case and Magistrate Maguire fixed February 3 as the trial date. Price will be held in jail pending trial.

Detectives questioned Price seven hours before obtaining a confession from him. The Negro confessed, police said, after they showed him a colored pencil found in the cellar and told him his mother had identified it as one he had had. He repeated his confession in the police lineup just before his arraignment at which he entered his plea of not guilty.

Fianna Fail Holding Control of Dail as Count Mounts

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—President Eamon de Valera continued in the lead today as the count continued of the general election held on Tuesday.

At mid-afternoon his Fianna Fail party had won 62 seats in the Dail, the Cosgrave opposition had 35, the Center party 8, the Independents 8 and the Labor party 7.

GAINS RECORDED

Although recording gains, there was still a feeling in some quarters that final returns will show De Valera is unable to carry on without aid of the small Labor party, which supported him during the past year.

When de Valera dissolved the Dail, January 3, he was confident of winning a clear majority for the first time in the 10-year history of the Free State, and release from the dependence on Labor's vote.

The Fianna Fail polled heavily in the areas hardest hit by the economic war with Great Britain, and it was evident thousands regarded the contest as a reply to the challenge by Britain.

In a declaration on the elections, Finance Minister MacEntee declared the Fianna Fail was fighting the cause of a "united, independent Ireland."

DE VALERA PROGRAM

De Valera's final success would be regarded as a mandate for complete abolition of the oath to the crown, abolition or a reduction of the numbers and powers of the Seanad Eireann (the Senate), further withholding of land annuities claimed by Great Britain, eventual abolition of the governor-generalship appointed by the King, and continuation of the tariff war.

All De Valera's cabinet ministers have been returned to the Dail. De Valera doubled his own vote, but Gosgrave was re-elected by a greatly reduced vote.

Ulster to Spurn Republic, Prime Minister Declares

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Lord Craigavon, prime minister of Northern Ireland, announced today that it was the firm intention of Ulster Loyalists to resist to the limit any attempt to include Ulster in any Irish Republic.

The Premier said he could not help thinking that Nationalist abstention from the Uister (Northern Ireland) Senate and House was "dictated from elsewhere" and had close connection with the movement to create an all-Ireland republic. He added:

"Our people will rise in wrath and spurn wits contempt every endeavor to subborn their allegiance to the British crown."

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—(Universal.)—Shrieking in hysteria, Mrs. Lillian Bradley confessed yesterday that she had burned the tongue and fingers of her 9-year-old daughter, Mary, to cure the child of fibbing. The mother's emotional outburst prompted Magistrate Bridges, in Stapleton, to commit her to the psychopathic ward of Kings County Hospital for observation.

UNION COUNCIL JOINS AMERICA BUYING DRIVE

Caution

Because of the tremendous public popularity of the "Buy American" campaign, certain persons are offering for sale to the public cards, stickers and various articles for a profit.

The Sun-Telegraph herewith informs the public that it is not engaged in any particular in the sale of anything in this connection, and that association of its name with such activities is unauthorized.

The Pittsburgh Building Trades Council, in which most of the union labor organizations are represented, today sent its resolution indorsing the "Buy American" campaign sponsored by the Hearst newspapers.

In it, members of all affiliated unions were urged to encourage the purchase of American-made goods and have their families observe the practice.

Joseph Duty, president of the council, and Leo A. Green, secretary, signed the indorsement. Duty said member organizations of the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor have received copies and are pledging aid.

MILLIONS IDLE

The resolution follows:

"Whereas, there is reported in these United States of America at the present time, between 11 and 13 million unemployed men and women; and

"Whereas, many of these unemployed have expended all of their savings, as well as their credit facilities, and are now depending in many instances upon funds of different charitable relief movements; and

"Whereas, much of this condition has been brought about by the lack of the degree of cooperation upon the American public in not insisting upon and demanding American-made goods with their purchasing power; therefore, be it

"Resolved, that the Pittsburgh Building Trades Council does hereby recommend to the members of its affiliated local unions, as well as to the members of all State and local building trades councils, that they purchase none but American-made goods and in this manner assist in increasing the demand for our own American-made products, and by so doing stimulate production which will in turn increase employment among the men and women of our country and help at the same time to reduce the unemployment conditions now existing."

"Your Committee recommends concurrence in this resoluton.

"The recommendation of the committee was unanimously adopted, and a copy sent to each affiliated local union, with instructions that this resolution be read at three consecutive meetings."

The Builders' League of Illinois, comprising 3,000 contractors, has indorsed "Buy American," while 176 members of Congress, in Republican conference, declared imports have thrown 1,000,000 men out of work with a loss of $10,000,000 a day in payrolls. They recommended legislation to correct tariff and surcharge defects to check the flood of imports.

FAVORS SALARY FOR PFARR

Although County Commissioner C. C. McGovern is opposed to setting up any retirement fund or compensation for past years for Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr, he will make efforts to provide a present salary for the fire marshall. A bill is pending in the Legislature which would give the County Commissioners authority, on approval of the court, to compensate Pfarr for past services and provide for his retirement.

The bill was presented by Representative Joseph R. Lynch. According to Special County Solicitor Mortimer B. Lesher, who discussed the bill with McGovern, the passage of the measure would only give the Commissioners the right and not direct them to compensate the fire marshal. McGovern has taken the stand that Pfarr on his salary of $10 a year did not contribute to a pension fund and cannot expect to be pensioned.

McGovern has termed Pfarr one of the worthwhile employes of the county whose record speaks for itself. It is understood that Pfarr would like to continue working if the county would pay a reasonable salary.

Girl Who Swallowed Poison Recovering

Catherine Young, 18, of 1520 Federal street, was reported recovering in Allegheny General Hospital from the effects of poison swallowed in a West Stockton avenue rooming house late yesterday, according to Homicide Detectives Frank Morgan and John Riley. The detectives said the girl was despondent because she lost her job as a domestic in a North Side home Wednesday.

Campbell, Ill, Gains On Way to U. S.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Sir Malcolm Campbell, who sailed for the United States Wednesday on the Aquitania to make another attempt to lower the automobile speed record, sent a message to the Daily Mail that he was "frightfully weak, but improving." He is suffering from influenza.

OPEN SATURDAY NIGHT

NEW CAR YEAR SEEN IN AUTO SHOW SALES

Tomorrow night brings the annual Pittsburgh auto show to a close in the Hotel William Penn, with sales made during the week indicating that the industry's business revival drive will bring a new car buying year.

Exhibitors of the 24 lines of cars report to the Pittsburgh Auto Dealers' Association, sponsors of the show, satisfactory sales results. The exhibitor of one of America's highest priced cars who heretofore seldom completed a sale during the show reports buying this week, according to W. N. Owings, secretary and manager.

Today and tomorrow attendance figures are expected to reach a peak beyond estimates made when the show headquarters was moved to the downtown district. An added refinement, in keeping with the new marked beauty in streamline and colors, has been added this year by exhibiting in the Chatterbox and Exhibit Hall, Owings said.

The doors are opening from 11 a. m. until 11:30 p. m. The accessory, radio and electric refrigerator exhibits open to the public in the lobby and corridors are also drawing interested spectators.

ACT TO DISPOSE OF OLD RECORDS

Prothontary John Vogt has prepared a bill for the Legislature providing for the destruction of useless court records after five years.

Vogt took up the matter with President Judge James R. Macfarlane, who appointed Judges Ralph H. Smith, John P. Egan and Sylvester J. Snee to consider the measure. Vogt said:

"There are election records, liens and a lot of useless papers jamming up our space. Useless documents should be destroyed, but we cannot do it without an act of Legislature. The dockets would not be destroyed, so doing away with paper records in various cases would not hamper the court business. The dockets have the essential facts."

JAPS REPULSE CHINESE IN BATTLE

SHANHAIKWAN, China, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Japanese reports said a strong Chinese force attacked Japanese troops holding Chiumenkow ("Pass of Nine Gates"), in the Great Wall of China, about 12 miles north of here, early today. The Chinese were reported to have retreated after a three-hour battle.

The Chinese were believed to be a portion of the command of Gen. Ho Chu-Kuo, Chinese commander of the Shanhaikwan garrison, who was ousted when the Japanese occupied this city January 3 after a terrific battle.

TROOPS RUSHED

The Rengo (Japanese) News Agency learned that reinforcements were being rushed to Chiumenkow from Suichung, Manchuria, by the Japanese.

Meanwhile, Japanese military planes had made another bombing raid over Northeastern Jehol, extending their operations farther into that region than on any of the five previous raids of the past two weeks.

U. S. OPPOSITION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—(INS.)—The United States would view with disfavor any attempts by Japan to retain her mandated territories in the Pacific if she withdraws from the League of Nations.

This was indicated in State Department circles today following the statement of Japanese foreign office officials that Japan regarded the mandated territories as "spoils of war" and would refuse to give them up if it withdraws from the League.

STORM LULLS; AKRON AT BASE

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Public officials and private citizens began today the task of reckoning the damage caused by a heavy wind and wild sea that lashed the entire new Jersey coast.

The Navy dirigible Akron, which fled from the storm that struck as the ship was about to land Wednesday, returned to its base at Lakehurst last night and was stowed away in its hangar without difficulty.

Coast guardsmen today continued efforts to locate the bodies of three harbor pilots, lost when their yawl overturned off Long Branch.

The men, given up for lost, were Pilot Hugh A. McIntyre, of Jersey City, and Apprentice Pilots Albert Strandberg, of Staten Island, and Charles M. Peterson, of Brooklyn. They had taken the Black Diamond Line freighter Black Gull out of New York harbor to Ambrose Channel. Their yawl overturned about 300 yards off shore.

Coast Guard Saves Dog From Channel

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 27.—The coast guard, "watchdogs of the sea," braved the choppy waters of Erie Channel to rescue a Scotch terrier. The dog, however, exhausted after a long battle with the waves, died from exposure shortly after it was brought ashore.

Dogs Stand Guard Over Woman's Body

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—(Universal)—For two days a radio in an apartment in East One Hundred Eighth street played—or spoke—and neighbors became suspicious something had happened to Mrs. Edith J. Lilliman. So police were called. Mrs. Lilliman was found dead from a heart attack. Standing nearby were her three dogs. Mrs. Lilliman was the aunt of Prof. William Ray Thompson, of Yale.

7 Bandits Executed, Bodies Hung on Trees

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 27.—(INS.)—Seven bandits, captured by Federal troops in a running gun battle between the cities of San Luis Potosi and Leon, were summarily executed today, and their bodies strung up on trees along the highway as a warning to others.

Several other members of the band were slain in the battle.

Nevada May Repeal 'Dead Bandit' Law

CARSON CITY, Nev., Jan. 27.—(AP.)—The Nevada law which gives official sanction to the killing of a bank bandit would be repealed, under a bill passed by the Assembly today and sent to the Senate.

Enacted in 1931, the law permits payment of a larger reward for the return of a bandit dead than if he is brought back alive.

Ship on Own Power After Drifting Night

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27.—(INS.)—After drifting helplessly in stormy seas all night the freight steamer Everett, 1,000 miles out of Seattle with a crew of 34 men, reported today it had effected a partial repair of disabled engines and was proceeding slowly under its own power.

Five Safes Cracked, 'Crackers' Get $61

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Safe crackers cracked safes last night with great gusto. They smashed open five safes and collected $61. Damage to the safes was estimated at $150 by the police.

MINE KILLING SUIT DELAYED

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 27.—(INS.)—Postponement of the $50,000 damage suit of Mrs. Mary Philipovich, widow of Nick Philipovich, slain in the Arnold City mine riots, against the Pittsburgh Coal Company, was arranged today by consent of counsel. A hearing was set for April.

Eight men tried for the fatal shooting of Philipovich were convicted of manslaughter last year. With exception of John B. Yoder, who fired the fatal shot, all have been paroled. Yoder has appealed from the penitentiary term.

Horseless Revere Warns 'Speaks' Of Raiders

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—(INS.)—A modern Paul Revere—minus the horse—dashed around the "Loop" district spreading the cry "the federals are coming"—the "federals" being squads of prohibition agents bent on cleaning up some exclusive clubs and speakeasies early today.

But despite his gallant efforts, the "federals" descended enmasse upon four of the most popular rendezvous before they could "dry out." With the rest, however, the raiders had little luck. They found almost every Loop oasis as dry as the Sahara Desert.

SALE OF CLUB'S 'DUES' HALTED

Federal Judge Nelson McVicar today stopped the sale of $245.75, six wrist watches, two pocket knives and two pipes, found in the Bentleyville Moose lodge safe. He dismissed a forfeiture libel obtained by prohibition agents, following a raid last May.

Joseph Salvitte, secretary of the Moose, who is also secretary of the Bentleyville Owls, said the money was paid as dues by members of both lodges and kept there because there is no bank in the town.

Sale of other property confiscated by prohibition agents will be allowed.

FOOD INDUSTRY NEEDS CITED

Proper merchandizing and pricing are necessary factors in the food industry to improve its business condition, according to James F. Brownlee, president of General Foods Sales Company, Inc., New York, today visiting the sales office here.

The food market in the Pittsburgh district, he said, compares favorably with the leaders in the country in face of economic conditions. Employment conditions in the food industry were cited as being 87 per cent of normal as compared with the high of 59 per cent in other businesses. Mr. Brownlee said January food business has been good, adding:

"There is a fair amount of money in the country. Good merchandising and prices will be necessary to obtain the food market share. It is a question of who does the best job."

Stabilization of prices so the retailer can earn a profit is necessary for the safety of the storekeeper, he said. The Associated Grocer Manufacturers Representatives are endeavoring to aid in this move.

ECONOMY AIDS REDUCTION OF CITY DEFICIT

The economy program at City Hall reduced the city deficit for 1932 from an anticipated $1,750,000 estimated by the Citizens' Tax Committee to $1,345,650, according to a report by City Controller James P. Kerr.

City expenditures for 1932 were $24,028,348, and approximate revenues received $22,682,698. A deficit of $964,752 was absorbed in last year's budget.

FURLOUGHS HELP

The deficit was held down by the canceling of $2,517,677 of city appropriations for 1932. A considerable part of this money was realized in the furlough system, and the use of bond funds instead of current tax money for emergency relief.

The present city deficit is for the most part being carried by the American Reduction Company, the Allegheny Garbage Company, the South Pittsburgh Water Company and the Duquesne Light Company.

LIGHT BILL LAGS

The city still owes for approximately the last four months of 1932 for garbage collections. It owes the water company some back payments on the water bills of South Hills residents on which the city pays the difference between city and company rates.

Street lighting payments have also been allowed to lag until the cash can be gathered to meet them.

GUARD BANKER AFTER THREAT

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Operatives of the "Secret Six" crime-fighting organization and a squad of policemen were guarding the home in suburban Lake Forest of Solomon Smith, president of the Northern Trust Company, following receipt of a second death threat in a letter demanding $5,000.

The first threatening letter was received last November 19 and each followed the sending of a bomb to the Smith home which exploded while being unwrapped. Mrs. Frederika Shumway Smith, wife of the banker, narrowly escaped death or serious injury.

The second letter, received last Wednesday, said:

"We need money and need it bad.

"We already have sent you a package that your wife got. We have sent letters before and they were unheeded."

Handwriting experts said the writing on the letters was the same.

GIRL IN BANDIT QUIZ FREED

Louise LaVerne, 22, attractive blonde held for investigation of a series of holdups in which a blonde gunwoman was said to have figured, was released by county detectives yesterday.

Found in an alleged speakeasy, Miss LaVerne told detectives she came to Pittsburgh from Toledo about three weeks ago. Attempts to identify her as the woman who pointed a gun at C. E. Murphy, of 7075 Campania avenue, as he was robbed Sunday night in the Lincoln avenue district failed, and her release was ordered.

Louis Lardo, 1301 Colwell street, in whose home Miss LaVerne was found, was charged with violation of the Snyder Act and keeping a disorderly house.

BUILDING LOAN INVESTMENTS FREE OF TAX

Money invested in building and loan associations will not be included in the county tax on personal property, it was said today at the office of the Board of Assessment and Revision of Taxes. Hundreds are visiting the office daily, obtaining information and filing returns.

Persons filing returns will be asked whether they have made previous ones, the County Commissioners decided yesterday when George E. Meyers, chairman of the assessment board, conferred with them. The Commissioners are still split on whether to impose penalties on persons who have not filed returns in previous years.

Chairman C. C. McGovern took the stand that such failure to make returns is the fault of the individual. Under the law the county can collect five years' back taxes.

The question of whether parents could be termed trustees of money their children have in school savings was brought up yesterday. Meyers declared the assessment board has no legal right to exonerate individuals who list their children's school savings as money held in trust but said no questions would be asked if such items were not listed in the returns.

"If this keeps on the kids will be getting strongboxes like the grown ups."

BILLS OFFERED BY TOWNSHIPS

Proposed legislation to change annexation laws affecting first class townships, for showing of automobile fines and providing for licensing of cemeteries were indorsed today at the closing session of the Pennsylvania State Association of Township Commissioners in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

The association will seek passage of a bill whereby all voters of a first class township will ballot on annexation of any part of the municipality to an adjoining borough or city. The commissioners likewise will introduce a bill giving a township the right to collect a license from cemeteries. It was held cemeteries are placed in the townships and maintained for residents of adjoining cities, with the district being compelled to maintain roads to the property.

A third bill would provide sharing part of the auto violation fines collected by township police and now turned over to the state. The commissioners held that the local taxpayers must maintain the police force.

The delegates selected Wilkes-Barre for the next convention. State Senator James S. Boyd, president of the Senate, and Representative Grover C. Talbot, speaker of the House, will be principal speakers at the banquet tonight.

Man Tells 'Judge' He's Bootlegger, No Thief

Domonick Tominello, 26, of 8118 Frankstown avenue, and David Brown, 26, of 117 Capitol avenue, were arraigned before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg charged with stealing an automobile license plate.

Brown, incensed, told the magistrate:

"I don't want to be accused of stealing anything. I peddle alcohol and I'm not a thief."

Surprised, Magistrate Rothenberg asked:

"You're a bootlegger?"

Brown replied:

"Yes, that's what I am."

Tominello was held for court on a charge of stealing the license plate. Brown was held for further investigation. The license plate belonged to Howard Hathway, 58 Greenlee road.

T. R. KIN TELLS OF HUNTING

With tales of big-game hunting, Kermit Roosevelt, son of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, entertained more than 1,000 members of the Traffic and Transportation Association of Pittsburgh at the organization's annual dinner last night in the William Penn Hotel.

Hunting tigers in Asia, accounts of near hand-to-hand encounters with lions in Africa, and tales of his father's hunting experiences were included in Roosevelt's address.

He was introduced by W. I. Nokely, traffic manager of the Michigan Alkali Company, and director of the Detroit Board of Commerce. Roosevelt was officially welcomed by G. E. Greer, president of the local organization. The Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, of the Mt. Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church, pronounced the invocation.

3 FACE HEARING IN NUMBER RAID

Three men were to be arraigned today before Alderman Thomas M. Geary on charges of operating a lottery as a result of a County Detective raid on an alleged night numbers headquarters at 106 South Millvale avenue last night.

Fifty persons, two of them women, were in the place on the second floor as the number was being selected by spinning wheels when Detectives Frank Ritz, Thomas Calig, John Moses, Samuel Riddle and Leo Dunn battered down the door.

A lookout man's warning resulted in a scramble for the exits, but no one escaped. Three lottery wheels, two adding machines, a typewriter and several thousand number slips were found, the raiders said.

The two women, both patrons, were released but the men were taken to County Detectives' headquarters where they were questioned by District Attorney Andrew T. Park. They gave their names as Philip Frankione, of 70 Congress street; Paul Rodgers, of 4640 Friendship avenue, and William Fettis, of 4911 Jordan way.

FASHION SHOW BEING HELD

A fashion show planned to please husbands—because it demonstrates knitted clothes for women to make—is being held at Joseph Horne's store today and tomorrow.

Four models show 25 types of knitted dresses, the presentations tomorrow being made at 11 a. m. and 2:30 and 4 p. m. Models remain on the floor all day, at the yarn studio, fourth floor, to demonstrate any particular dress on request. Dresses are in spring and summer styles.

The purpose of the show is to call attention to the Yarn Studio, a permanent institution, where two instructors will take measurements, show women how to fit any of the patterns demonstrated to their individual requirements. The Studio carries pastels in silk boucles, crepe boucles, crinkle yarns, a complete line of the latest yarn styles.

The models are supplemented by style photographs of other New York creations for which materials can be supplied. Ethel Pearson, of New York, is here to superintend the show, and explain the new spring and summer fashions in knitted ware.

All the dresses shown are hand made.

PREACHER JURY IN DEADLOCK

MUNCIE, Ind. Jan. 27.—(Universal)—The Delaware County grand jury today was reported deadlocked on the question of indicting the Rev. G. Lemuel Conway on a charge of an attempted attack upon Helen Huffman, pretty high school senior.

The jurors have heard testimony for three days, including that of Miss Huffman, who declared that the 55-year-old pastor of the Madison Street Methodist Episcopal Church discarded his clerical role after he had induced her to accept a ride in his automobile last December 29.

Some of the jurors were said today to favor an immediate indictment. Others have held that it is merely her word against his, although Conway has not appeared before the grand jury to make denial or to be questioned. At his study today, it was reported that he was "out of town."

SHERIFF'S SALE BLOCKADE ON IN 9 STATES

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 27.—(AP.)—With an estimated $1,500,000,000 at stake in the form of mortgaged debt in nine states, midwestern farmers today stuck with firmness to their campaign against foreclosure sales.

From Le Mars, Ia., where the movement gained impetus several weeks ago, to Idaho and Oklahoma, reverberations were heard in the courts, Governors' chambers and in continued gatherings of determined farmers.

ADDED PROTESTS

Oklahoma, Idaho and Ohio farmers added their protests yesterday to those of Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Wisconsin and the Dakotas. Census figures for 1930, the latest available, listed the aggregate of mortgages on farms in these nine states at $1,530,081,408.

At Tulsa, Okla., three judges declared a virtual moratorium on mortgage default foreclosures until March 13. Their decision does not apply to contested cases.

Nampa (Idaho) farmers demanded legislative relief and one spokesman threatened to get a "six-shooter and four red-blooded men" to force legislation.

Eight hundred Ohio farmers at Bowling Green, forced a finance company bidder to withdraw and bought $800 worth of property for $14, then returned it to the original owner.

GOVERNOR AIDS

In Iowa, Gov. Herring assured a group of Wapello County of his co-operation in delaying farm mortgage sales. Meanwhile an Iowa district judge denied an injunction sought to restrain an insurance company from foreclosing on a farm mortgage. However, the judge continued the foreclosure suit until the March court term in accord with Gov. Herring's recent proclamation calling for sale postponements. At Le Mars farmers prevented foreclosure of the home of a dentist, to whom many said they owed dental bills.

In Nebraska a Sarpa County Sheriff prevented more than a score of bidders at a chattel mortgage foreclosure from obtaining goods for minimum prices by serving each with an injunction. Thereafter the sale proceeded normally and average prices were obtained, the Sheriff said.

Ohio Farmers Pay $14 For $800 Property at Sale

BOWLING GREEN, O., Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Eight hundred grim-faced Wood County farmers silenced a finance company bidder by their numbers, bought about $$800 worth of a neighbor's property at auction for $14—and told him to keep it.

Whether the sale was legal, however, was a debated point.

The sale was held yesterday at the farm of Wallace Kramp, four miles west of here, to satisfy an $800 mortgage on his property. Prosecutor Raymond E. Ladd and Sheriff Bruce Platt also were there, "tot maintain order," they said.

The first item offered, a spring harrow, brought a bid of 15 cents. The bid stood until John Crom, manager of the finance company, spoke up:

"One dollar and 35 cents."

Someone shouted:

"That's the guy that owns the mortgage."

McQuiston Again Heads Industries

Curry, director; Charles E. Wegner, industrial manager; Oscar L. Raup, promotion and sales manager.

Man Held in Deaths Of Two Girl Hikers

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Charged with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the deaths of two girl hitch-hikers, Nicholas P. Serianni, Butler bandmaster, is free under $2,000 bail today.

Parents of the two girls, O. L. Davis and Lloyd McCullough, filed information against the defendant in Armstrong County Court after Serianni was exonerated by a Coroner's jury at Kittanning.

Accused by Parents, Man Tries Suicide

SOMERSET, Pa., Jan. 27.—(AP.)—A charge of attempted suicide was added today to two counts which police hold against 21-year-old J. L. Blattenberger, accused of disorderly conduct and threats against his parents.

Your Income Tax

Errors Frequently Made by Income Taxpayers

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

(This is the fifth of a series of articles analyzing the Revenue Act of 1932 and discussing the problems of income tax payers.)

Errors frequently are made by income taxpayers in reporting their personal exemption and credit for dependents when there has been a change in their status during the year.

Under the Revenue Act of 1932, any change affecting the personal exemption or the credit for dependents of a taxpayer must be apportioned in accordance with the number of months before or after the change.

For the purpose of this apportionment a fractional part of a month shall be disregarded unless it amounts to more than half a month in which case it shall be considered as a month.

As an example, a man who married on June 3, 1932, would take credit for personal exemption as a single person for five months, and as a married person for seven months. His exemption would amount to five-twelfths of $1,000, or $416.66 plus seven-twelfths of $2,500, or $1,458.33. The total of this would be $1,874.99. If his wife also had an income during the year she would be entitled to claim personal exemption as a single person for the five months before their marriage, which would then make their total exemption $2,291.65 for the year.

If separate returns are filed, each would take the exemption as a single person for the five months. The exemption as a married couple could be taken by either of them or divided between them.

If they had been married on June 16 or some later date of the month, they would take credit for six months' personal exemption as single persons and six months as married persons, since they would have been single for more than half the month of June.

BIRTH CONTROL TOPIC AT 'Y'

Restriction of the nation's growth was held necessary while scientific industrial order is established by Dr. Albert P. Van Dusen, speaking on birth control before a Thursday Night Dinner Club at the Downtown Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Van Dusen

Dr. Van Dusen represents the National Committee on Federal Legislation for Birth Cotrol. He formerly was a professor of psychology at Syracuse University. Terming the cradle as the pivot of civilization, Dr. Van Dusen said:

"There is a direct relationship between birth control and the family, the state, the school, the industrial order and the church. Whatever changes may occur in organization and operation of government, the nation always will be faced with the task of regulating its rate of growth, to some extent, and the still more difficult task of improving the quality of the population. Any economic order will get into trouble if it overlooks the biological trends and capacities of the nation."

Babe Ruth

The program, carried locally by WJAS, features an informal conversation between Hill and the diamond ace, during which Ruth is to enumerate the little-known incidents which marked the turning point in his career. A musical background is provided by a 35-piece ensemble directed by Nat Shilkret with Nelson Eddy, concert baritone, as soloist.

Revealing some of the drama of the medical laboratory, Dr. Simon Flexner, director of the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research, speaks over KDKA tonight at 10:45 on "Triumphs of Experimental Medicine."

"A Mother's Role When Sons and Daughters Marry" is the topic of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's weekly talk on WCAE tonight at 9:30. A musical program by Leo Reisman's Orchestra, with Lee Wiley and William Scholtz as soloists, also is heard.

George Dewey Washington, Negro baritone appearing currently at Joe Hiller's Show Boat, offers another quarter-hour program of popular songs and spirituals on WJAS at 10 tonight . . . Globe-Trotting

With the Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I was as much surprised as you were when I discovered that I conveyed the idea that Ann Rutledge was Abraham Lincoln's wife. I thought the first person who called was spoofing, but after the fifth call I knew I wasn't being spoofed and today's mail emphatically proves it. Mrs. J. M. Jones and Mrs. Elmer Kerr both point out that the lovely Ann was Lincoln's sweetheart who died before Lincoln could marry her.

Do you have trouble with your jig-saw puzzle? Shirley Smith, three-year-old, of Beadling, is the neighborhood wonder; sometimes stumping the older folks in her uncanny ability to place the elusive pieces together.

Anne J. D. Muenschen, Dormont, noticed a peculiar trill to Mr. Robin's song, indicative perhaps of the approach of the vernal season. However, when you see the youngsters outside with their marbles then you can rest assured that spring has arrived.

We always had a suspicion that it was true, but Marlene Dietrich proved conclusively that the women wear the trousers of the family. And now Mr. Kimmelman reports that a store in East Liberty, patterning after Hollywood, had a model standing in the window displaying the new men's clothes for women . . . Wait, ladies, the men will start wearing kilties; and how will you like that?

Miss Ferguson, Lawrenceville—Sweet of you.

Miss Deavy, Stanton avenue—You bet I will. John Branton, Sheraden—Hope it means what you think. E. H. Reynolds, Wilkinsburg—Reported it to the proper authorities. It's a problem.

Roxy Europe-Bound, Denies Quitting

Although Roxy (S. A. Persistent rumors that he has resigned continue to be as persistently denied. . . . Ralph Kirbery became a "good Samaritan" the other night, rushing two victims of a hit-run crash to the hospital . . . but before he could continue his trip to the studios they discovered his identity and a miniature recital ensued.

Here's something different, it. Watch for a tip tomorrow. Let's see what you can do with

By KENNETH A. NAGEL
Cipher Editor

Here's a new kind of a cipher. It may stump you for quite a while. This is Cipher No. 49, and contributed by William H. Dulz, of McKees Rocks.

"Bogie" on this is one hour. If you are good you may do it in an hour and a half. It is quite a cipher, and should cause a bit of worry. Now pick up your pencil and go to work.

A tip will be given tomorrow. It should throw a little light on the subject. Write the Cipher Editor and let him know how you are getting along.

Now for Cipher No. 48—It was easy wasn't it? You obtained the message by reading every third word.

Original ciphers come from: L. M. Aspinwall, of 6411 Kentucky avenue; Oscar Peterson, of Hollidays Cove, W. Va.; Wolford Kraybill, of Beaver, Pa.; Malcolm Nevins, of New Kensington, Pa.; James T. Bryan, of Homestead; William H. Traynor, of Avalon, and W. G. Widmyer, of Punxsutawney, Pa. Widmyer writes:

"I enjoy working the ciphers, and the easiest one for me was the typewriter cipher. I had the solution to that one in less than two minutes."

SOLUTION TO No. 48
By MILTON G. LEHMAN, JR.

"MANY A GENIUS KNOWS MAN IS ONLY BUT TWO TIMES THE PER CENT OF HIS INSPIRATION, BUT HE AND ALMOST OVER NINETY-EIGHT TIMES HIS PER CENT IS NOT PERSPIRATION."

Did you solve it? The answer was:
"Genius is two per cent inspiration and ninety-eight per cent perspiration.

Divorces were granted to Dorothy Carlson Quillen from Charles Quillen, George Joseph Schmidt from Anna C. Schmidt, Albert R. McQuaide from Evelyn McQuaide, and Mabel Reichert from John J. Reichert.

Modern Burglars Use Old Autos As 'Jimmies'

ATLANTA, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Ultra-modern burglars have solved the problem of what to do with old automobiles here—they're using them for "jimmies."

Anyway, police said robbers who broke into an auto supply house yesterday and stole a quantity of goods used that method of entry. They smashed in the door of the building with the car and left it when they fled.

WOMEN OPPOSE SCHOOL CHANGE

The League of Women Voters in Allegheny County was on record today in opposition to the proposed change of the school code to give Pittsburgh an elective instead of its present appointive school board.

A resolution adopted at the League's monthly conference in the Congress of Women's Clubs yesterday said:

"The League of Women Voters is opposed to the bill changing the Pittsburgh School Board from an appointive to an elective school board."

COX RECEIVING NO AGENCY AID

Father Cox gets no assistance from organized agencies nor funds in carrying on his work among the jobless and destitute. He depends entirely upon voluntary donations of food, clothing and money from the public.

In making a survey as to where the greater part of his donations come from, it was disclosed that the bulk came from cities, towns and boroughs outside of Pittsburgh—Braddock, Greensburg, Latrobe, Trafford, McKeesport, Coraopolis, Monessen, Homestead, Aspinwall, Castle Shannon, Washington, Charleroi, Allison Park and communities of like character. Father Cox thought that this was because these communities, although they have unemployment problems of their own, feel that the greater destitution is in the larger cities, and that the helping hand should reach the hundreds, engulfed in city life.

Father Cox gets a liberal cash commission for his unemployment relief fund for every Sun-Telegraph subscription that comes in on the blank on this page. Another substantial check is being delivered to Father Cox today by the Sun-Telegraph on account of subscriptions received in this special campaign.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young — to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

It takes a newspaper story like the one the other day to remind most of us that Police Commissioner Mulrooney's sentinels are dependable—and worth every dime in taxes we have to pay to keep them on the job . . . Bravo to Patrolman Thomas Conroy of Traffic B for handing Magistrate Hirschfeld a ticket for passing a light, obstructing traffic and insulting the policeman who was alert enough to keep reckless motorists from running down your mother, father, sister, brother, children, wife or sweetheart . . . The story is all the more thrilling, exciting and comical because the Magistrate, who has been in the papers before with his sharp opinions—served as Magistrate of the Traffic Court, where he must now appear as defendant! . . . The stories add that the judge cussed the cop, and warned him that if he insisted on handing him a summons, that the cop might lose his job . . . But the officer refused to be bullied and kept his oath to his superiors to see that law and order were carried out . . . Bravo, again! . . . Now, what worries me, and probably many other citizens, is this: What is Commissioner Mulrooney going to do about it? . . . Will the hasty-tempered Magistrate's influence have the officer fired—transferred, demoted or robbed of any merits? . . . If Officer Conroy is in any way troubled by the incident, I wish he'd let the papers know . . . And then will the fun commence — OboyOboyOboyOboyOboy!

The New York news hocus-focusers (photographers in plain tukk!) are evening matters with Mayor O'Brien, who made it so tough for the camera-menaces (not aces!) at his inaugural to get pictures of him and it . . . So at their annual ball at the New Yorker on February 17—the only notable of Official Manhattan who won't be asked to be there—will be Mr. O'Brien—so, there! He goes home too early anyhow. . . . I'm oof'ly soddy that Marlegs Dietrich is featuring men's wearing apparel. The fad she started in Melancholywood is catching on, and other movie gals are wearing long pants, dinner jackets ties and derbies. . . . I wouldn't mind so much—if the girls with parenthesis—()—for legs wore trousers, but, oh, the crime of it when gals with exclamation points—!!—put on pants! . . . There really ought to be some sort of a law against the thing—and unless Marlegs and the other lovelies out there stop this very terrible vogue—I will either ask for their deportation, or send them anonymous letters and call them names. It's the ingratitude of the thing that works me up into a lather . . . Granted that Miss Dietrich is a capable actress—and she probably has a pretty face, too, but it is her shapely !! that made her rich in America—and she's being very snide and very old phoooffy treating us this way. Shucks!

Very clever series of adverts that that ciggie firm now offers, in which famous magic is exposed . . . But the Society of American Magicians, Local 3, feels bitter about the expose, arguing that by showing the public how It Is All Done—many a magician's livelihood is being ruined . . . Of course, the ciggie firm's ads answer the complaint every time a trick is revealed—for the ads credit the source—a book published by a magician! . . . Seems to me that the magicians have one of their own comrades to thank for this last straw that the depression brought . . . Nothing holds my attention so much as a clever trickster . . . Giovanni, from Budapest, who recently came to New York, held many of us spellbound with his long and varied routine of now-you-see-it-now-you-don't! . . . Giovanni, 54, has amused kings in the old country with his stunts, and he was the rage over there. He comes to the Hollywood Cafe here February 4—and I warn him that New York has clever pickpockets, even if they haven't as yet matched his own score of once robbing a dozen London men in 30 seconds . . . His most amazing and most fascinating trick is taking your ring, which you see all the time. You clasp the ends of a drumstick tightly and presto! . . . The ring's on the stick!"

It's little things like this that make big people seem bigger . . . I mean Mrs. Roosevelt . . . The other day, f'instance, when Mrs. Roosevelt was flying to Chi and the fog forced all planes to the ground at Cleveland, O., she continued via the choo-choos . . . A news cameraman, representing a Chicago gazette, took her likeness and then said to her: "There are no planess anymore tonight, and I'll catch the dickens in my plates are not at my paper in Chicago in the morning. Will you please take them with you? My paper will have a man meet you at the station" . . . "I'll be glad to!" said Mrs. F. D. R., and she delivered the lad's plates as promised without breaking one, so well did she guard them. Now, there's an obliging lady for you, and while the papers must have recorded it already, let's write it here again to keep the story alive a little longer . . . Jack Pearl felt a bit put out because I copied The Crosley Report on top-notcher radio favorites . . . Jack argued I must have been inaccurate, for the one-two-three report ran—Cantor, Wynn and Vallee. So I checked it again to make doubly sure, and I found that the last list was November's and that the new one is due any day now. It very likely will show Jack Pearl either 1, 2 or 3—for he is among the radio pets, and the best feature my former air sponsor ever had . . . However, the new Crosley Report, which some soreheads call the Double-Crosley Report, did rate Rudy Vallee No. 3, as reported here . . . A flukey three, it seems, for they combined Rudy's rating with the new variety show he recently inherited . . . By rights, Jack Pearl (alone) topped him by 4 points.

Very funny—true or not . . . Why the federal jail in Lewisburg, Pa., opened recently instead of long ago on schedule . . . Through some unbelievable oversight, it appears, they discovered that the locks on the cells were on the inside! . . . And they feared that if the hoosegow was opened then—prisoners not only would lock themselves in—but keep their keepers out! . . . Glad Irene Taylor is progressing . . . I was among the first to shout her name over a 58-station network last year, after I heard her vocal a chorus for a Chicago crew . . . And I caught the deuce, too, for doing it, after I was told I musn't mention her name . . . Wonder why some showmen are like that, anyway? . . . Now Irene Taylor is with Whiteman, and may soon solo it for a hookup . . . Thus she belongs with the R. Ettings, the M. Balleys, J. Fromans and the other easy-to-listen-to-canaries . . . There's a news-reel suggestion down in the grape belt at No. 83 Elizabeth St. . . . It's a newly renovated tenement house and a placard reads: "Wine Cellar for Every Apartment!" . . . Do I go for a lovely melody or a good arrangement or a hot plate? . . . Now it's Abe Lyman's version of "Riddle Me This," which is grand. The harp interlude in it is grander . . . Well, I did what my sponsors suggested. I offered a human-interest story on Bernie via the air lanes, and softened up on the quips about Ben—because a few sillies thought I was picking on him . . . Picking on him? . . . Bernie himself tells everybody who wants to know—that he couldn't have bought the valuable exploitation . . . So I told a very sad, but true story, how Ben supports some poor Chicago families . . . And it'll be worse than telling a gag on him, I'll bet . . . For now that his generosity is better known distressed folks all over the nation will play on his heart.

Marlene Can't Start Trousers Fad, Says Designer

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 27.—No matter if Marlene Dietrich wears 'em, women in general will never take to trousers.

So spoke Adrian from his modernistic studio, with its chartreuse-colored walls, its white woodwork, its large central mirror and its ostrich plumes rising out of glass bowls.

Who is Adrian? He is M-G-M's fashion expert, the young man who designed those trick hats and tailored costumes for Garbo and who started an international style craze with Joan Crawford's gowns in "Letty Linton."

"Trousers will persist for beach, for sport wear," he said, "but women will not adopt them generally because, in most cases, they are unbecoming and because they allow small chance for individuality. Miss Dietrich happens to look chic in them. She has gone to extremes. But even she will tire of them after a while.

Adrian

"The appeal of tailored things is that they are trim and gallant. They express the young woman of the day.

"But style is steady evolution. Within the last few years I've adapted so many masculine garments to feminine clothes that it has ceased to be amusing. I intend to veer away from this in the future. But we are not quite ready for it yet. If style evolution is steady, it also is low. We change things gradually."

Peggy Hopkins Joyce showed up at the fights Wednesday night with Sidney Blackmer, and report has it she'll be Joseph M. Schenck's guest at Agua Caliente over the week-end. To interviewers, Peggy observed:

Miss Joyce

"I can't go out much in Hollywood. If I say hello to a single man, immediately rumors start that I'm trying to marry him; and if I smile at a married acquaintance, they say I'm trying to steal somebody's husband. Why lots of women have been married more times than I have."

Peggy has made a mere four trips to the altar.

Too bad about Thelma Todd's automobile accident. In addition to the inconvenience and shock, it cost her a leading role in "Niagara Falls." Universal rushed Shirley Gray into the part . . . According to Claudette Colbert's brother, it will be at least two weeks before the star can return to the coast.

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

A pleasant, wholesome little film, "The Face In the Sky," opened yesterday in the Fulton, with Spencer Tracy, Marian Nixon and Stuart Erwin in the featured roles. Tracy's part is that of a whimsical artist doing portraits of pretty girls on barns to advertise cosmetics and the like. He has, as his life's philosophy, the motto, "hitch your wagon to a star." Put yourself in the clouds, he thinks, and everybody will have to look up at you. So, in his visionary way, he puts his future wife in the clouds, and she would be heiress to gold and a railroad and other things representing wealth.

But, as it turns out, she has nothing but the pretty face and charming manner nature endowed her with, for he finds his "fate" on a farm where he stops to paint a sign, and she is personified by the attractive little Marian Nixon. But, before the wedding bells ring, there are obstacles to be overcome, such as a country boor, son of the brutal farmer, her guardian, who would enslave her under the guise of matrimony. There are difficulties, of course, even jail, but it all works out to a happy ending.

It isn't the greatest literary achievement in the world, but it's nice and comfortable and satisfactory, with all principals in cheery niches. Erwin is good for some laughs as Tracy's rather stupid assistant.

All in a Day

HOTEL ESPLANADE, BERLIN, Germany.—I think I'll move on tomorrow. I've had a good time here and I don't want to wear out my welcome. I've enjoyed the food, I've enjoyed the service. The night clubs were no worse than the rest. The beer gardens gave me a great kick, and so did the beer. The people were kind and considerate. Could any columnist ask for more?

Oh, before I forget, I must tell you a little story. When I said that I enjoyed the service, I forgot to make one little exception. It's extremely difficult to get your complete meal hot when you eat in your room. There's no swank in that remark, by the way. I've been working so doggone hard the last few days that eating in my room is an absolute necessity. You hear that, boss?

At any rate, no matter how many times you urge the waiters to keep your food hot, they always forget instructions by the time the coffee rolls around. The soup holds the right heat, and the meat is liable to be fairly warm. But the coffee, never.

I stood the situation for two days and then I raised the devil.

"Look, Roscoe," I told the waiter, "this makes the third time I've had to tell you that I must have my coffee hot. Now get this straight.

"Whenever I order, you attend to my coffee first. See that it's so hot that you can hardly hold it—and then serve it with my meal. Not after. Do you understand?"

The waiter nodded rapidly.

"Quite," he replied. "I understand now exactly what the doctor wishes. I apologize for what has gone before and assure him that, from now on, there will be a difference."

That night he proved that he understood. Before he served anything else he brought the coffee. It was steaming hot.

And then, when he finally brought my lamb chops, which were now the last items in my meal, they were ice cold! . . .

The beer gardens were positively swell. The crowds are jovial and the orchestras seem to have as good a time as the customers. The spots do not close until 3 in the morning, and they are generally well filled. And the latter statement in spite of the fact that some of the places are almost a complete block in length.

There is no show; the other customers and the large orchestra providing the entertainment. The beer is ridiculously cheap, and it is such beer as we will unsuccessfully be attempting to turn out 10 years after the prohibition law is forgotten—speed the joyous day.

The orchestra has no set program. They sense the mood of the audience and they attempt to fit the mood with their music. They hop from jazz to opera to the old German songs in the space of one number. Every once in so often one of the customers leaps from his table and attempts to lead the orchestra. If he stumbles from too much beer, he directs from where he falls. The orchestra follows him faithfully, the result is a complete discord—and the other customers howl with glee.

When you buy the orchestra a drink, they cease playing immediately. They can be in the middle of an opera, but a bought drink is a bought drink. They all rise, sing a toast to you in which the entire establishment joins, drain their beer, sit down again—and resume playing from whence they left off.

After the number has been concluded, the leader steps out to the roll of the drums. He looks at the buyer of the drink and smiles happily.

"We all thank you very much for the drink," he says in German, "and we take this opportunity to tell you that we also smoke cigars."

The beer-drinkers hear this at least 10 or 15 times a night, yet you'd think that each time was the first time. They roar with laughter and applaud vociferously.

There were three of us again. Each of us had a large beer and two frankfurters. My complete bill for our beer, our frankfurters, our rolls, the 10 beers for the orchestra, the tip and the tax was less than two dollars in our money. And, brothers and sisters, I'm here to tell you that I was one of the biggest customers of the night!

When I reached the street and thought over the hilarious events in that beer garden, I suddenly realized that I had spent one of the best hours of my life. It was all so simple and so natural and so swell.

And then I thought of the worldly-wise people in New York, who, at that very hour, were climbing into evening clothes in order to strain for a good time at the Mayfair or the Casino. And I pitied them. For even if the good time arrived, they couldn't be natural enough to enjoy it . . .

What is going to happen to Germany? Who knows? As long as Von Hindenburg, a greatly beloved character over here, remains alive, the nation will go along as it has been doing for some years. But that man is now in the middle eighties, and even the most optimistic insurance company wouldn't consider him a particularly good risk. They say he is in complete control of all his faculties and he must be a most remarkable man.

The political pot in Germany continues to boil over. There were some 50-odd political parties in the last election, and each one of them had something of a following. After Hindenburg, of course, Hitler has the largest following in Germany. But his power has dwindled and, unless Hindenburg pops off in a hurry, Mr. Hitler won't have enough men left to form a regiment when the big event does take place.

Speaking of regiments, though, that's one thing in which Germany excels at the present moment. It seems to me that every German citizens belongs to some regiment or other—and some of them to two or three. They are always training, walking, marching, drilling, exercising—and for what?

Well, I'll leave the answer to you. And in spite of the internal dissension that must arise when you have so many parties fighting each other, I honestly do not believe that Germany will remain a conquered nation for too long a time. These people are warriors by instinct. And any nation that, only a short time ago, came within 40 miles of conquering most of Europe—and possibly all of it—can never be held too cheaply in the general scheme of things.

I firmly believe that, in the years to come, Germany will find a way out of its present difficulties. The internal strife may yet lead to plenty of bloodshed and terror—but I think it will all wind up with the nation reverting again to a monarchy.

There would be an ironic situation for your whiskers. We fought and won the war to make the world safe for democracy. And the nation that was conquered reverts to a monarchy because it finds that democracy does not pay!! Hallelujah!

Whatever happens, I wish these people well. Because I think they wish us well, too. I wish I could say as much for several other nations that need not be mentioned here . . .

When once the celebration of the New Year is over, we all—that is, those of us who remain in town for the winter—resign ourselves to a rather eventless time as far as social doings are concerned.

This winter, of all winters, we expected to be abysmally dull. But from time to time there has been an event to interest just ever so many of us.

And February will delight us all, for we are going to have a bridal month. Added to the weddings already scheduled for February is one I've just heard about, to take place late next month.

The Edward S. Bilys, of Phillips avenue, announce today the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Dolores Bily, to Raymond Gerard Flannery, son of Mrs. Joseph M. Flannery, of Dithridge street.

Announce Betrothal

Mr. Flannery is a graduate of Georgetown University and the Harvard Law School.

Monday, February 27, is the date set for the wedding.

Virginia Eicher, daughter of the junior Alexander Eichers, of Greensburg, will wed Charles Monroe Thorp, Jr., son of the Charles M. Thorps, of Edgewood, February 16.

To Marry Feb. 16

February 25 will be an important date in the social calendar—the day Jane Irene Marshall, the Charles D. Marshalls' daughter, has named for her wedding to Aiken W. Fisher, son of the Chester G. Fishers, of Beechwood boulevard.

* * *

Miss Ida M. Allerton will entertain the members of the upper school of Thurston Preparatory School, Shady avenue, at a bridge party in her home, Grafton street, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Thurston Bridge

Members of the Thurston School faculty will arrive for tea later in the afternoon. Miss Allerton is a member of the board of trustees.

Darker Colors Predominate At Concert

There was an enormous audience at Syria Mosque for John McCormack last night, but many of the regular concert-goers were not there.

Most of the gowns worn by the smart set were black or dark in color, and conservative. Only a few were notable.

Way and by far the best looking frock worn last night was that of tall, black-haired Mrs. T. J. Hilliard. It was of deep violet-blue, heavy pebble crepe, having a deep cape of the material across the back and shoulders, with wide ruching of green velvet as the only decoration, and very smart it was.

In Red Velvet

Another interesting gown was Virginia Drake's. The upper part of the bodice was of white matelasse, forming brief puffed sleeves, and decorated with silver embroidery. The skirt was of black crepe.

Mrs. H. V. Blaxter and her daughter, Dorothy, were there. Mrs. D. M. Clemson, Betty Shaw in pale frosty-green velvet with the skirt slit, her mother, Mrs. Hugh Campbell Shaw in black chiffon; Clara Dorothea Jenkins in a black and white frock; Mrs. Joseph H. Bialas in white satin with a draped brief jacket of flame silk.

Arriving with her mother, Mrs. John E. Nelson, was young Peggy Nelson in white crepe with a wrap of ruby-red velvet; Dr. and Mrs. William L. Mullins, Darragh Mullins were there, and the James O. Flowers with Mrs. Flower in black.

Wrap of Ruby-Red

Mrs. B. F. Jones III, chose a pale green crepe dress with tucking and mink fur for decoration; Laura Childs was in rich, dark blue velvet with scarlet as accent. Laura arrived with Mrs. James G. Pontefract.

The John G. Hoffstotts, of Greensburg, occupied a box. Mrs. Kirland W. Todd, Mrs. T. Clifton Jenkins, Elizabeth George, Louise Baton in fuschia crepe, Mrs. George S. Baton, Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., Juliet Hillmans, Mrs. A. S. F. Keister, the David I. McCahills and their twin daughters, Marie and Marguerite. Mary Louise Succop and Mrs. George L. Craig, Jr., were others in the audience.

Squirrel Hill Club Awards Scholarships

3 Clubs to Aid Benefit Show Next Week

The Women's Community Association and the Neighborhood Club of the Twenty-seventh Ward are aiding in the promotion of the benefit minstrel and vaudeville show to be presented by the Golden Rule Club in the David B. Oliver High School Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Proceeds of the production will be used by the club to supply 325 families of the district with food, shoes and coal.

Charles M. Burgoyne is president of the Neighborhood Club, Mrs. Herman Peter, of the Community Association, and Samuel J. Grenet, of the Golden Rule Club.

Sorority Honors New Members at Breakfast

Kappa Chapter of Theta Phi Alpha of the University of Pittsburgh, held a breakfast at the Arlington Apartments the first of the week, honoring two new members, Miss Bernadine Kittell, of Ebensburg, and Miss Eva Sypniewski, daughter of Attorney and Mrs. C. W. Sypniewski, of Darragh street.

Girl Scout Head Returns From Ohio Trip

Miss Josephine Schain, national director of the Girl Scouts, has just returned from a trip through Ohio in the interests of the organization.

In Columbus, Akron and Cleveland in talks before women's clubs, Rotarian meetings and groups of foreign-born women, Miss Schain explained how the Girl Scout program could supplement the recreational and playground program of the city.

She pointed out the fact that Gir Scout leaders, because of their training, might even save many municipalities the expense of paid professional leaders. Girl Scout troop leaders, she reminded her audiences, are all volunteers who are trained in the technique of the Girl Scout method of play and development.

Marionettes Suggested As Scout Troop Work

Directions for making marionettes, the fun of giving marionette performances, and the quaint legend surrounding the origin of these increasingly popular puppets, are described in the February issue of the American Girl Magazine which is published by the Girl Scouts.

Alma Gibson Baker suggests a marionette play as a fascinating troop activity for Girl Scouts, who may thus turn their work on many proficiency badges into practical experience. They may work towards such badges as artist, business woman, craftsman, electrician, dressmaker and minstrel.

Miss Camma Town Is Married to W. J. Ward, Jr.

By CHOLLY KNICKERBOCKER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—The uniquely named and attractive Camma Town, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David E. Town, of this city, assumed matrimonial honors at noon Wednesday as the bride of William J. Ward, Jr., son of the Senior Mr. and Mrs. Ward, of Brooklyn.

The ceremony which had for its setting the apartment of the bride's parents, was solemnized by Msgr. Hickey, of Brooklyn, and a wedding breakfast for relatives and a few close friends followed.

Camma, who was presented into young Ward's keeping by her father, donned for the occasion a gown of alencon lace, over satin with which she wore a small hat and carried a muff of talisman roses.

For her only attendant, Camma had her sister, Eleanor Town, who was attired in a creation of blue crepe. Her small hat was of a corresponding shade, and to complete the ensemble she carried a boquet of spring flowers.

The new Mrs. Ward attended the Mary Burnham School at Northampton, Mass., and the Finch School in this city. Her father is an executive of the Hearst organization.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Georgetown University and is associated with Wood Struthers & Co.

'Y' Budget Fund Reported at $49,232

Yesterday's report in the budget campaign of the Young Women's Christian Association at a luncheon meeting in Central Branch brought the total to $49,232. The workers are meeting again today to report further progress in their efforts to raise the $107,000 objective.

Miss Isabella Chalfant, member of the metropolitan board of directors was the presiding officer at the meeting and the principal address was given by the Rev. Dr. Sanford W. Cochran, superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Church Union.

In these days of stress, the community should not skimp in its support of character building agencies, Dr. Cochran said. Lost youth is irreparable and there are many other places in which saving can be done before support is cut from those agencies which are supporting young womanhood, he insisted.

Lame Duck Change Muddles Social Schedules

WASHINGTON.—One of the things that hasn't yet been figured out about the lame duck amendment is what it will do to the White House social program.

Even that socially erudite portion of the government, the State Department's division of protocol, just threw up its hands and said no one could possibly tell.

But it's sure to be a jolt, and a terrific one, to society events as they now center in the White House, to have the President come in on January 20, instead of March 4; and to have Congress start on January 3, instead of early in December.

The beginning of the winter's "social season" has traditionally coincided with the December opening of Congress with the whole capital waiting to fix their own dates until they knew when they will be asked to the White House for the official receptions and dinners which rolled along until Lent.

But when the Roosevelts come in, with a Congress that doesn't get under way until January, it would seem that some new starting date would have to be devised, or the program cut.

Certainly, the 12 events which the Hoovers have scheduled each year in the White House could hardly be crowded in between New Year's and Lent.

But the greatest social crisis would come in those quadrienniums which bring in a new President.

Consider the comfortable, slow-moving social tempo of the past. A President was inaugurated in March. He and his wife had a whole comparatively carefree summer in which to read up on the precedents and precedence of state dinners and receptions.

Gossipy Chat With Nancy Jane

Mrs. H. H. McClintic took her young grandson, Petey Love, the George H. Loves' son, to church with her one Sunday.

When Petey kept chattering to his grandmother after the services began, she told him he mustn't talk in church.

"That man" was the Rev. Dr. E. J. Van Etten, pastor of Calvary Episcopal Church.

"Come with me today
"And we'll have tea upon the green.

Sheraden Groups Giving Aid to Eye Clinic

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG.

An eye clinic is the newest beneficence which the Langley Parent - Teacher Association and the Woman's Club have brought to Sheraden. The three parent-teacher associations, the Board of Trade, the Woman's Club and its Junior Section have co-operated with the Allegheny County Medical Society in establishing the clinic, which is being equipped and will be maintained as a permanent institution, being open Tuesday and Thursday of each week.

As a benefit for the equipment fund a card party will be held at Elks' Hall, the evening of Friday, February 17. The need for the clinic was made apparent when the school nurse reported 250 cases of impaired vision which could not be taken care of. Such a report was all that was necessary to start Mrs. Alfred C. Ackenheil, Langley P. T. A. president, and Mrs. Eugene Morgret, chairman of work for the blind in the Woman's Club, on a campaign for the much-needed and now materialized clinic.

Langley unit, by the way, is having emergency sewings all day each Thursday in the high school, a new activity which was inaugurated yesterday. On Wednesday the members entertained the students who will enter in February. While the boys and girls were shown over the school by students already enrolled, their mothers were guests at tea. Langley realized $126.50 from its recent scholarship aid benefit.

Legion Council to Hear Talk on Battlefields

A program of interest has been prepared by the Allegheny County Council of the American Legion Auxiliary for its monthly meeting at the Congress of Clubs on Wednesday afternoon. Robert K. Cochrane, county commander of the American Legion, and the American Legion Auxiliary chairman, Henry Yute, will speak, but the principal speaker is Dr. William J. McGregor, who will describe a tour of European battlefields which he made last summer.

Music will be provided by the Mt. Lebanon Women's Club Choral.

The county council has planned a benefit card party at the Oppenheim-Collins auditorium for next Friday afternoon.

RETURN OF BLUE AND WHITE CLOTHES HAILS SPRING MODE

ONE OF the favorite signs of spring—or rather, of approaching spring, is the sudden reappearance of blue-and-white clothes. This means, literally, blue clothes and white ones—not the usual navy blue costumes with fresh white collars and cuffs, but outfits that are as much white as they are blue.

ONE OF the current pets is the white dress of wool or silk—often made in a sports manner—worn with a tailored coat of navy blue. This type of costume is completed with navy blue accessories—shoes, bag and hat. All except the gloves, which are white, and often of washable materials. These are all forerunners of bona-fide spring costumes yet to come.

ANOTHER POPULAR type of dress is the one which has navy blue for its color foundation, but which has a large portion of its make-up in all-white. Just such a frock is the dress in today's sketch. Although half the sleeves are navy blue, they give the impression of a majority of whiteness, due to the clever incrustation cut.

* * *

THE BLUE portion of the dress, which is dark navy, is made of a new type of silk crepe, which has very noticeable wavy traceries in its weave. The white parts are of crepe de chine. Blue and white embroideries mark the elbows.

Mr. Lissfelt

After an absence of five years, the ever-popular Irish tenor, John McCormack, sang again to a large audience in Syria Mosque last night.

Time has told on this luscious voice, but it was early in such excellent training that McCormack can still sing well over difficulties. His enormous breath capacity permits him phrases of unusual length that make his folk music irresistible and stand him in good stead in the music of Haydn and in old English and Italian airs.

Musically we must place McCormack among the most successful of ballad singers. There he is the artist, especially when he sings the songs of his native Ireland. In a song of Wolf he divulges a capacity for art songs, but he allows us to hear so little of this more sophisticated music that his programs become eventually trivial, even of the Sunday school style when we listen in on "Just for Today." Touching tunes, but unworthy of the Mosque programs.

Edwin Schneider played his accompaniments faithfully, but we should never be subjected to such amateur solo music as he offered us, when but a turn of the page reveals the music about to be given by Horowitz, who is indeed setting other standards.

There were many encores in McCormack's best manner, and it surely was a happy evening for those hearing him for the first time. J. FRED LISSFELT.

Helen Bell Rush, soprano, and Earl Wild, pianist, were soloists yesterday morning at the musicale in Hotel Schenley. This is the last of the opening series, and since the quality of performances is generally better, we trust the new course will continue to bring as interesting music and as good singers and players as heretofore.

Miss Rush is a brilliant singer and has a stunning voice. There is sweep to her singing, style that comes from sureness of production which was more noticeable yesterday than on other occasions when we have been privileged to hear her. More color in her high voice would enchance the variety in her singing. Her songs were attractively planned and as encores she gave an air from "La Boheme" and a "Spanish Love Song."

Earl Wild is one of the promising young pianists about town. We may easily pass over the deficiencies of his years and say that his music has a rhythm and a daring that stamp any player for notice. In both Liszt and Rubinstein there was such breadth of expression which we only rarely find among American youths.

Businessmen Here Spurred By Fisher

Appeal to Pittsburgh businessmen to do something constructive in their own industry, which in turn would help general conditions, was made yesterday by former Gov. John S. Fisher at a luncheon in the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce.

Fisher stressed that Pittsburgh, because of its industrial supremacy, was the logical city for the beginning of an upward trend.

7, Paddles Around Cistern Until Saved

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 27.—Swimming lessons learned in a public school here last summer were credited with helping save Ruth Harrison, 7, here yesterday. She fell into the cistern, but paddled around, using strokes she had learned at the public school, until help arrived.

PARK EXPECTED TO DROP CHARGES IF KLINE RESIGNS

NEED OF LARGER BUDGET SLASH POINTED OUT

County Cost Estimates Still Top Revenue Hopes by Millions

Less than $12,500,000 current tax revenue will be available to the county this year if the levy of 8⅜ mills is continued, according to an estimate based on 70 per cent collections. The levy for 1932 was set on the basis of 75 per cent collection, it was said today at the office of the Commissioners.

George E. Meyers, chairman of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes said approximately $1,823,967,240 in real estate valuations is taxable. If 100 per cent collection were possible this would bring in about $15,275,725.64.

It is expected that the poll tax will yield about $382,716. At 100 per cent collection on the $500,000,000 personal property valuations, the four mill tax would produce about $2,000,000.

MILLIONS ARREARS

It was pointed out that the county has outstanding more than $7,000,000 in delinquent taxes for 1932, 1931, and 1930. Another million revenue may be added by collection of part of the arrears. The County receives between $2,000,000 and $2,500,000 from other sources of revenue.

To reduce the budget estimates to a figure anywhere near the prospective revenue will require much bigger cuts within the next week than thus far have been made, the Commissioners agreed today. Less than $300,000 has been cut from the estimates, which total more than $20,000,000. The commissioners say it will be necessary to slash more than $3,500,000.

OPPOSE HOME CLOSING

Chairman C. C. McGovern's proposal to close the Gumbert Home for Girls brought protests from its board of managers at yesterday's budget session. McGovern told Mrs. John S. Sloan, chairman; Miss Nellore Conklin, superintendent, and Dr. John A. Hollinger, member of the board, that cuts would be necessary and asked:

"What would you say if we close the home?"

Dr. Hollinger replied:

"Why do that? Think of the need for such an institution. You might send inmates to other homes but we feel we are really doing something worth while for these girls."

ASKS MORE INMATES

McGovern said he did not intend to close the institution but said drastic cuts in operations must be made. Dr. Hollinger said the reason the cost was about $773 per inmate was that there were only 60 girls in the home. He requested additional cottages and more inmates to show that costs could be cut.

Dr. Hollinger said employes of the home last month took a 10 per cent salary reduction and were ready to discuss further retrenchment.

Register of Wills Mackrell declared he was working shorthanded in his office. Recorder of Deeds Samuel Foster said that last year he had 81 employes on the roll. There are 24 now on furlough, nine working part time and eight working full time.

Trolley Complaints Dismissed by P.S.C.

The protest of five boroughs and a township against changes in trolley service by the Pittsburgh Railways Company has been dismissed by the Public Service Commission at Harrisburg, the commission holding the changes did not materially affect service.

CHAPTER XII.

On Sunday, September Seventh, I went to Northampton by motor and remained overnight, as I had an engagement to speak before a state convention of the American Federation of Labor at Greenfield Monday morning, which I fulfilled. I left that town at once for Boston, stopping at Fitchburg to call my office to learn if there were any new developments. I reached Boston after 4 o'clock that afternoon, and had a conference with some of the representatives of the city. I did not leave Boston again for a long time.

When it became perfectly apparent that the policemen's union was acting in violation of the rules of the department the leaders were brought before the commissioner on charges, tried and removed from office, whereat about three-quarters of the force left the department in a body at about 5 o'clock on the afternoon of Tuesday, September 9. This number was much larger than had been expected.

Stores Looted

The Metropolitan police of more than 100, and the State police of 30 or 40 men, had been kept in readiness and were at once put on duty, the Motor Corps of the State Guard was held at the armory, and that night I kept the Attorney General, the Adjutant General and my secretary at my hotel to be ready to respond to any call for help. As everything was quiet the Motor Corps went home. Around midnight bands of men appeared on the street, who broke many shop windows and carried away quantities of the goods which were on display. Many arrests were made, but the remaining police and their reinforcements were not sufficient to prevent the disorder. I knew nothing of this until morning.

The disorder of Tuesday night was most reprehensible, but it was only an incident. It had little relation to the real issues. I have always felt that I should have called out the State Guard as soon as the police left their posts. The Commissioner did not feel this was necessary. The Mayor, who was a man of high character, and a personal friend, but of the opposite party, had conferred with me. He had the same authority as the Governor to call out all the guard in the city of Boston. It would be very unusual for a Governor to act except on the request of the local authorities. No disorder existed, and it would have been rather a violent assumption that it was threatened, but it could have been made. Such action probably would have saved some property, but would have decided no issue. In fact it would have made it more difficult to maintain the position Mr. Curtis had taken, and which I was supporting, because the issue was not understood, and the disorder focused public attention on it, and showed just what it meant to have a police force that did not obey orders.

State Guard Called

On reaching my office in the morning it was reported to me that the Mayor was calling out the State Guard of Boston to report about 5 o'clock that afternoon. He also requested me to furnish more troops. I supplemented his action by calling substantially the entire State Guard to report at once. They gathered at their armories and were patrolling the streets in a few hours. When they came with their muskets in their hands with bayonets fixed there was little more trouble from disorder.

It was soon reported to me that the Mayor, acting under a special law, had taken charge of the police force of the city, and by putting a guard officer in command had virtually displaced the commissioner, who came to me in great distress. If he was to be superseded I thought the men that he had discharged might be taken back and the cause lost. Certainly they and the rest of the policemen's union must have rejoiced at his discomfort. Thinking I knew what to do, I consulted the law as is my custom. I found a general statute that gives the Governor authority to call on any police officer in the state to

EX-STEEL MAN KILLS SELF

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27.—(INS.)—Theodore C. Seixas, 60, former salesman of the Allegheny Steel Company, of Pittsburgh, committed suicide early today in the exclusive Germantown Cricket Club.

He was found shortly after midnight, lying on a rest room floor with a pistol clutched in his hand and a bullet through his head. Although he was reputed to be wealthy, only $3.81 was found in his pockets.

Seixas maintained an apartment here, although he spent most of his time in New York where his address was listed as 67 Park avenue. His wife and daughter could give no explanation for the act.

He entered the club shortly before midnight and for half an hour stood in silence watching a bridge game. Then, without a word, he walked off into the adjoining rest room and shot himself.

Theodore G. Seixas, who shot himself in Philadelphia today, was employed as a salesman for the Allegheny Steel Company until about a year ago, officials of the company said today. He lived in Pittsburgh many years ago, officials said, but had no relatives here.

Man Will Win Over Machine Or Maybe Not

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Just to show you how fast progress boils, we learned there are ex-technocrats already.

The whole thing is only a couple of weeks old and they've tossed the chatter members out on the toboggan.

Seems strange in these days of over-production that we have been side-swiped by the abundance that started Thanksgiving as a national holiday.

The question of technocracy is whether or not man is superior to his bicycle. We do not believe that machines will wreck our future, for a dog emerging from a sausage machine is in better shape than ever.

This statement will probably bring many protests from spaniel lovers and colonels comfortably retired on half-pay. We shall answer the insults in order of their seniority.

Man shall triumph over the machine. And if he doesn't he can always telephone the garage.

BOY'S 'BURGLAR' HELD RADIO

West End police last night searched the home of Theodore Oltman, at 1110 Tweed street, after receiving a report that a burglar was in the house.

A squad of police, revolvers drawn, found no trace of the burglar. Theodore, Jr., 12, told them he had heard noises in the cellar while his father was visiting a relative. He heard a voice command:

"Stay where you are, don't come down here!"

The boy had been listening to the radio and when police learned what the program had been they concluded the voice he heard came from the loudspeaker.

2 Held in Removal Of Milk Bottles

Leon Gardner, 23, and Frank Burke, 25, both of 131 Beaver road, Emsworth, trapped, police said, as they were about to remove a case of empty milk bottles from in front of a store at St. Marks and Lambert streets, were under arrest in North Side Police Station today on suspicious person charges.

The bottles were owned by the Otto Milk Company, it was reported. Police said the two men were employed by and wore the uniform of Otto's Suburban Milk Company.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Jan. 27.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Glass banking bill passed the Senate. During the long argument over it, so much was printed about what Huey said, that the newspapers never did print what the bill said. We just trust to the good banking judgment of Carter Glass to have something worth while. Glass is an absolute authority on money, and its astonishing that the Republicans were never able to win him over.

CHILI DINNER KILLS CHILD

Four-year-old Rose Mary Hannan was dead today from an illness contracted Wednesday shortly after she had eaten a dish of home-made chili con carne, the Coroner's office reported.

Rose Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hannan, died last night in her home, 466 William street, Mt. Washington. The body was taken to the morgue, where an autopsy revealed a stomach condition.

The girl's father, a patrolman at Mt. Washington Police Station; his wife, Ella, and their son, John, Jr., 5, and William Roper, a friend, suffered ill effects, according to Deputy Coroners Stanley Guzenski and John McQuaid. The recipe included corn and kidney beans obtained in a neighborhood grocery. The cans which contained the chili ingredients were taken to the morgue for analysis.

Downtown Robbers Cut Through Wall

Burglars who broke into an unoccupied apartment at 1306 Forbes street early today, cut a partition to gain entrance to Vogel's market at 15 Magee street—around the corner—and then carried off a safe weighing 300 pounds. The safe contained $110, according to the manager, J. G. Kane.

COUNSEL PLANS NEXT MOVE FOR MAYOR

Executive May Risk Prison Term by Plea For Review

Mayor Kline could end his troubles immediately by resigning from office, it was generally agreed today.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park had no comment to make on such a proposition, but nobody would deny Park probably would agree to a suspended sentence for the Mayor, provided he vacated his office.

The Mayor's attorneys are expected to plan their next move today. This probably will be an application to the Supreme Court to review the case. If the Supreme Court refuses, the Mayor will face Judge Thomas D. Finletter at Butler for sentence, although its actual execution could be further delayed.

The Superior Court on Wednesday reversed Judge Finletter, who had set aside the verdict of guilty of malfeasance returned against the Mayor in Butler. The same court refused the pleas of Bertram L. Succop, former City Supplies Director, convicted with the Mayor, for a new trial or a reversed verdict.

BROWN'S PISTOL FOUND UNFIRED

MT. HOLLY, N. J., Jan. 26.—(INS.)—Discovery of the unfired pistol of Bradway Brown today had convinced all investigators in the case that the wealthy young socialite was murdered.

Brown's widow, Mrs. Ruth McCauley Brown, who was visiting her family in Beaver, Pa., when the young printing executive was shot to death last January 16, at his home near Palmyra, N. J., found her husband's .22-caliber revolver in the closet of a second floor bedroom. It had evidently been tossed aside there by Brown.

Some investigators at first were inclined to believe Brown ended his life with his own gun. Discovery of the gun definitely spiked the suicide theory, in the opinion of Prosecutor Howard Eastwood, who has taken over the investigation because of the illness of Ellis H. Parker, chief of the Burlington County detectives.

HUNT WOMAN'S KIDNAPERS

City police today were investigating a report that a woman was kidnaped and beaten by two men last night in the East End.

Miss Ruth Harris, 30, of Chicago, who is visiting Mrs. Silas Walker at 7208 Thomas boulevard, was the victim. She was reported bedfast today.

Miss Harris was returning to the Walker home from a movie when the two men jumped from an automobile and dragged her into the car, the sleuths were told.

Released several hours later, she made her way to a hospital for treatment for her injuries, the police report stated.

PENCIL RULES ELECTRICITY

Scientists Discover Way to Control Heavy Currents

Scientists have found a new use for the lead pencil.

They are controlling huge electric currents with the lowly pencil, which is said to stand the strain very well—in fact so well that it has failed to show any signs of wear at all after being in constant use "igniting" arcs 60 times a second, 24 hours a day for over nine months.

The discovery, made by two engineers at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, is called ignitron control. Dr. Joseph Slepain and Leon R. Ludwig, the scientists who made the discovery, expressed themselves much surprised over it.

They had searched for some method of positive control over heavy electrical currents for many months. They had used their pencils time and again, figuring, figuring, figuring. All the time the solution was literally in their hands.

The explanation of how the lead carries tiny, minute currents a million times greater in the arc is comparable to controlling by the flip of a small switch in the home, the enormous quantity of current that would be required in a city five times the size of New York, was made by the discoverers to the American Institute of Electrical Engineers today.

County Board Ready To Slice Own Pay

The three County Commissioners today were on record as being ready to cut their own salaries.

The cuts will be made immediately after the budget sessions, the Commissioners returning a portion of their salary each month to the Treasurer.

This announcement was made yesterday during a discussion on the requested exoneration of 1933 taxes on the building housing the Helping Hand Hotel, Water street.

McGovern said:

"I know we have no authority under the law to grant this exoneration, but I can see no good reason for this hotel being kept out of the exempt class in which there is $400,000,000 worth of property. It is better to have those homeless men in the hotel than have them on the street. I move the exoneration be granted."

Commissioner W. D. Mansfield said:

"I won't second this because it's illegal. However, inasmuch as we are going to cut our own salaries within a short time we could do something for this institution. We could let the owner pay the taxes. Out of the voluntary salary return we make to the county we could reimburse the person for the taxes."

Mansfield's plan was received favorably by both McGovern and Commissioner C. M. Barr.

The question of salaries has not yet been taken up in the budget session. Yesterday, Coroner William J. McGregor, Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar, Prothonotary John Vogt, and Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell expressed themselves as willing to meet with the Commissioners to discuss salary cuts and personnel retrenchment.

FINAL SESSION OF COOKERY SCHOOL HELD

The final class of the Kroger Foundation Cooking School and Food Institute was scheduled in Memorial Hall this afternoon.

Some 4,500 women, despite unfavorable weather, attended the first two days of the term.

Mrs. T. M. Stahlman, president of the Congress of Clubs, today was to introduce the lecturer, Helen Watts Schrieber, nationally-known food expert conducting the school. Mrs. Paul Howe, chairman of the home for the Southwestern district of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, officiated yesterday.

"Economy of Food" was the subject of Mrs. Schrieber's lecture yesterday, accompanying her demonstration of recipes. A television-radio program, showing the work of the Kroger Food Foundation, precedes the lecture.

Thirty baskets of Kroger food will be given, at the conclusion of the school, to society women who will have served as ushers, 10 each day. The baskets will be given to the needy through the University Medical Center Aid Society.

The cooking school and institute is presented by the Kroger Food Foundation of Cincinnati. Meetings are free, the last being held between 2 and 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Presentation of new ideas and new methods in all phases of the culinary art has been the chief purpose of the classes. Exhibits by leading food manufacturers, demonstrating details of production and marketing, have been shown.

POLICE CAPTURE 3 IN DOWNTOWN AUTO CHASE

Three men captured last night after a chase through downtown streets in an allegedly stolen automobile were held for court on charges of larceny and misdemeanor at hearings before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg today.

They were Stanley Sheflik, 23, of DuBois; George Foulds, 37, of 91 Wyoming street, and Joseph Shan, 34, of 27 East Lacock street.

Police reported the three were captured after their automobile ran through a red light and collided with another car driven by Patrolman David Slessinger, who was off duty, at Sixth avenue and Smithfield street. Slessinger gave chase and was joined by Lieut. Bert Keller.

The men were captured in William Penn way near Liberty. The car they occupied had been stolen a few minutes before from C. E. Smith, of Bayridge avenue, according to police.

ART

Parcell Exhibition

—By PENELOPE REDD—

Malcolm Parcell has so long been labeled a "prodigy" that many forget that he is only now approaching maturity as a painter. At an age when his contemporaries were plodding along as sophomores in art schools, he had won enviable acclaim. Now Pittsburgh sees the first accounting of his matured talent together with examples of his earlier works in an exhibition of 10 canvases at the Gillespie Gallery which will be on view through February 9. All of the subjects of his earlier years are here, and his mature conceptions of the same subjects.

Miss Redd

First we think of the Parcell of 1920, when the real world and his dream of that world were scarcely to be distinguished one from the other. The maidens of his town, such as the "Ann Rholeen," were creatures lost in enchantments of their own weaving. The "mythological" series of this period, such as "The Ancient Fiddler," transported the same maidens to an innocent Isle of Cytherea. There followed another mood, almost macabre, in which odd architectural relics in the vicinity of Washington, Pa., assumed another worldness in backgrounds for ominous figures that might have wandered out of Hamlet. This phase is not represented in the current show. This entire early period in Parcell's work showed one who had developed an intuitive skill for draughtsmanship to re-emphasize literary ideas.

GRADUAL TRANSITION

Then occurred a gradual transition, as "In Pensive Mood," when the maidens became adumbrated; and Parcell's admirers were none too happy with the result. The habiliments of excellence were present in the integrity of his craftsmanship, but the spirit languished.

Eventually Parcell's great natural talent, increased by arduous application, his sensitive intelligence, and his desire to paint, were to be co-ordinated to function as an instrument for the expression of his mature ideas.

With the acquisition of a farm in the hills beyond the town, his love of the land sought expression in paintings relating the inhabitants to their home-earth, as it 'Winter Landscape." In this canvas, he is as dramatic as in those of his youth, but with the drama inferred rather than starkly stated.

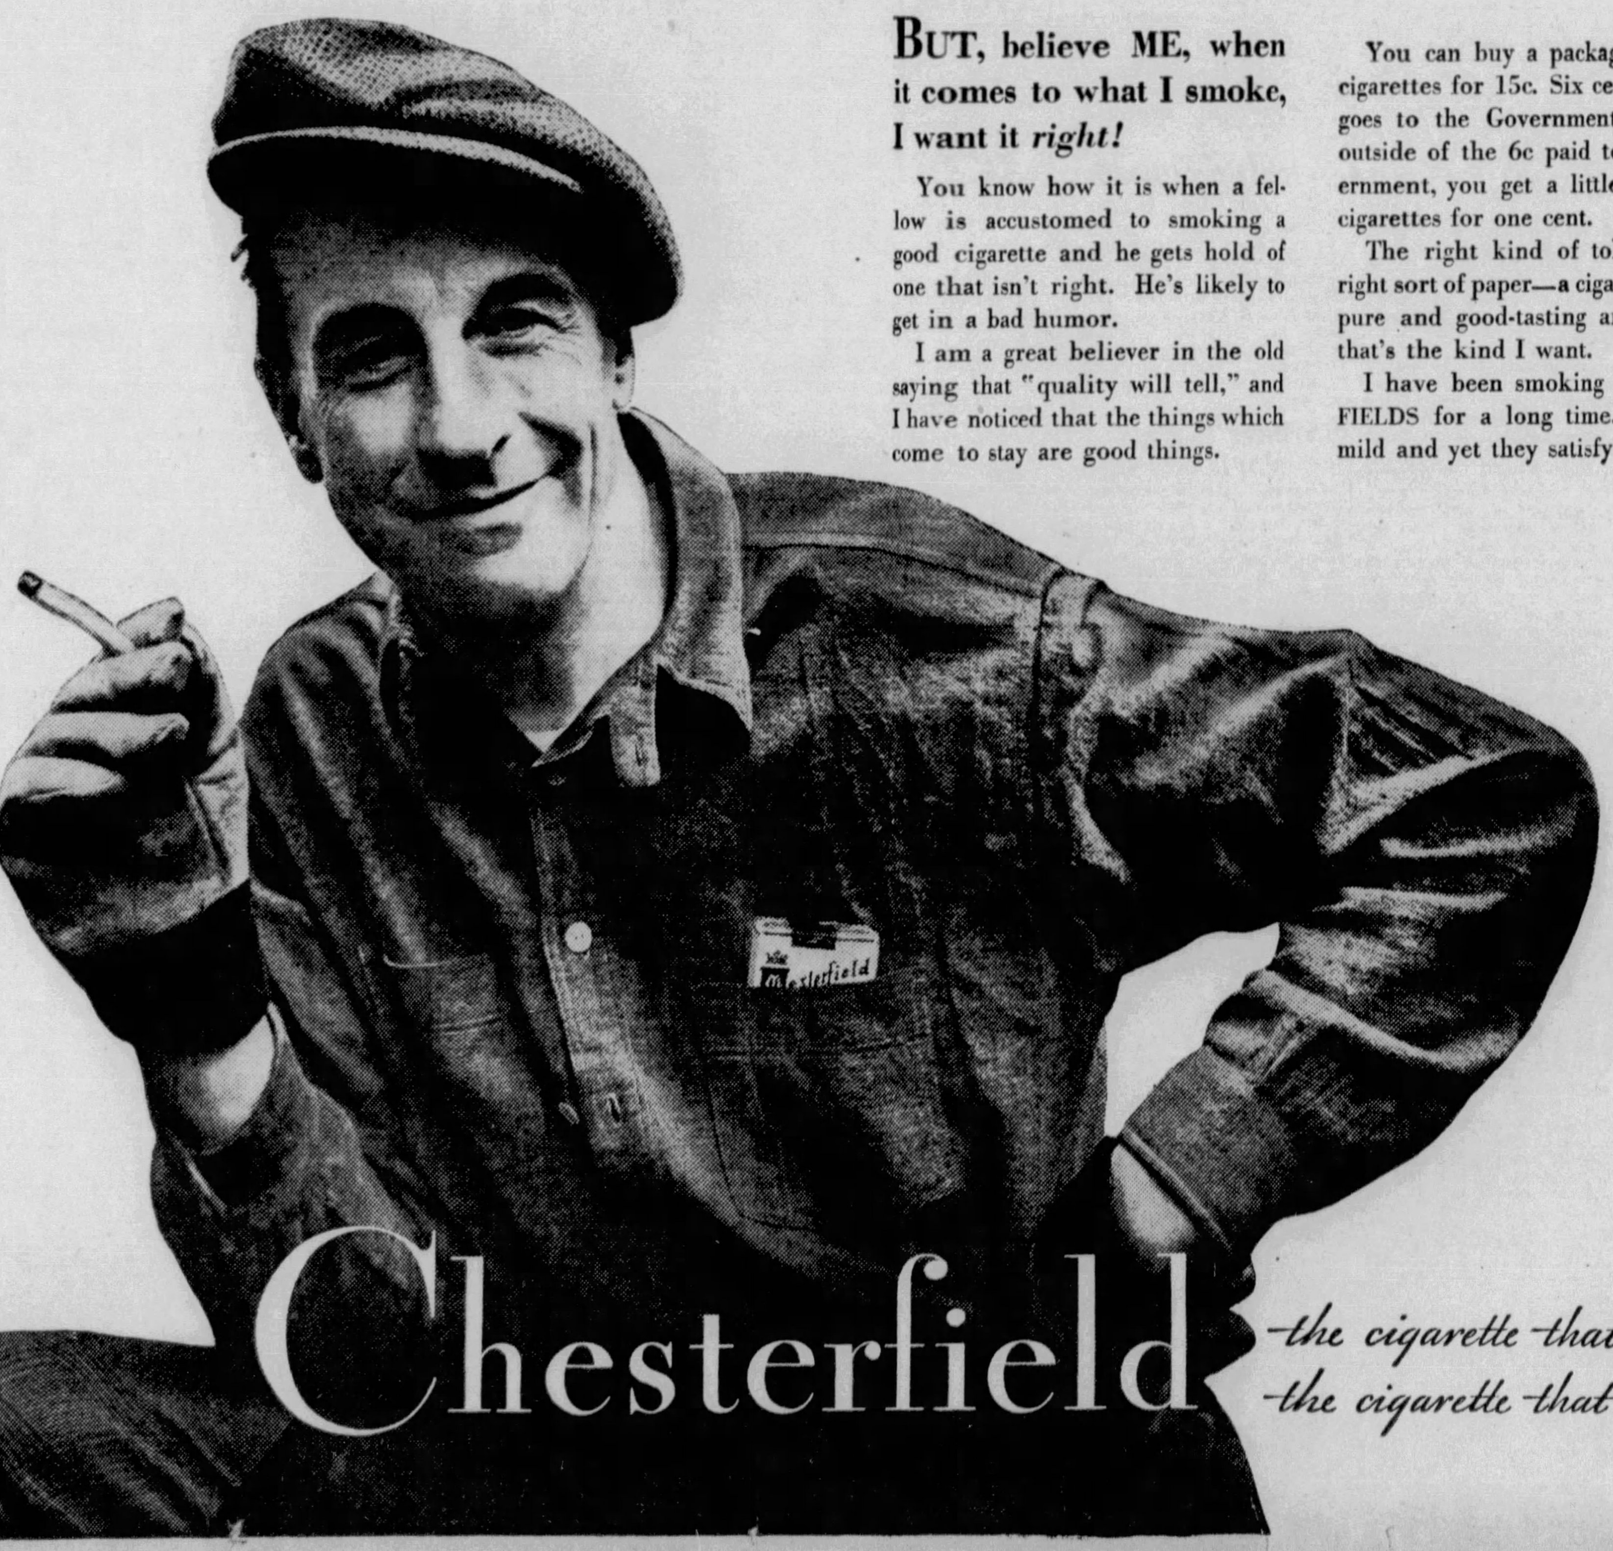
PHILOSOPHY IN PAINT

He developed not only these classic pastorals but other mutations of the idea, as in "June Fantasy," a virtuoso juggling of a blossom-like girl with red hair, against a trellis of Dorothy Perkins roses, and a Victorian farm house in the background. His sincerity shrives it of sentimentality.

His philosophical expressions in paint are indicated in "The Beginning" and "Primitive Man." Parcell is also restudying his own immediate local scene with the idea of converting the microcosm of the small town life about him into the beauty he perceives beneath the cumbersome garments of the prosaic.

Parcell has never for a moment diverged from the traditional vocabularly of superb daughtsmanship, logically established tonal harmonies, and lucid communication of his ideas. He has, however, profited by the conscious intellectual study of his themes, a procedure, characteristic in the evolution of modern painting.

I don't spend very much on Myself—



BUT, believe ME, when it comes to what I smoke, I want it right!

You know how it is when a fellow is accustomed to smoking a good cigarette and he gets hold of one that isn't right. He's likely to get in a bad humor.

I am a great believer in the old saying that "quality will tell," and I have noticed that the things which come to stay are good things.

You can buy a package of good cigarettes for 15c. Six cents of this goes to the Government. So that outside of the 6c paid to the Government, you get a little over two cigarettes for one cent.

The right kind of tobacco, the right sort of paper—a cigarette that's pure and good-tasting and mild—that's the kind I want.

I have been smoking CHESTERFIELDS for a long time. They are mild and yet they satisfy.

STATE'S BURDEN WILL BE EASED BY SALES TAX

HARRISBURG, Jan. 27.—General fund payments during the next few weeks are causing state fiscal officers considerable concern. With the general fund balances lower than any time in recent years it may be necessary to postpone some payments until spring.

The general fund at the close of business on January 25 had a balance of $5,842,944.91. Obligations due within the next week will more than deplete that balance.

Money from the sales tax imposed by the 1932 special session is not due in the treasury until March. It is expected the 1 per cent levy on sales will bring in at least $12,000,000. When this revenue begins coming in the fiscal stringency will be eased considerably.

SCHOOL PAYMENTS DUE

Payments to fourth class school districts are due next Wednesday. These amount to approximately $5,850,000. The present general fund balance is short of that figure alone. On March 1, the second and third class school payments are to be made. These approximate $3,000,000, while those to Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, due April 1, will approximate another $1,370,000. When these payments are made the sales tax revenues will be coming in.

The state payroll approximates $2,000,000 a month, met from the general fund. At least $3,000,000 will be needed to meet the February 1 and 15, and March 1 payrolls before the sales tax receipts bolster up the declining treasury balance.

RELIEF BURDEN

In addition the general fund is obligated for $2,000,000 to be allocated by the state emergency relief board to the counties for February. This money was appropriated by the last special session in passing the second Talbot relief bill.

It will be necessary between now and April 1 for the treasury to pay the other running expenses of the state government. These include supplies, light, heat and power, maintenance costs of state institutions and numerous other items. These, like the payments to schools, salaries and Talbot act obligations, must be met from the general fund.

The $2,000,000 salary roll does not include the pay for members of the general assembly. Each Senator and Representative receives $3,000 for the session plus mileage. In addition there are the salaried and per diem employes of the Legislature to be considered.

Legislators are paid at the beginning of the month. On February 1, and March 1, each will receive at least $500 for each month. There are 256 Senators and Representatives plus the extra help.

One member of the House has not yet taken his oath because of illness and one vacancy exists because of death.

STEAM PERILS 24 MEN IN JAIL

BEAVER, Pa., Jan. 27.—Twenty-one lodgers locked in a basement room of the County Jail had a narrow escape from being parboiled when a steam pipe of the heating system burst and filled the room with scalding water and steam. Screams of the men attracted a guard and they were rescued without casualties.

The men were wrapped in blankets while their clothing was dried, given breakfast and sent on their way this morning.

ARSON SUSPECT SEEKS PAROLE

L. J. Kamons, 48, of Squirrel Hill, one of five persons indicted for murder and arson in connection with the Ellington apartment fire in Cleveland last June, killing 13, now serving a sentence in Western Penitentiary on an arson charge, is going to ask Gov. Pinchot for a temporary parole that he might prove himself innocent of the Cleveland charge.

This development was revealed today as Prosecutor Frank T. Cullitan, of Cleveland, was in Harrisburg seeking a parole for Kamons that he might stand trial and also aid the prosecution in the forthcoming trials.

Fifty and Fit

Why go along with "fairly good health" when you might be enjoying vigor you haven't felt for years?

There's a simple little thing anyone can do to keep the vital organs stimulated, and feel fit all the time. People don't realize how sluggish they've grown until they've tried it. The stimulant that will stir your system to new life is Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. It will make a most amazing difference in many ways.

This famous doctor's prescription is a delicious syrup made with fresh herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. It starts its good work with the first spoonful. That's all you need to drive away the dullness and headache of a bilious spell, and rid the system of that slow poison that saps your strength. It's better than a tonic for tired bowels, and unlike habit-forming laxatives you can take it freely or give it to any child. And it isn't expensive.

Get some syrup pepsin today, and take a little tonight. Don't wait until you're sick to give your system this wonderful help. You can avoid those spells of biliousness or constipation. A spoonful every now and then is better than constant worry about the condition of your bowels, or fear of auto-intoxication as you grow older. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin protects the system. All druggists keep this preparation.

How Coughs and Colds Yield to Creosote

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

CALVIN COOLIDGE'S OWN STORY OF HIS LIFE

assist him. I showed this to the Attorney General and to ex-Attorney General Herbert Parker, who was advising Mr. Curtis. They thought I was right and consulted a profound judge of law, ex-Attorney General Albert E. Pillsbury, who confirmed their opinions. The strike occurred Tuesday night, the guard were called Wednesday, and Thursday I issued a general order restoring Mr. Curtis to his place as commissioner in control of the police, and made a proclamation calling on all citizens to assist me in preserving order, and especially directing all police officers in Boston to obey the orders of Mr. Curtis.

Defection Condemned

This was the important contribution I made to the tactics of the situation, which has never been fully realized. To Mr. Curtis should go the credit for raising the issue and enforcing the principle that police should not affiliate with any outside body, whether of wage earners or of wage payers, but should remain unattached, impartial officers of the law, with sole allegiance to the public. In this I supported him.

When rumors started of a strike at the power house which furnished electricity for all Boston, a naval vessel was run up to the station with plenty of electricians on board ready to go over the side and keep the plant in operation. A wagon train of supplies, arms and ammunition was brought in from Camp Devens and all the State Guard mobilized. A statement was made by President Wilson strongly condemning the defection of the police. Volunteer police began to come in, and over half a million dollars was raised by popular subscription to meet necessary expenses in caring for dependents of the guard and even for helping the families of some of the police who left their posts. Later I helped these men in securing other employment, but refused to allow them again to be policemen. Public feeling became very much aroused. While offers of support came from every quarter the opposition was very active.

Soon, Samuel Gompers began to telegraph me asking the removal of Mr. Curtis and the reinstatement of the union policemen. This required me to make a reply in which I stated among other things that "There is no right to strike against the public safety by any body, any time, any where." This phrase caught the attention of the nation. It was beginning to be clear that if voluntary associations were to be permitted to substitute their will for the authority of public officials the end of our government was at hand. The issue was nothing less than whether the law which the people had made through their duly authorized agencies should be supreme.

Faith Justified

This issue I took to the people in my campaign for re-election as Governor. Though I was hampered by an attack of influenza and spoke but three or four times, I was able to make the issue plain even beyond the confines of Massachusetts. Many of the wage earners both organized and unorganized, who knew I had always treated them fairly, must have supported me, for I won by 125,101 votes. The people decided in favor of the integrity of their own government. President Wilson sent me a telegram of congratulations.

I felt at the time that the speeches I made and the statements I issued had a clearness of thought and revealed a power I had not before been able to express, which confirmed my belief that, when a duty comes to us, with it a power comes to enable us to perform it. I was not thinking so much of the governorship, which I already had, as of the grave danger to the country if the voters did not decide correctly. My faith that the people would respond to the truth was justified.

The requirements of the situation as it developed seem clear and plain now, and easy to decide, but as they arose they were very complicated and involved many immaterial issues. The right thing to do never requires any subterfuges it is always simple and direct. That is the reason that intrigue usually falls of its own weight.

New Problems

After the election I had the work of making the appointments in order to reduce the entire state administration to the limit of 20 departments and a special session of the General Court to deal with some street railway problems, so I had little time to think of politics. But I soon learned that many people in the country were thinking of me.

The two years that I served as Governor were a time of transition from war to peace. New problems constantly arose, great confusion prevailed, nothing was settled and it was possible only to feel my way from day to day. But they were years of progress if partly in a negative way. The new position of the wage earners was perfected and solidified. A 48-hour week for women and minors was established by a bill passed by the General Court, which I signed.

The budget system went fully into effect the first year I was Governor and helped keep the state finances in good condition. The departments were reorganized, and the street railways given relief. In my second year a bill was passed allowing the sale of beer with a 2.75 per cent alcoholic content, which I vetoed because I thought it was in violation of the Constitution which I had sworn to defend. The veto was sustained. A constant struggle was going on to keep the costs of living down and the rate of wages up. A state commission was held in office with increased powers to resist profiteering in the necessaries of life. In the depression of 1920 some of our banks and manufacturers found themselves in difficulties.

All of these things reached the Governor in one form or another. But, in general, conditions were such that the entire efforts of the people were engaged in easing themselves down. There was little opportunity to direct their attention towards constructive action. They were clearing away the refuse from the great conflagration preparatory to rebuilding on a grander and more pretentious scale. Nothing was natural; everything was artificial. So much energy had to be expended in keeping the ship of state on a straight course that there was little left to carry it ahead. But when I finished my two terms the demobilization of the country was practically complete; people had found themselves again and were ready to undertake the great work of reconstruction in which they have since been so successfully engaged. In that work we have seen the people of America create a new heaven and a new earth. The old things have passed away, giving place to a glory never before experienced by any people of our world.

Wins Public Support

No doubt it was the police strike of Boston that brought me into national prominence. That furnished the occasion and I took advantage of the opportunity. I was ready to meet the emergency. Just what lay behind that even I was never able to learn. Sometimes I have mistrusted that it was a design to injure me politically; if so it was only to recoil upon the perpetrators, for it increased my political power many fold. Still there was a day or two when the event hung in the balance, when the Police Commissioner of Boston, Edwin U. Curtis, was apparently cast aside discredited, and my efforts to give him any support indicated my own undoing. But I soon had him reinstated, and there was a strong expression of public opinion in our favor.

The year 1919 had not produced much on the positive side of our political life. President Wilson had returned from the peace conference at Paris determined to have the United States join the League of Nations as established in the final Treaty of Versailles. He found opposition in the Senate both within and without his own party. In attempting to gain the approval of the country he had made his trip across the continent and returned a broken man never to regain his strength. For eight years he had so dominated his party that it had not produced any one else with a marked ability for leadership. During these months the contest was raging in the Senate over the peace treaty, but as a result it had put the leadership of our party in a negative position, which never appeals to the popular imagination and besides in the country many Republicans favored a ratification of the treaty with adequate reservations. Many of the Senators on our side cast their vote for that proposal, which would have prevailed but for the opposition of the regular administration Democrats. In this confusion no dominant popular figure emerged in the Congress, but many ambitions became apparent.

Boosted for Presidency

Following my decisive victory in November there very soon came to be mention of me as a Presidential candidate. About Thanksgiving time Senator Lodge came to me and voluntarily requested that he should present my name to the national Republican convention. He wished to go as a delegate with that understanding. Of course I told him I could not make any decision in relation to being a candidate, but I would try to arrange matters so that he could be a delegate at large. When he left for Washington he gave out an interview saying that Massachusetts should support me.

Very soon a movement of considerable dimensions started both in my home state and in other sections of the country to secure delegates who would support me. An old friend and long time secretary of the Republican National Committee, James B. Reynolds, was placed in charge of the movement, and I was gaining considerable strength. Senator Crane in his own quiet but highly efficient way became very interested and let it be known that I had his support, as did Speaker Gillett, who is now our Senator but then represented my home district in Congress. They both went as delegates pledged to me.

Already several candidates were making a very active campaign. The two most conspicuous were Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood and Gov. Frank O. Lowden. Senator Hiram Johnson had considerable support, and in a more modest way Senator Warren G. Harding was in the field. In addition to these, several of the states had favorite sons. It soon began to be reported that very large sums of money were being used in the primaries.

Withholds Name

When I came to give the matter serious attention, and comprehended more fully what would be involved in a contest of this kind, I realized that I was not in a position to become engaged in it. I was Governor of Massachusetts, and my first duty was to that office. It would not be possible for me, with the legislature in session, to be going about the country actively participating in an effort to secure delegates, and I was totally unwilling to have a large sum of money raised and spent in my behalf.

I soon became convinced also that I was in danger of creating a situation in which some people in Massachusetts could permit it to be reported in the press that they were for me when they were not at heart for me and would give me little support in the convention. It would, however, prevent their having to make a public choice as between other candidates and would help them in getting elected as delegates. There was nothing unusual in this situation. It was simply a condition that always has to be met in politics. Of course the strategy of the other candidates was to prevent me from having a solid Massachusetts delegation. Moreover, I did not wish to use the office of Governor in an attempt to prosecute a campaign for nomination for some other office. I therefore made a public statement announcing that I was unwilling to appear as a candidate and would not enter my name in any contest at the primaries. This left me in a position where I ran no risk of embarrassing the great office of Governor of Massachusetts. That was my answer to the situation.

Nevertheless a considerable activity was kept up in my behalf, and some money expended, mostly in circulating a book of my speeches. In the Massachusetts primaries six or seven delegates were chosen who were for Gen. Wood, and while the rest were nominally for me several of them were really more favorable to some other candidate, partly because they supposed a Massachusetts man could never be nominated, and if the choice was going outside the state, they had strong preferences as between the other possibilities.

LOOK OUT FOR THESE SYMPTOMS OF CONSTIPATION

Get Relief With Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sallow complexions, and sleeplessness are often warning signs of common constipation. Unless checked, constipation may impair health.

Today, you can get rid of common constipation by simply eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regularity. ALL-BRAN is also a good source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than harsh-acting patent medicines.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. Serious cases, with every meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Milk Considered Ideal Food For Adults and Children

This 'Complete Food' Contains the Elements That Guard the Body From Disease and Furnish Energy

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

At a recent meeting of the American Public Health Association the food value of milk was discussed. Its place in the diet and its economic importance were carefully considered. At this meeting it was stated that the health of the country has never been better. But warning was sounded against being too optimistic, because the mental and physical effects of the depression will appear sooner or later.

It is of the utmost importance that we carefully plan our diet and thus insure our bodies protection against infection and disease. To this end I can think of no more ideal food than milk.

Milk is one of the best food investments that can be made. We must not regard it merely as a valuable food for babies. No more substantial foundation for the diet can be found for the child. But for the adult there is nothing better than a liberal amount of milk.

AN ESSENTIAL FOOD

I frequently refer to the importance of a "well balanced diet." It is essential to the proper growth and development of every child. A well balanced diet provides for the child and adult the necessary elements for protection against disease and infection. A child's diet should contain a daily quart of milk, and an adult should have a pint of milk daily.

Milk is often called the most nearly perfect food. It is referred to as a "complete food," for it contains carbohydrates, proteins, and fats. The carbohydrates and fats provide the body with fuel. This fuel furnishes energy and heat. The proteins help rebuild tissues that are worn out or destroyed.

In addition, milk contains important mineral salts, such as lime, phosphorus and iron. These salts supply the necessary elements for the development of sturdy bones and strong teeth. Milk contains other valuable substances known as vitamins. These are essential to growth and to increase the resistance of the body against disease.

CONSERVE HEALTH

Contaminated milk is a menace to the health of the community. It is only advisable to use milk that has been bottled or canned under sanitary conditions. Children raised on such milk are healthier and less susceptible to infections and disease.

Nothing is more timely than the warning of the present need for conservation of strength and health. To this end, milk is important. It is an economical and protective food. Include it in your daily diet. The adult as well as the child will benefit by this clean and wholesome food.

25,000 TO SEEK BRIDGE TITLE

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Contract bridge wizards have decided to settle it once and for all right here in Chicago.

Leading rivals in the art of finessing decided at a meeting last night—at which not a single hand was dealt—to sponsor an international contract tournament here next summer.

Ely Culbertson was there as a representative of the United States Bridge Association, and so was E. M. Lagron, president of the Western Bridge Association. They decided that championship claims of various clubs and organizations would be set aside—that laurels would go to the winners of the local meet, which they said they hoped would attract upwards of 25,000 players.

Incidentally Culbertson revealed that there will be no changes in bridge rules for three years, so if you have learned the game everything will be all right for a while

Prudence Penny's Recipes

CORNED BEEF HASH PUFFS—2 cups corned beef hash, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons chopped dill pickles, ¼ cup water, parsley, 1-3 cup catsup.

Add well-beaten egg yolks to corned beef hash and mix thoroughly. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and drop hash mixture by spoonfuls onto buttered baking sheet. Place under broiler and brown. Combine catsup, chopped pickles and water and heat to make a sauce. Top puffs with hot sauce, garnish with parsley and serve immediately.

CHICKEN SAVOYARD—2 cups cooked chicken, 1 cup chicken gravy or broth, ½ cup sweet or home-made style pickle, chopped, 1 pimiento, chopped, ½ teaspoon salt, buttered toast.

Combine in the top of a double boiler chicken, cut in small pieces, gravy or broth, sweet or home-made style pickles, pimiento and salt. Cook over boiling water 20 minutes or longer. If broth is used thicken mixture with 1 tablespoon of flour mixed to a paste with a little cold water. Stir until thickened. Serve on hot buttered toast or in patty shells.

RICE CROQUETTES—2 cups boiled rice, 1 teaspoon salt, ¾ cup homemade style pickles, chopped and drained, ¼ cup (about) tomato juice, 1 egg, cracker crumbs.

Combine boiled rice, salt and well-drained homemade style pickles, chopped. Add sufficient tomato juice to bind ingredients. Shape into small croquettes. If mixture is too soft, add enough fine cracker crumbs to make it hold shape. Chill. Break egg into a shallow plate and beat slightly. Add to egg 5 tablespoons cold water or milk and ¼ teaspoon salt. Roll prepared croquettes in crumbs, then in egg mixture to cover completely, then again in crumbs. Be sure the entire surface is covered each time. Fry in deep hot fat (390 degrees F.) 2 or 3 minutes or until golden

TELL IT TO ELSIE

Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Song in Heart Means More Than Money in Bank

Peter's gone!
Just like that—
Out of a clear sky!
Said he couldn't stand it any more,
So he packed his gear and went,
And Eve can't understand—
She's been such a good wife,
Always doing the things that were best for Peter—
Making him do 'em, whether he liked it or not—

And now this is her reward.

Oh, why has this happened to her?

Why? Read her letter and maybe you'll guess why.

Dear Elsie Robinson:

I am coming to you because I am just broken-hearted, and maybe you can let a little light into my darkness. I hope you can, for I can't see any myself, and the whole thing seems so unfair.

You see, Peter, my husband, just packed up his things and walked out the other day. There wasn't any fight—or anything. It came to me like a bolt out of a perfectly clear sky. I had never suspected that there was anything wrong at all. I thought that he appreciated all I had done for him, and was happy.

But I guess you never can tell about men. All he said was that he "couldn't stand" being married any longer, and off he went, without even a thought of the heartbreak he left behind him; without even a thought that my life was being left in ruins, after 10 years—10 years of what I thought was happiness.

I know there isn't any other woman, and I can't understand what it is all about.

I wouldn't feel so terribly about it if I hadn't done so much, and gone without so much, for him. He has always made a good salary, but before I married him he had nothing at all saved. He spent his money as fast as he made it.

ECONOMICAL WIFE

When we were married, I made up my mind that we were going to get ahead, so I began to check up on the spending, and cut it down.

If I hadn't done that, we would have had an expensive car and a lot of other things we didn't need. I would have liked those things, too, but I felt we must save money.

I did everything for Peter's good. I saw that he had the kind of food that was good for him (he ate such foolish stuff before we were married), I saw that he didn't smoke too much and get a cough. I saw that he quit going around with the gang that played too much poker.

He wanted to do over the house and buy an expensive radio, but I wouldn't let him. I went without a lot of things myself, too. He wanted to buy me a fur coat, but I wouldn't let him. I felt that I must save his money.

Of course, at first he objected, but I told him that I was only thinking of him and his welfare. I thought he understood and appreciated it, but I guess he didn't.

What was wrong? Can you tell me? And what shall I do? I am so unhappy! I tried to do so much for him, and now he goes this way. I just can't understand it. Please help me. I still love him. EVE.

FUN SHUT OUT

What was wrong?

Eve was wrong—and Eve's jail methods.

You call yourself a "good wife;" but you weren't a wife—you were a keeper. And no man marries for a keeper. You shut out all the fun and foolishness and gay adventure that had given life zest for Peter, and you turned him into a money-making machine to serve your ambition.

Doing it for his own good? But it wasn't for his own good if it turned him into a sour, dreary, resentful man, as it did. What's the good of money in the bank if there's no song in the heart?

Can you win him back? Yes, if you're willing to change and be human. If you are, go to him and tell him that you see your mistake, and ask if he'll give you another chance. Then if he does—use it to bring laughter, and delight, and beauty, and pride, and fun into your home.

Do that, and the swankiest hotel on earth can't lure him away.

Beauties So Numerous, Fay King Sighs, Many Must Forego Dreams

By FAY KING

Surely there never was such a surplus of beauty as one sees everywhere these days.

The stage, the screen, the night clubs, the streets, the stores, the restaurants—every place one goes one sees girls, girls, girls, each one as lovely as another.

Yet it is a little sad, too.

For so far as looks and charms are concerned, each and every one of these pretty girls has a right to hope for the success professionally and matrimonially that her good looks entitle her to hope for.

But so many will be disappointed. There isn't room enough for all in the spotlight of fame, or the rainbow of rich marriages of which they dream.

Yet each never seems to doubt that she will win.

Contract Bridge

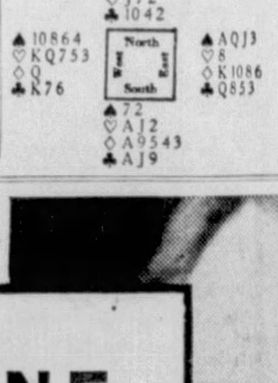
HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Honor-Tricks Are Not Everything

The most convenient and the most valuable measuring stick to determine the value of a hand at Bridge in the process of bidding is the standard table of honor-tricks, which values honor holdings on the defensive basis against adverse declarations. However, those who pin their faith to the honor-trick table alone will frequently find that distribution has a tendency to play peculiar pranks, and render valueless hands of great honor-trick strength.

A hand played recently in a Duplicate tournament at Adelaide, Australia, illustrates this point. The hand was:



East—Dealer.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ◇ (1)	3 ♠ (2)	Pass	4 ♠ (3)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—A Takeout Double would be better, although the result would probably have been the same.

2—West has 5 playing-tricks in support of the bid. The lack of honor strength might have suggested holding one of these Raises in reserve.

3—East has little more than his Opening bid. However, most players have an aversion against playing a contract just one short of game.

However, the distributional values came to East's aid in play, as well as South's unwise choice of an Opening lead, which was a low heart from the Ace.

The result was that East was able to get out with the loss of only 3 tricks and made a contract which appeared impossible when the Dummy went down. It must be admitted, however, that South has a very difficult choice of a satisfactory Opening. The lead of the heart Ace is not particularly advantageous, as it immediately establishes discards in the West hand with, as the cards are placed, a sure entry with the club King. The diamond lead immediately establishes a trick in diamonds for the Declarer and permits the discard of a losing club.

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Lillian Shows Signs of Breaking Under Strain

My throat went suddenly dry as I saw the expression, or rather lack of one, upon Lillian's face, as she listened to Dicky's confident prediction that we were nearly out of the woods. She sat motionless, apathetic, as he said that he was sure the lake and trees, which Marion had described as being near their farmhouse prison, were not far away from the stile to which Ronald and I had trailed Samuel Brixton, and where we had seen him struck down.

I knew what was the matter. The nearer loomed the possibility of the men making a sortie to rescue the girls, the more interminable seemed the hours which must elapse before it was made; but we all shared the knowledge that we must leave nothing to chance—that every step of the rescue must be carefully laid out beforehand.

We must wait for Dicky to drop the message to the kidnapers, also for his report of what he should find during his flight of the next few hours.

It was Harry Underwood's voice that brought me back from speculation. He had crossed the room and taking the map from Dicky's hand, he spread it out on the table and pretended to examine it, talking to me the while from the side of his mouth, although I do not think Lillian, staring straight in front of her, would have noticed if he had shouted the words.

WORRIED ABOUT LILLIAN

"Get her to bed if you can," he muttered. "I've got to go back to Hugh, while the Dicky-bird snatches a few minutes' sleep. Wake him at five, but don't pay any attention now to anybody but Lil."

"All right," I said, feeling suddenly as wooden as Lillian appeared. And then the men were gone, and I went over to Lillian, speaking to her twice before she heard me.

"What is it?" she queried, not looking up.

"I want you to get into bed," I said softly, but I had to repeat the words twice more before she answered.

"All right," she said dully, but she made no motion to rise, and I sent an appealing glance to Mary, who came quickly to my side and deftly helped me to draw here from her seat to a standing position.

"Come, dear," I urged, and moving as if she were walking in her sleep, Lillian went between Mary and me to her bedroom. There, with no protest from her, without even a question, we undressed her, put her into night clothing and almost lifted her into bed. When I had covered her lightly, shivering at her eyes, fixed blankly upon the ceiling, I went to the door with Mary.

MADGE HELPLESS

"I'll have to ask you to sit up for awhile," I told her. "You can sleep in the morning. If I don't come to you before, clip in here at a quarter to five. I have to call your uncle at five, and I don't dare leave her alone a minute while she is like this."

Mary nodded and slipped away and I went back to Lillian's bedside, anxiety for her driving me as with a whip. I never had seen her in this condition before. I did not know what it might presage. It was more terrifying than any burst of weeping, and I found myself wondering if I ought not to try some reference to Marion, which might bring tears to her. Action of some sort, or tears—some outlet must be found for that dammed-up emotion that she had controlled so rigidly that it had frozen her brain and muscles.

I never have felt quite so helpless in my life. I dared not speak of Marion, and I could think of no other appeal I could make to her. Fantastic thoughts of feigning some fall or injury to myself, that would startle her from her apathy, came to my mind, but I doubted that anything I could pretend would rouse her.

And then, just as her staring eyes, her composure, were driving me to desperation, there came frantic, flying footsteps along the corridor, and Helena Brixton almost fell into the room wailing, "Lillian! They've got Sam, too! Oh; what shall I do? Help me!"

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Wedding Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Some time ago a very good friend of mine was married, but just recently it was announced in the paper. Should I send a present, and if so, to whom should it be sent—the bride, or to both the bride and the groom?

2—When a person has been an over-night guest at a friend's home, should he send a thank-you note to the mother, or to the mother and father?

3—Would it be correct to send an inexpensive bouquet of flowers and inclose the note with the flowers? If so, to whom should they be sent . . . Mr. and Mrs. or just to the mother?

I nearly forgot to tell you that the writer is a young man . . . just in case the sex should matter.

CONSTANT READER.

1—Whether or not you send a present in this case depends entirely on your own choice and wish. When weddings are as casual as this and when the announcement is made in so casual a way, not so many presents are sent, of course, as for weddings to which we receive invitations, or even announcements. But on the other hand, if we are very fond of one or both of the couple, naturally we would wish to send a gift for the new home. You might address your gift to the bride and groom, and with it enclose a note of best wishes to the bride and congratulations to the groom.

2—The bread-and-butter letter should always be addressed to the hostess of the home, the mother. And in the note we thank the other members of the family, the father and whoever else makes up the household, for their hospitality too.

3—This is a most gracious and most appropriate gesture for a young man to make after he has been a guest in a home. The flowers, as well as the note, should be addressed to the mother, the hostess. If it is inconvenient to send flowers, the young man may send a box of candy or other sweets, or one or two books that he thinks the family would enjoy.

BAD CHECK LAID TO PEGGY RICH

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—(Universal.)—Peggy Lawton Rich, divorced wife of Bandleader Freddie Rich, was charged the second time today with passing worthless checks. Harry Franks, owner of a theatrical hall, declared she had given him a bad check for $51.

A summons had been issued for the actress who did not appear in West Side court yesterday to answer a similar previous charge brought by a Fifth avenue gown shop. Mrs. Rich later declared that no summons had been served and that she had paid the gown shop bill, giving no check, but a note signed by Jack de Ruyter, co-respondent in her recent divorce case, and herself.

Crash Kills Federal Flier, Women Hurt

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Jan. 27.—(INS.)—Marshall S. Boggs, Department of Commerce airlines inspector from Washington, died today in a Corona hospital from injuries suffered when his airplane crashed while attempting to land near here last night.

Witnesses said Boggs was flying at a low altitude and that his ship struck tree tops and a high tension line. His two passengers, Mrs. Mary Coogan and Miss Stacia Curry, both of Los Angeles, were severely injured.

Delayed Treatment Is Serious in Melancholia

Not so long ago I told you about "dementia praecox," pointing out that persons afflicted with this disease are no longer doomed to permanent disaster. Today I want to speak about "melancholia," a mental disturbance which can be cured when recognized in its early stages.

Dr. Copeland

Melancholia is a nervous affliction commonly found in certain families. Several cases may occur in the same family. It attacks adults of all ages. It afflicts both male and female, but two-thirds of the cases are found in women.

Infections, intestinal disturbances, worry and severe emotional strain are often forerunners of this affliction. In most instances, the afflicted individual suffers from one of these physical disturbances before the onset of melancholia. Family difficulties, financial troubles and failure to work, often lead to melancholia.

Like dementia praecox, the early signs of melancholia are frequently overlooked. While the disease may be suspected, in too many cases no definite action is taken. It is a grave mistake to neglect giving early attention to melancholia.

In the first stages of this disease the sufferer complains of headache, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, disturbed digestion and loss of weight. He is extremely sad, has no interest in life, and finds pleasure in nothing. Fear of impending trouble or disaster compels him to feel that he will lose all self-control.

At this stage supervised help will do a lot. Proper medical attention will restore health and happiness to the unfortunate victim.

Many a case of melancholia recovers in a short period of time. But attacks recur at periodic intervals if the disease is not vigorously treated. It is probable that the attacks will become more severe and more difficult to cure if no effort is made to correct the condition. Bear in mind that repeated attacks of melancholia in later life make a serious disturbance, requiring expert attention.

Sufferers from this disease should be encouraged to rest as much as possible. Exercise and manual work in the open air are beneficial.

The diet should be carefully regulated and contain plenty of simple but nourishing food. Avoid fried and greasy foods, salt, pepper, spices and condiments. Daily elimination is imperative and it is important that the kidneys act properly.

Let me warn against the general attitude that mental disease is a disgrace and something to be hushed up. Persons who suffer from mental disorders are no different than those who are afflicted with physical disabilities. The important thing is to make sure that everyone who has a mental disease receives medical attention. But certainly he should not be made an outcast, to be shunned by all and regarded as a disgrace to the family.

ACTOR SHOOTS BRIDE, SELF

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 27.—(AP.)—The night club romance of Lester Renaudin, 21-year-old master of ceremonies at the Club Plantation, and his 19-year-old wife, also an entertainer, ended in the death of both at the young husband's hands last night.

Waiters and officials at the fashionable Club Avalon in Metairie Ridge, where the girl entertained as Mary Lee Robert, were summoned outside by two pistol shots and the persistent blowing of an automobile horn to find the couple dying in a car.

The wife was slumped over the steering wheel with a bullet near her heart, and Renaudin was crouched beside her with a wound in the temple.

In Renaudin's pocket, police found a letter addressed to his family. It read:

The couple had been sweethearts since school days.

Melt butter in saucepan. Add chopped onion and pimientoes. Cook 3 minutes. Add flour. When well blended and smooth, add tomatoes and cook until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Add corn, rice, chopped pickle and seasonings. Pour mixture into greased baking dish and sprinkle grated cheese over top. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 25 minutes. Peas, lima beans or carrots may be used instead of corn.

CARAVAN CHESTNUT SALAD—Shell, blanch and boil 2 cups of large chestnuts in salted water until tender. Then drain, chill and cut the chestnuts in small pieces. Add 1½ cups diced celery and 1½ cups diced pineapple. Moisten with cream dressing. Serve in lettuce cups which are covered over with a piece of white cardboard, rounded and held in place by toothpicks to represent a covered wagon. Have two toothpicks projecting in front to resemble shafts of the wagon.

BOUILLON BASE SOUP—3 gallons cold water, 1½ pounds onions, 1 bunch soup celery, 8 cups canned tomatoes, 1 tin 50 bouillon cubes, 3 gallons boiling water, 2 pounds bulk macaroni; seasoning: powdered cloves, sugar, salt and pepepr to taste.

Pour the water into a kettle and place on the stove. Add the cut-up celery and onions, cover and allow to boil gently, for about half hour. Add the tomatoes and continue cooking for about 20 minutes. Now strain. In a separate vessel dissolve the bouillon cubes in a small amount of boiling water, then stir into the soup kettle. Season to taste with powdered cloves, sugar, salt and pepper. Allow to simmer until serving time. The macaroni is boiled in salted water in a separate vessel and added to the soup at the table. Serve with oyster crackers or oysterettes.

STUFFED CUSHION OF LAMB—Select a shoulder of lamb weighing 3 to 4 pounds. Have the bones and the fell removed at the market. Save the bones for making broth. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth. Sprinkle the inside of the pocket with salt and pepper, pile stuffing in lightly, and sew the edges together. Rub, salt, pepper and flour over the outside. If the shoulder has only a very thin fat covering, lay several slices of bacon over the top. Place the roast on a rack in an open pan without water. Sear for 30 minutes in a hot oven (480 degrees Fahrenheit). If bacon is laid over the roast, shorten the time of searing so as to avoid overbrowning. Reduce the temperature of the oven to 300 degrees Fahrenheit, and cook at this temperature until tender, about 2½ to 3 hours.

NEW BRIDE DISCOVERS HUBBY'S WEAKNESS

Mrs. Hall advises all wives to give husbands LOG CABIN SYRUP with hot cakes on frosty mornings!

"I'll never forget the first dish that my Jack actually praised," said Mrs. R. K. Hall. "That was an event!

"It was a batch of hot cakes . . . covered with rich, golden Log Cabin Syrup. And Jack's exact words were as follows: 'Sweetheart, these are the lightest, most delicious pancakes I have ever tasted.' Welcome words!

"Now I must confess! Log Cabin really deserves the credit. Its delicate, maple taste gives cakes such extra flavor. And it makes them seem so light and tender, too, I know!"

TAKE YOUR CHOICE!
Log Cabin Syrup is now sold in a lovely glass bottle as well as in the famous old Log Cabin tin
LOG CABIN SYRUP
ABSOLUTELY PURE

THAT'S right, Mrs. Hall! And this is the reason. Log Cabin Syrup has just the right body to really saturate pancakes with delicious maple flavor. And as a result the cakes simply fall apart at the touch of a fork. Try it for yourself—and see!

To achieve this consistency and flavor, we use three distinct kinds of sugar in making Log Cabin. Delicious Vermont and Canadian maple to give that delicate, mellow maple flavor. Then just the right amount of fine cane sugar to give that smooth, penetrating consistency that makes pancakes served with Log Cabin seem so amazingly light and tender.

Give your husband hot cakes and Log Cabin Syrup for breakfast tomorrow! And you'll want to use it, too, on muffins and other hot breads, just as you do on pancakes and waffles. Log Cabin Syrup is a product of General Foods.

TECH PASSERS FACE DUKES

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Fine Record by Davies. Dukes Win 126 in 175. Cuccinello Upsets Dope. Grid Practice in South. Seaman Watson's Test. Recalls Fate of Clark.

HANNUM MEETS CHICK IN NEW ROLE

MAX HANNUM, WHO used to write about Charles R. (Chick) Davies in the newspapers some years back, will meet the Duquesne University basketball coach under new circumstances tonight as the Tartans and the Dukes tangle at the Carnegie Tech gym in the city title series. Hannum is now Carnegie's floor coach instead of the sports scribe who formerly was wont to interview Coach Davies about his always spectacular Dukes. And Coach Hannum, therefore, would have a very difficult time now eliciting any information from the wily Mr. Davies.

Chick Davies

Though Chick is one of the youngest floor mentors in the country, and is enrolled only as a junior at the university of which he is head basketball coach, he is nevertheless an authority on court strategy. If the 1933 performances of his squad were not proof sufficient of this, his record since taking over the reins on the Bluff nine years ago from Bill Campbell, who is now at Homestead High School, certainly would convince.

IN THE EIGHT seasons that preceded this year's action, Duquesne University teams under Davies played a total of 170 basketball games. In that period they won the Tri-State Conference three times and tied for it on one other occasion. Chick's men, and they included some of the greatest stars of the game, won 122 of those 170 games while losing only 48, to give them a percentage of .718. This season they have won four out of five so far, an all-time record under Davies of 126 victories against 49 defeats.

From year to year, the Red and Blue passers displayed consistently fast and good basketball, gradually working up to the city title when given an opportunity of competing for the honor against the two other local institutions of higher learning. And despite the fact that they have played as many as 29 games in a season—that was the number on the 1929-30 card—they have never lost more than eight contests in any single campaign.

LAST YEAR THE Dukes split their games with Carnegie, winning the first 29 to 14 and losing the second, 29 to 24. As will be the case again this season, both contests were played in the Tartan gym because of its greater seating capacity. Tonight's game is a Duke "home" attraction and will be handled by Duquesne's management.

Carnegie Tech now has a new coach, and certainly has shown improved form, and while the Duquesne boys feel that they have a tradition up to which they must live, they realize that they are in for even more trouble than usual at the hands of the always bothersome Skibos. There will be a real basketball game in Oakland, no mistake about that.

SOME OF THE dopesters figured that because the Dodgers had traded Mickey Finn to the Phillies and there was no understudy for the keystone job in Flatbush, Tony Cuccinello would take advantage of the situation to balk at signing a contract immediately, particularly as it was known that he had been given a cut. But Tony fooled them by accepting the slash without a murmur and signing right away. He is a newly wed, and evidently the added responsibilities make a difference.

Tony Cuccinello

THE SIGNING OF Cuccinello eases the mind of Max Carey, as it assures that the Dodgers will have second base covered just about as well as any other club in the majors. Brooklyn scribes rate Cuccy the best keystone sacker the club ever has had at Ebbets Field.

Tony is a feared hitter in the pinches. Batting .281 last year he knocked in 77 runs. He was as steady as any of them in fielding, ranking second only to Billy Herman in assists, with 525, and he was in a class of his own in swinging double plays, 113. He was on the job every day, playing 154 games.

THE SALARY CUT of $25,000 which the Yankees asked Babe Ruth to accept is more money in itself than the annual pay of any other player in the major leagues with the exception of two.

The two are Lou Gehrig and Al Simmons. Gehrig's pay as a Yankee last year was $27,500, and Simmons goes to the White Sox from the A's under a holdover contract said to call for $33,333.33.

IF SPRING GRIDIRON practice in other parts of the country is to be considered as coming under the head of football overemphasis, as the objectors would have it, how about what is going on in the South? Pigskins are already flying around the fields of some of the colleges down there. It may be called spring practice in the East and Middle West, but in the South it is technically winter training. Schools not already busy won't be far behind. At Georgia Tech, for instance, it was announced that drastic curtailment of spring sports would be in order, yet Coach Bill Alexander calls 50 football men to report for equipment February 1.

There were also quite a few who proved to be false alarms under American tests. An addition to one list or the other will come out of a 12-round bout in New York tonight, in which Thomas (Seaman) Watson, British featherweight champion, faces Fidel La Barba.

IF HISTORY REPEATS, the evening will not be a pleasant one for Watson. A previous British title holder sent over here ran into this same La Barba and made such a sorry showing that the New York commission ruled all foreign fighters in the future would have to show their worth first at one of the smaller clubs.

Seaman Watson

The crown wearer was the unforgettable Elky Clark. He had won the British flyweight title in an elimination tournament after Jimmy Wilde retired in 1924. His showing in New York on January 21, 1927, was farcical. La Barba did not knock him out, but did everything else, and floored him nine times in walking away with a 12-round decision.

THOUGH EXCUSED FROM fighting at a smaller club first, Watson was required to appear in a public gymnasium test, in which he met Jerry Mazza, Joe Comforti and Charley Bedami for two rounds each. His showing was far from being impressive. He did fairly well at infighting, but displayed a pronounced weakness against left hooks and jabs and as La Barba specializes at hooking his port mitt the Seaman would appear to be in for a trimming tonight. However, gymnasium workouts sometimes are misleading, and judgment is not to be passed on Watson until he has had a fair test in a real ring. The Seaman won the British championship from Tarleton. He is 24 and took up boxing while in the British navy, in which he served six years. He has had almost 200 bouts in four years, but few of the names listed in his record mean anything over here.

LOCAL LEADERS HOPE TO KEEP SLATES CLEAN

By JULIUS LEVIN

South and Perry high schools, leaders in the City League basketball races, will wind up their first-half campaigns for the championship this afternoon, striving for their sixth successive victories.

South, leader in Section I, invades the Connelley Trade School court, while Perry, pace setter in Section II, meets Oliver on the latter's floor.

Should South and Perry emerge with victories this afternoon, the two leaders will have beaten every other member in their respective sections.

SCHENLEY AT FIFTH

Other Section I games find Schenley at Fifth Avenue and Westinghouse at Allderdice. Section II games besides the Perry-Oliver tussle find Langley at Allegheny and Carrick at South Hills.

Two schools that are still in the running for the sectional crowns are Schenley in Section I and Allegheny in Section II. Schenley has lost only one game, that to South, while Allegheny likewise has been beaten once, bowing to Perry.

The contests this afternoon wind up the scholastic careers for a number of City League performers, who receive their diplomas in February. South is fortunate in that it keeps its team intact for the second half of the championship fight. Perry is not as fortunate. Coach Smith losing Geis at center and Captain Jimmy Manning, brilliant guard.

Coach Smith plans to use Robert Keene, a newcomer, at the pivot position during the final half of the season. He is undecided over the player who will fill Manning's shoes at guard. Allegheny likewise loses a dependable performer in Stanley Macel, star center. Fifth Avenue High is hit unusually hard, losing Joe Garcia, Harry Mahlmood and Louis (Lemons) Pugliano.

STATE MEMBERS

While it is still too early to count South and Perry "in" as champions of the City League, one thing is certain if either team ascends the throne held last year by Schenley and that is that both are eligible to compete in the state eliminations. Both South and Perry hold membership in the P. I. A. A.

Last year Schenley won the city championship and Allegheny was runnerup, but neither team is a member of the state organization and it was necessary to draft Fifth Avenue to represent the City League or District VI in the state playoffs.

Despite the fact that it was unable to win the local crown, Fifth Avenue surprised basketball critics by winning two inter-district battles before succumbing to Erie Strong Vincent in the semi-finals at Sharon. Fifth Avenue, prior to that defeat, had eliminated Huntingdon at Altoona and Braddock High, W. P. I. A. L. champion, in the Pitt Stadium pavilion.

GOOD GAMES LISTED

A number of good contests also is offered in the W. P. I. A. L. tonight although the program is curtailed somewhat due to the February graduations.

The schedule in Section VIII is unusually attractive. Rankin strives to keep its slate clean by opposing Swissvale, while Scott and Braddock, still hopeful of overtaking the Rosenberg charges risk their hopes for the crown on the outcome of their fray at Braddock.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: WHERE THE ENGLISH FLAG NEVER COMES DOWN—The ruined palace of the Residency at Lucknow, India, is hallowed ground, being the scene of the most thrilling episode in British history. Here a handful of British men held out against 10,000 rebels in the Indian mutiny of 1857. The British tend this memorial with great reverence. The old gray tower flies the British flag day and night. This is the only spot in the British Empire where it is never furled, nor is it ever lowered to half-staff. It yields to nothing and nobody in honoring heroic deeds. THE MAGIC OF CHARCOAL—Charcoal, by reason of its porous structure, presents an enormous internal area. When properly treated or activated, a cubic inch of charcoal can contain 20,000 square yards—more than four acres—of gas. Its surface attraction or absorption, by which it is able to condense gases or vapors within its pores, make it a great factor in the construction of gas masks. In the case of carbon monoxide, charcoal will condense 697 times its own volume within its pores.

COCHRAN TIES FOR CUE LEAD

CHICAGO Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Regardless of the results in today's matches in the world three-cushion billiards championship tournament, the leadership was safe for sunny California.

Tied for the lead were Welker Cochran, the balkline wizard from San Francisco, and J. N. Bozeman, Jr., the Vallejo youngster and baby of the tournament, with four victories and one defeat. Bozeman was not listed for cue exercise today, but in tonight's match Cochran had a chance of slipping ahead of his neighbor by defeating Tiff Denton, of Kansas City.

In the opening match, Frank Scoville, of Buffalo, N. Y., destroyer of championship hopes, and Allen Hall, of Chicago, still without a victory in six starts, were opposed, and following them were the defending champion, Augie Kieckhefer, of Chicago, and Arthur Thurnblad, another Chicago player.

Bozeman jumped into the lead Wednesday, but Cochran pulled up even last night by polishing off Clarence Jackson, of Detroit, 50 to 26, in 40 innings.

Johnny Layton, of Sedalia, Mo., today was in second place, a 50-to-36 triumph in 37 innings over Otto Reiselt, of Philadelphia, having boosted his standing yesterday.

Thurnblad produced the most sensational finish of the tournament to score his third victory in three starts, at the expense of Hall, 50 to 49 in 43 innings. Hall led until the last inning, when Thurnblad put together a cluster of seven to gain the decision.

The standing of the players:

SPORT VIGNETTES

Seaman Watson, the British featherweight champion, who had to undergo a gymnasium test last week to prove his fitness to box Kid Chocolate for the world title in Madison Square Garden tonight, and then had to accept Fidel LaBarba as a substitute opponent in a non-title match because Chocolate was deported to Havana, may or may not be a great fighter. . . . He certainly must have some ability, for he claims he has lost only two bouts in a career embracing some 200, and has won nine of his last 25 bouts with knockouts and the other 16 by the decision route. . . He hails from Newcastle-on-Tyne and recently managed to borrow a nickel from a sports writer in New York to make a telephone call. . . Not such a dumb cluck, at that. . . 'E plans to return home at once after the LaBarba fight. win, lose or draw, unless they match him with Chocolate.

Joey Zelano

Many reasons have been advanced for the slump in business at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock boxing arena, which was sold under the hammer for $500 the other day . . . The depression, bad matches, inconsiderate treatment of patrons and other explanations have been put forth, all of which undoubtedly were contributory, but it seems here that the big reason the Bowl did not get the play last year that it did in the beginning was that it was faced by keen competition from Hickey Park and Greenlee Field, both easier of access for the Pittsburgh fans . . . For many years the Pittsburgh district was without an outdoor boxing arena . . . Then the Bowl came along to fill this void . . . When it clicked it brought on the inevitable competition, which was tough on all concerned.

Light football teams with none too accurate passers or receivers are in danger of beating themselves if the proposed change in the forward passing rules is adopted whereby the penalty for two incomplete passes in a series of downs will be increased from five yards to 15 . . . They'll be getting themselves penalized back over their own goal line if they don't watch out . . . Unknown Winston, the Negro heavyweight, got his nickname because he stopped Popper Stopper, another Negro, in a bout in Tampa, Fla., one night and the local newspaper came out with a headline reading, "Unknown Stops Popper Stopper." . . . That appelation pleased Edward Winston mightily, and he adopted it forthwith, if you know when that was . . . Since then he's knocked out Billy Jones, Walter Cobb, Ted Sandwina and Jimmy Darcy and won and lost with Ernie Schaaf, and he's matched now to box King Levinsky in Philadelphia next Thursday night . . . He is the son of a Pullman porter, is 23 years old and developed his punch while working in a stone quarry.

Joey Zelano, who looks and fights like Paul Pirrone, although only a flyweight, is probably the best "club fighter" in Pittsburgh today. He has clicked with the fans because of his aggressiveness and is having no trouble getting work, and he needs it, for he is the main support of a widowed mother and a younger brother and sister in

DODGERS SIGN JOE JUDGE

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—(INS.)—Joe Judge, 39-year-old first baseman, has signed a one-year contract with the Brooklyn Dodgers, the club announced today.

For 18 seasons, Judge performed for the Washington Senators with sufficient skill and accomplishment to be accounted one of the outstanding of the ivory community.

This is his first excursion into the National League. No terms were announced, but it was denied the former Senator had received a bonus for attaching his signature to the papers.

The signing of Judge came as no great surprise. Negotiations for the player had been started at the winter baseball meetings, but had lagged during the past six weeks because of a difference in salary values.

His acceptance of terms precludes the possibility of a Brooklyn-Giants trade which involved Johnny Frederick and Sam Leslie.

Manager Max Carey was eager to land Judge, to be prepared in the event Del Bissonette was physically unable to hold down his job at first base.

THREE MORE GIANTS SIGN

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—The New York Giants today announced Adolfo Luque, veteran pitcher; Reggie Mapp, rookie pitcher, and Joseph Malay, young first baseman, had signed 1933 contracts.

John Tobin, Forham U. outfielder signed last summer for a trial, has been released on option to Knoxville, of the Southern Association.

CARDS SIGN HAWAIIAN

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 27.—Ned Nobriga, former University of Hawaii pitcher, has signed a Cardinal contract and will report to the Redbirds March 1.

Mike Gonzales, veteran catcher recently given his release, probably will perform for one of the Card farm clubs, Vice President Branch Rickey said.

Another of those ball games that makes us wish to goodness we had a nice spacious public hall or auditorium with a capacity great enough to accommodate all the customers who would be on hand if they could be sure of a seat, is on this evening as Carnegie Tech and the Dukes go to it in the Tartan gymnasium, which at best, can not accommodate better than 3,500.

The game is the third of the series for the city championship, a three-cornered affair involving Pitt as well as the contesting quintets of tonight. In the first game, the Dukes beat Pitt, while in the second the Panthers took Carnegie. A victory for Tech will toss the series into a merry mixup, with each team boasting one victory and one defeat.

DUKES FAVORITES

Last year, when Carnegie and Pitt first inaugurated relations with the Dukes, the Skibos and Blufflites split even in two games, the Red and Blue taking the first with points to spare, but bogging down in the second and being trimmed. Tonight, the Davies-coached lads are strong favorites to win, just as they were against Pitt. Tech has lost two games hand running, bowing to Pitt and Geneva in successive starts.

Carnegie's hopes for a victory over the Dukes, none too bright at any time, were handed a jolt Tuesday when Red Fergus, captain and star guard, was ordered to bed with a stomach illness. Red played in the game Monday against Geneva when he should have been under the old quilt and Doc Marks gave him a box of pills and strict orders to stay in bed.

The Redhead rallied nobly yesterday, however, and is being counted on as a starting man tonight. If a last-minute switch is decided upon, either Joe Mihm or Specs Freedel will get the call. George Silverman still is the entire Tech hospital list. He'll probably be in the press row again tonight, and if he is, no matter how dull the game may turn out to be, the scribes can depend upon being entertained. You ought to hear George tell of his past life—it's a treat.

BRENNER TO START

Lou Jagnow and Bob Smith will be at the forwards, Ted Rigg at the other guard and Ed Stentz at center to complete the Tech lineup.

Coach Chick Davies has decided to start Len Brenner at center tonight instead of Jim MacDougal. Big Jim has been ailing all week, along with Capt. Bunk McGeever, and while he will be available for replacement duty, the Duquesne mentor has decided to get along without him as long as is possible.

The other starting positions, of course, remain intact, with Dudey Moore and Marty Reiter at the guards, Art Feldman and Paul Birch in at the forwards.

In a preliminary, the rival frosh quintets will match ability, going to bat at 6:45 o'clock, if possible. The game is Duquesne's "home" affair, but has been shifted to the Tech floor so as to accommodate a greater crowd.

PANTHERS WARNED

Dr. Red Carlson, who handles the basketball destinies of the Pitt Panthers (maybe you've heard of him before) is concocting various devices and spells designed to ward off the old bugaboo of overconfidence as he whips his Golden Cats into trim for their Intercollegiate Conference tussle here tomorrow with West Virginia.

The Mountaineers have been staggering hither and yon this season, without getting any place in particular, but the Panthers have been admonished by their coach not to take the Mountaineers lightly.

Coach Carlson pointed out yesterday that the addition of the 6 foot 4-inch Joe Stydahar to the Morgantown team figures to have increased its efficiency at least 30 per cent. The Mountaineers needed a center, and they appear to have secured one in Big Joe.

Al Grayber, popular and veteran fight referee, has been selected to referee the Pitt-West Virginia varsity ring bouts, which will be put on following the basketball game. Coach Joe Orsini, of the Panthers, made the announcement last night.

Canzoneri Agrees To Box Townsend

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, has agreed to a 10-round match in Madison Square Garden February 3 against Billy Townsend, of Vancouver, B. C.

Canzoneri's title will not be at stake. The weights were set at 140 pounds.

COAST SEEKS REACTIONS OF EASTERNERS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—In a bold move to save intercollegiate rowing from the tidal wave of sports curtailment, action has been started here to stage a national championship over the Olympic course at Long Beach early in June.

In an effort to fill the gap left by the cancellation of the Poughkeepsie regatta this year, information from reliable sources was that civic organizations of Los Angeles and Long Beach were seriously considering underwritwriting such an event for $50,000.

WOULD PAY EXPENSES

Under the proposal, five or six of the leading eastern crews would be guaranteed expenses for a western trip. The three western schools participating in rowing would complete the entry in the two-day carnival.

The University of California at Los Angeles, dipping its oar into rowing for the first time next spring, would be the host inasmuch as that institution has chosen the Olympic course as its home site. Spokesmen said California and Washington universities already have reacted favorably to the idea.

A telegram was sent to William Bingham, of Harvard, asking him to get the reaction of the eastern schools on the plan of staging the National championship in the West for the first time.

Qualifying races would be held on the first day either at 2,000 meters or a mile and a half—the former the Olympic Games distance, but well short of the customary four miles of the Poughkeepsie classic.

COAST MEET SET

The three western crews are scheduled to meet over the course in the spring. Another movement has been on foot to get the Italian Olympic crew, which finished close to California in the race here last summer, to return for a second race with the Golden Bear boat load.

The Olympic course is on the Recreation Park lagoon at Long Beach, which is unaffected by tide. The bleachers and boat house equipment were permanently installed by the city of Long Beach before the international games.

PAUL BIRCH, STAR SOPHOMORE FORWARD OF DUKES

Birch is a former Homestead High School player. Later he played for the Duquesne Prep team which won the state Catholic championship. Now he's a full-fledged member of the Bluffites' varsity five, which meets Carnegie Tech on the latter's floor tonight. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

Shields also dropped a set to Roland Longtin, of Montreal, but swept through the next to at love to win, 2-6, 6-0, 6-0.

Rainville eliminated the Brooklyn star, Edward W. Burns, Jr., in straight sets, 6-3, 6-3, while Leslie conquered Robert Murray, of Montreal, 6-2, 7-9, 6-4.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Count lost that day when the boxing fan doesn't pick up his local newspaper and remark:

"What—ANOTHER one?"

Meaning, of course, another boxing show. We're back on the three-a-week schedule again, the same as last summer, when the clubs were able to compete so successfully against one another that they had the satisfaction of buying up all of the red ink in the stationary stores for their ledgers.

Tonight the hunt for cash customers will go on at the Arena, on the North Side, when Jack King, of Little Rock, Ark., will mingle with Tiger Joe Randall, Elizabeth Negro welterweight, in the 10-round main bout, a return engagement, King having won their first meeting, at Motor Square Garden, some months ago.

Between Rounds

The turnout for the Ted Yarosz-Eddie (Kid) Wolfe show at Motor Square Garden last Monday night was the best of the indoor season here and proved that the fans still can dig up a dollar or two for something they deem a worthwhile attraction. The Moose Temple got a bad break in its reopening show, Wednesday night, when a heavy downpour kept many fans away, but it drew well enough to feel encouraged to carry on. Now, if the fans have any money left, they still can spend it tonight at the Arena. The windup promises to be a good sort of a fight, with King having pleased in his last two battles in the same ring, against Ted Yarosz and Randall having stopped Pee Wee Jarrell there his last time out.

Ralph Shinton, Joe Orsini and Ernie Sesto will referee the Junior A. M. A. championship tournament bouts at the Keystone A. C., beginning next Thursday and lasting through four nights. Councilman Harry Little, Harry Neaman, Eddie Horen, M. J. Connor and Walter McVay will be the judges.

Joe Basco, demon manager of boxers, of Barberton, O., is bringing Cowboy Charley Cobb, the Texas welterweight, East from San Diego, where he has been boxing three years, and would like to match him against any of the leading 147-pounders. Cobb has boxed Young Jack Thompson, Andy DiVodi, Paulie Walker, Eddie Murdock, Spug Meyers, Tommy King, Tommy White, Bobby LaSalle, Joe Estrada, Billy Angelo, Buster Mallini, Dick Ramies, Young Harry Wills, and others.

Press notices received by Barney Ross, Chicago Jewish lightweight, who meets Johnny Datto in the main bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, compare him with Benny Leonard, Packey McFarland and Charley White and predict a championship for him. One scribe says he boasts the boxing skill and style of a Leonard, another that he has White's left hook. He has lost one bout and been held to one draw in 42 professional fights and has been in there with Battling Battalino, Frankie Petrolle, Goldie Hess and others of note recently and has developed into a great card in his home town, Datto, always dangerous, ought to make him step.

Frankie O'Brien, the southpaw middleweight, in whom Red Mason is interested, is matched to box Kid Leonard at the White City arena in Chicago, Monday night.

George Julius, Willow A. C.; Al Quaill, Y. M. H. A.; Steve Stefek, Sands A. C., of Uniontown, and Buck Makrun, also of the Sands A. C., have been selected to represent Pittsburgh in the inter-city amateur boxing tournament in Madison Square Garden, New York City, Monday night.

Next Wednesday night's show at the Moose Temple will be an intercity affair of four eight-round bouts and a four-round opener involving local and Detroit battlers. The bill, exclusive of the four-round bout (local boxers named first): Frankie Goosby vs. Joe Rugguzoni, middleweights; Charley Baxter vs. Billy Kelly, junior-welterweights; Anson Green vs. Andrew Angelino, middleweights, and Ray Winbush vs. Denny Levine, welterweights.

The Boxing Commission has ordered all local boxing clubs to get their shows under way promptly at 8:30 o'clock and to eliminate intermissions before main bouts, a rule long championed in this column. The Moose Temple Club started the ball rolling in this direction of its own accord with its show last Wednesday and the general order followed.

GIBSON PLANS TO BE HERE MONDAY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

In the event he is able to wind up some personal business which has claimed his attention for almost a month, George Gibson, Pirate pilot, will return from his Canadian home Monday to assume charge of the many tasks incident to the spring training departure of his diamond stars. The Bucco pitchers and catchers are due to leave Pittsburgh three weeks from Sunday.

Fred Lindstrom

Gibby, provided he is not further detained, will be a feature attraction at a Butler sportive function scheduled for Monday night at the county seat town. Pirate President Bill Benswanger also is down for a headline act when the Butler sportsmen gather 'round the festive board.

RECALLS WAGNER FETE

Writing to thank the Butler folks for their invitation, Gibby also expressed pleasure over the fine co-operation spirit shown by Freddie Lindstrom, who recently came to Pittsburgh to sign his Pirate contract.

Gibson's letter follows:

Friend Chilly:

It will give me a great deal of pleasure to join Bill Benswanger and yourself on that trip to Butler. I will make every effort to get to Pittsburgh on Monday next, but at this writing cannot say for sure whether I will be able to get away. However, you may rest assured that if I can I will be with you fellows.

The last time I had the pleasure of attending a gathering of Butler fans, the affair was in honor of our old friend, Honus Wagner, and what a time we had! They surely put it on in that man's town. They don't come any better than those Butler people.

PLEASED WITH LINDSTROM

Glad to hear that Fred Lindstrom is pleased to join our team and that he is in good health. He is a mighty fine boy and I look for him to be a big help to the Pirates this year.

We are all pretty well here, although bothered with colds. We can stand this, just so that old flu doesn't overtake us. Billy is looking forward to next summer when no doubt he will get out on the field and take his daily dozen. We had a very fine Christmas.

Sincerely yours,
Gibby.

Chillysauce

Deeply interested in the baseball fortunes of the new Giants' center fielder, George (Kiddo) Davis, is Herbert Haas, assistant auditor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Herbert, a pitcher who might have gone far in professional baseball, was a Davis teammate on some of the best semi-professional clubs of the Greater New York district. Haas had a well-controlled spit ball, which gave him more pleasure than he gets out of his slice in golf.

Hal Chase, Jr., son of the most famous of baseball's first-sackers, passed through Pittsburgh and stopped in for a chat. A fine-looking boy of 21, young Hal is ready to enter the law school of San Francisco University, a Jesuit school of the Pacific Coast.

Chase, junior, is more than 6 feet in height and he is a left-hander, although, like his dad, he bats right-handed. He loves the diamond game and expects to dabble in it extensively as he pursues his legal studies.

Bill For Lipstick Arouses Athletic Chief's Ire

COLUMBUS, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—J. W. St. John, director of athletics at Ohio State University, was checking over the month's statements in his office.

"Why don't we get he-man athletes here instead of a bunch of sissies?"

He calmed down when it was explained the lipstick was used by the fencing team on the tips of foils so a "touch" may be noticed on the white uniform of an opponent.

Trio of Knockouts Mark Amateur Show

CHARLEROI, Pa., Jan. 27.—The charity fund of the Charleroi Elks benefited by no small amount as a result of the benefit amateur boxing show staged in the Elks clubrooms last night.

WATSON MAKES BOW IN U. S. TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—The acid test comes for Seaman Watson, British featherweight champion, in Madison Square Garden tonight, to bolster or disprove his previous trial by a fistic jury.

Watson, viewed by experts and found wanting when he sought to prove in a gymnasium his qualifications for a match with Kid Chocolate, recognized here as featherweight champion, meets Fidel LaBarba, of Los Angeles, in a 12-round match.

LaBarba was substituted when the Cuban was refused permission to enter the United States for lack of a working permit.

The odds in favor of LaBarba, who fought Chocolate to a standstill, although he lost in 15 rounds here a few weeks ago, ran as high as 2 to 1 today. LaBarba will be rewarded with another chance at Chocolate if he outpoints Watson as he did a previous challenger, Elky Clark, in 1926.

CORNELL PLANS FOUR RACES

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Cornell's far-famed navy not only will row the intercollegiate seas this spring, despite a drastic athletic economy program, but hopes now to participate in four regattas.

The Ithacans took the initiative in a retrenchment policy for 1933 that led to a year's moratorium being declared for the Poughkeepsie regatta. Now "out of the red" to the extent of $35,000, the Cornell University A. A., under Graduate Manager Romeyn Berry, proposes to remain solvent for the rest of the academic year by operating strictly on an economy basis, but the noteworthy effect of this policy, especially among the undergraduates, has been to give crew and other sports a fresh stimulus.

The prospect now is that Cornell's oarsmen not only will twice row their state rival, Syracuse, on a home-and-home basis, but that the varsity will engage the Naval Academy at Annapolis, and meet Yale and Princeton in the annual race for the Carnegie Cup at Princeton.

The Navy, which beat Cornell's championship varsity eight in the 1931 Poughkeepsie race, is especially anxious to have the Ithacans go through with the regatta on the Severn. If satisfactory arrangements can be made, and they likely will be, the Big Red eight will make its first visit to the home waters of the Midshipmen on May 6.

Hanford Rides Three Winners at Hialeah

Young Hanford opened the program by winning the first race with Miss Corinne, a 4-to-1 shot, and then waited to near the end of the card to put over his other two winners. In the fifth, he booted home the prohibitive choice, Bank Shot, and in the sixth, he scored with Wishing Star, well played at $6.40 for $2.

AGUA CALIENTE, Cal., Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Louis Bernius, an apprentice boy, who got his first instructions from Roy Selden, himself a former famous jockey, rode three winners at Agua Caliente yesterday.

Young Bernius, who weighs but 99 pounds, scored aboard Moana Keala in the second race, continued with Lucky Prospero in the third and then piloted Miss Sage to the winner's circle in the fourth. Miss Sage paid $38.60 to $2 in the mutuels.

STARS ADVANCE AT MIAMI

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 27.—(AP.)—George M. Lott, of Chicago; Clifford Sutter, of Tulane University; Bryan Grant, of Atlanta, and Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., today have advanced to the semi-final round of the annual All-South tennis championship tournament.

Sutter was booked to face Grant and Lott to oppose Mangin today.

Carroll Turner, an unseeded Miami player, threw a scare into Lott, four times a Davis Cup team member, before he lost in a three-set match yesterday in the quarter-finals, 7-5, 1-6, 6-2.

Grant squelched the challenge of Jay Cohn, of Chicago, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3. Sutter, seeded No. 3 in the national lists and No. 1 in the tournament here, needed only two sets to defeat Berkeley Bell, of New York, 6-2, 7-5, although Bell gave him a battle in the second set.

Mangin, Eastern singles champion, trimmed Dr. Gene McCauliff, of New York, in the fourth quarter-final match, 6-4, 6-2.

Everson, Pa. . . . He is one of three brothers who entered the ring . . . One of them, Johnny, since has quit, but the other one, Mickey, a lightweight, is doing fairly well in California. . . . Joey, 22, was out on the Coast himself for a time . . . He has had 45 professional fights following 15 as an amateur . . . He recently made two opponents resign in bouts with him, Paul Monar in the middle of the third round and Young Pace in his corner at the end of the third round . . . Irish Kane is the manager of the little terrier of the ring.

They really ought to allow Gene Sarazen to rewrite the forward pass rules . . . Any man who would expand the golf cups from 4¼ inches in diameter to 8 inches would be sure to do the job in a big way.—HARRY KECK.

Wood Uninjured As Car Runs Into Horse

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Craig Wood, Deal (N. J.) golf professional and one of the big money winners in open tournaments this winter, still is following through.

He was laid a symie by a horse that suddenly appeared in front of his automobile as he was speeding along the highway between Phoenix and El Paso.

The horse went flying into space and Wood found himself bunkered in an unplayable lie, but luck held out for him because the car remained upright. He stopped here yesterday, en route to Miami, Fla., to have the damages to his car repaired.

RULES SATISFY GRID COACHES

Answering a questionnaire submitted by Coaches Dr. Jock Sutherland, of Pitt, and Elmer Layden, of Duquesne University, members of Coaches' Committee of 20, district college and high school football coaches have evinced in the main a desire to let the present code pretty much alone. The questionnaire was sent out to 400 coaches.

Some suggestions for changes were received from the coaches which will be digested before the committee's meeting in New York, Saturday of next week.

Dr. Sutherland is opposed to the plan to penalize a team 15 yards for two incomplete forward passes in a series of downs, and Layden does not approve of the proposal to permit a team to execute a pass from anywhere behind the line of scrimmage, instead of limiting the passer to a zone five yards behind. He believes such a change would work too much of a hardship on the defense.

Durand, just 19, eliminated his semi-final round opponent, Arnold Orilhart, Yonkers, N. Y., 4 and 3, yesterday, and Hakes defeated W. J. Donohoe, New York, by the same score.

SOVIET GAMES POSTPONED

MOSCOW, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—A world spartakiada, a great sport festival designed as a proletarian rival to the Olympic Games, with which Soviet Russia planned to celebrate next summer the completion of the five-year plan, has been postponed until 1934.

Ambitious plans for the event, which had been widely advertised in the Soviet press during the past year, called for participation of 10,000,000 workers all over the world in preliminary eliminations and the participation of 50,000 persons in final competitions at Moscow. Elaborate plans had been made for the construction of a gigantic sports center here which would include the world's largest stadium erected especially for the event.

Announcing the postponement, Nicolai Antipoff, president of the All-Union Physical Culture Council, blamed:

"Insufficient preparation and bad mass work among the laboring people of capitalistic countries as well as the necessity of first strengthening and organizing Soviet physical culture."

He also declared that "great delay" experienced in the construction of the new stadium had been partially responsible, adding that it now had been found that a stadium accommodating more than 100,000, as originally envisaged, would be inadequate.

Winterburn, Swan May Aid Pop Warner

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Selection of Glenn S. (Pop) Warner's assistants may be announced when the famous football mentor comes here next Tuesday for his first visit to Philadelphia since he was named head football coach of Temple University.

He has submitted the names of Chuck Winterburn, his freshman coach at Stanford, and Fred Swan, now freshman mentor at Wisconsin, as likely coaching timber. Temple authorities said, however, that contracts have not been offered to either.

Heinie Miller, whom Warner deposes as head coach, has signed a one-year contract to aid Warner in any way the latter may decide.

Art Shires and His Wife Reconciled

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—(INS.)—Arthur (Whataman) Shires, first baseman with the Boston Braves, has changed his mind about a separation from Mrs. Shires, he smilingly annouced today.

A few days ago Shires announced that he and his wife, the former Elizabeth Greenbaum, had agreed on a mutual separation.

But both appeared at a reconciliation meeting in the office of Shires' attorney late yesterday and agreed to forget their disagreement.

Ice Referee's Ribs Broken in Fight

MONTREAL, Jan. 27.—(INS.)—Nobody knows who won the fist fight between Eddie Shore, of the Boston Bruins, and Sylvio Mantha, of Les Canadiens, in a National Hockey League game at Boston Tuesday night, but it appeared certain today that Referee Cooper Smeaton was the loser.

An X-ray revealed Smeaton, who was knocked down while trying to halt the battle, suffered two broken ribs.

FINTEX helps A FALLING "STAR"

Not long ago, he bought a Fintex suit and all he paid was $15. • Now he knows that he doesn't have to spend any more to get smartness, all-wool fabrics, and plenty of grand appearance. His new suit helped him feel better . . . and he's selling again. Because this is Jim's story, we think there's a good deal of sense in it. Other fellows in Jim's position might stop in any Fintex store and look around. Just

STOCKS FALL UNDER LIGHT PRESSURE

Rails held up fairly well, but traders were evidently discouraged at their inability to attract a following in those issues in the past two sessions, and appointment of receivers for Paramount, while not unanticipated, evidently had a bad effect upon sentiment, as did a sag in wheat. The list recovered fractionally here and there after mid-day, however.

Selling was in relatively light volume, however, and some of the offerings were believed to be for bear account.

The tobacco and dairy issues were again sold on the basis of reduced prices for their products. Brokers felt, however, that there was some bear activity in those issues. No definite reasons were offered for the weakness of such issues as United States Industrial Alcohol and American Telephone, other than expectations of none too favorable earnings reports. Bethlehem's report for the last quarter of 1932, showing a net loss of $5,621,672, or slightly larger than the third quarter loss of $5,425,724, evidently brought some selling into that issue.

Canadian Pacific was sold in some volume. That issue has had periods of strength during the past year, based on rumors of favorable developments in connection with the proposed plans to merge with Canadian National, but holders of the stock have evidently become discouraged with the meager progress in dealing with the Dominion's serious railroad problem. Recent weakness in the Canadian dollar, together with recent agitation to reduce it to a level nearer its normal relationship with the pound sterling, may also have been a factor in the selling.

COTTON GAINS ON BUYING

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Cotton futures opened steady, 1 point higher to 2 points lower, on trade buying of near months and southern selling of distant positions. March, 6.10c; May, 6.22c; July, 6.35c; October, 6.55c; December, 6.68c; January, 6.73c.

March liquidation became more active after the opening. These offerings were absorbed by continued trade buying and some buying through houses with Liverpool connections, but prices at the end of the first half hour were about 1 to 3 points net lower, March selling at 6.08c and July at 6.34c.

More liquidation and southern selling appeared later in the morning. Offerings were sufficiently well taken to give the market a fairly steady undertone as the trade fought on scale-down orders, but prices sagged slightly. At midday March was selling around 6.07 and July 6.33. Active months generally showed net losses of 2 to 4 points.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 27.—Cotton—Receipts, 13,500 bales, all American, spot quiet; prices one point lower. Quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 5.85; good middling, 5.55; strict middling, 5.30; middling, 5.15; strict low middling, 5.00; low middling, 4.85; strict good ordinary, 4.65; good ordinary, 4.35. Futures closed quiet and steady. January, 4.91; March, 4.91; May, 4.93; July, 4.96; October, 5.00; December, 5.03.

American Bridge Cuts Wage Rates

The American Bridge Company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, has made reductions in wages at some of its plants, according to admissions made by officials of the corporation.

The cuts vary with different classes of employes. Some amount to as much as 25 per cent.

It was explained that these cuts have no bearing on wage rates of other Steel Corporation subsidiaries. The bridge company makes a practice of adjusting its wages at frequent intervals to meet competitive conditions in the various districts.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—(INS.)—The Missouri-Kansas-Texas lines reported a deficit of $632,416 after fixed charges, including adjustment bond interest, for the year ended December 31, 1932. This compares with a balance after fixed charges and adjustment bond interest of $675,000 for the preceding year.

For the month of December, the road reported a surplus of $80,374 after all fixed charges and adjustment bond interest, as compared with a surplus after these charges amounting to $73,071 in the like month of a year ago.

TRADE BLAMES CREDIT PLIGHT ON BANKS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Are the bankers of the country lying down on businessmen and their employes? This question will not down.

A reader of this column, himself the head of a successful moderate sized business, complains of treatment received from the banks. He reports that, in spite of his profit showing, he has been unable to get adequate help from the banks.

Mr. Rukeyser

One swallow does not make a summer.

What do other businessmen throughout the country think? At the request of Owen D. Young's business and financial committee in the New York Federal Reserve district, a questionnaire was sent to borrowers. The replies show the bank-credit experience of 3,438 concerns during this abnormal period.

Basing his summary on such factual inquiry, Dr. Ralph A. Young, of the National Industrial Conference Board, concluded:

"Viewed from the standpoint of banking and financial statistics, it is patent that the course of the present depression has been made deeper by the failure of the banking system at large to continue to extend adequate credit accommodation to industry and trade as a whole. The explanation of this failure is to be found mainly in the significant changes in the role of banks in financing production and exchange in the seven-year period preceding economic recession, during which bank credit came more and more to be made available indirectly to business through security, fixed asset and consumer loans, rather than direct commercial loans.

"The effect of all this was to impart to a large section of business independence from banks as debtors and to make banking stability hinge more largely on the stability of security and property values. When these values became unstable, banks as going institutions were rendered vulnerable to the caprices of public confidence. Efforts by banks to improve their positions by readjusting their assets, when banking failures became numerous and public confidence wavered, led first to the restriction of credit advanced directly to business and later of credit advanced indirectly through their own investments, loans on securities, loans on real estate, and loans to consumers.

"Credit restriction led to a further loss of confidence and set in motion a vicious sequence of financial catastrophes, leading in the end to a temporary damming of various channels of capital and credit, whose free flow at all times is essential for sustaining orderly activity in production and trade."

Investment Firm's Books Subpenaed

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—As members of a Senate committee today were preparing to peek into the books of a Chicago investment concern, an official of the firm said the records would fill a freight car and that he didn't know how the company's business could be conducted without them.

The books were those of Halsey, Stuart & Co. They were demanded in subpenas served yesterday at request of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency. The committee has been investigating stock speculations and security trading by the various Insull utility firms before their fall.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Uncertainties continued to hamper progress in the bond market today and price movements displayed a moderately irregular trend. United States and foreign government obligations were dull. The Germans were heavy, but British 5½s firmed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (000 omitted in sales column; United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

ZONEYBOOTERS, SWITCH MEET IN TOURNEY

By TOM BIRKS

Quite a list of interesting games is carded tomorrow for the first round of the West Penn open competition. In fact the card looms as the best served up this season for Sturday soccer consumption.

The Castle Shannon Zoneys, defending champions, will meet the club they had to beat in the finals last season by clashing with Union Switch at Swissvale. It is likely that the defending champions will have a tough afternoon eliminating the Swissvalers.

One of the outstanding games of the day will be staged at Leslie Park as Curry, fresh from its victory over the Cleveland Shamrocks, meets Lawrenceville.

This will be a difficult hurdle for the Curry club to take, as Lawrenceville is tough at home and the players perform good on the Strip enclosure. Frank Micher takes his Clan Douglas team to Mt. Lebanon to meet the Firemen in the other contest.

POLOISTS SET FOR FRAYS

The Hunt Armory tanbark last night was the scene of spirited scrimmages, as three of the circuit polo teams indulged final workouts in preparation for the league's first double-header in the East Liberty arena tomorrow night.

The headline battle on the bargain card features the Shady Side Academy riders, reduced to second place ranking for the first time since the league was formed, clashing with the Three Hundred and Eighth Cavalry poloists. The yellow-shirted Cavalrymen, although sporting the same personnel which carried away runner-up honors in the 1932 race, are trailing the league by a narrow margin, with the prep school mallet wielders deadlocked for second place with South Park and the Artillery.

The powerful Vang aggregation, with a formidable trio in Clay, Mazuzan and Adams, will be jeopardizing its league leadership in opposing South Park in the windup.

Conferences following the hard-fought battle last Saturday night between the Yale varsity and the local All-Stars have opened the way for a return engagement, possibly as a lid-lifter for the outdoor season of the Pittsburgh Polo and Riding Club. Actual consummation of an agreement hinges on a mutually agreeable date which will not interfere with scholastic affairs at New Haven.

Negotiations also are under way between the Three Hundred and Eighth Cavalry and Culver Military Academy for a game at Culver. This would be followed by a game in Pittsburgh between Culver and either the Cavalry or Shady Side Academy.

Vines and Allison Lose Tennis Matches

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Vivian McGrath, the 16-year-old player who has been hailed as the coming great of Australian tennis, today defeated Ellsworth Vines, Jr., American and Wilmbledon champion, in the quarter-finals of the Australian lawn tennis championships. The scores were: 6-2, 2-6, 8-6, 7-5.

McGrath has been playing brilliant tennis on the current invasion by the United States team, having defeated at least once every member of the visiting squad.

He will meet Keith Gledhill, Vines' doubles portner, in the semi-finals.

Jack Crawford, Australia's No. 1, in the meantime was eliminating another American, Wilmer Allison, in a semi-final match, taking a hard-fought victory 6-3, 3-6, 3-6, 6-0, 6-3.

STARS WIN

Curry Star

MIKE BOOKIE

And you might say this is one for the bookie. Mike, star of the Curry soccer team, will be playing against his former teammates when Curry plays the Slavia professional team, of Cleveland, at Greenlee Field, February 12, in the second round of the National open competition. Born in Curry, Bookie went to Cleveland in 1928 and played with the Slavias for three seasons, during which he made a trip to Argentine for a series of games. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

M'NAMARA, HILL BIKE VICTORS

CLEVELAND, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Reggie McNamara and Norman Hill, the American team, won Cleveland's first six-day bicycle race, notwithstanding in the last laps, late last night, a challenge by Saveer Van Slambrouk and Freddie Zach, the Swiss pair, who were second.

Points acquired in the sprints determined the outcome.

It was the eighty-ninth race in which the veteran McNamara has taken part. With his youthful partner from California, McNamara led the pack virtually all of the time during the last four days.

The drive of the Swiss came as a surprise, the judges first announcing that Charley Winter and Dave Lands, the German sprint stars, had taken second place. A check of the number of laps showed the Swiss had come abreast of the Americans in the last sprints. The Germans were one lap behind, to take third place.

FLOOR GAMES TONIGHT

Brentwood at Penn Five.

The crack Brentwood quintet, first half champion in the West Penn League, battles the Penn Five tonight in a leading independent basketball engagement. The game will be played on the Sharpsburg floor.

In other contests of importance, the Tarentum Y engages I. K. S. on the Center avenue floor and Coraopolis Y tackles the Doc Gannons.

The Y. M. H. A. passers played their first game in the West Penn League last night and were defeated by the Goose Goslins on the Y floor, 29 to 25. The J. P. Rooneys nosed out the Willigs, 43 to 42, in a hectic game and the Y. M. H. A. B passers doubled the score on the I. K. S. Reserves, 30 to 15. Tarentum Y won over the Goodwill quintet, 42 to 39, and Glenshaw took the St. Michaels team, 29 to 27.

The Goldenson Vanities staged a fine comeback after their defeat of last week at the hands of the Leavittsburg lassies to defeat the Fairmont Pirates, champions of the Monongahela Valley, 30 to 12. Miss Templeton led in the scoring with 12 points. The lineup:

MARY FAITH

By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER XLII.

The bay windows were open, the lace curtains billowing out from them like hoopskirts. And in the alcove Mr. McClintock sat smoking a cigar and reading the afternoon newspaper.

He laid down the paper and offered Mary Faith his chair. "Sit here, sit here! It's the coolest place in the whole house . . . And how's this young feller? He took out his old-fashioned gold watch and dangled it before the baby's eyes. "Too bad you have to go away every day and leave that youngster, Mary Faith. Can't you make his father provide for you? Seems to me he ought to be willing to do something."

Mary Faith thought that over. Perhaps she, herself, ought to write to Kim and tell him that she would get a divorce and ask him to provide for herself and the baby. Perhaps she ought to give up her position at Nesbit's and take care of the baby herself for the next few years—while he was so little.

"It's hard sometimes to know what to do, Mr. McClintock," she said slowly. "Did you ever hear this—'Do nothing and all will be done'? Sometimes I think that's the best sort of advice for a woman in my position—in my position——"

NEWS ABOUT CLAIRE

She repeated the last three words of the sentence automatically and then her voice died away into silence. She had caught sight of a familiar name on the folded page of Mr. McClintock's paper. Claire Maldon's name. It was contained in a legal notice tucked away among other legal notices like it in the divorce news of the day. But tiny as it was, it stood out like screaming black headlines to Mary Faith.

So Claire actually was divorcing Jack at last. That probably meant that she intended to be married again. Claire wasn't the sort of person who would give up one good meal-ticket husband unless she had another one within sight. She wasn't the sort of woman who would throw herself away for love and love alone. There were too many other things that meant a great deal to her, as Mary Faith knew very well . . . luxurious surroundings, smart clothes, a fast car, fast friends and plenty of ready money for the entertaining of them.

"If she married Kim she'd want him to give her all the things that Jack gave her," Mary Faith went on thinking, her face somber with her inward concern and dismay. "And after a while, when they were a little tired of each other, she'd probably treat him the way she treated Jack. As if he were a sort of guardian and upper servant."

In the middle of the night, when everything always seems distorted and dreadful somehow, she woke up and lay staring at the gray oblongs of the windows and thinking about Kim until dawn . . . Suppose he tried to sue her for divorce. Suppose his mother persuaded him that Mary Faith had gone back to Nesbit's because she was in love with Mark Nesbit. Suppose he packed up and left town and she never saw him again. Suppose he went away with Claire—

CHEERFUL AGAIN

But with the early morning light she became sane and calm once more, and felt sure that none of these things would happen.

The distant clatter of dishes in the kitchen, the rich sound of Mrs. Puckett's laugh from the floor below, the clang and rumble of the street cars going by—all the cheerful sounds of the early day—made her feel secure and cheerful once more.

Everything was going to be all right. . . . Hadn't Kim left her before and hadn't he always come back? And wasn't the baby better after these last three days of illness and fever? Didn't she herself have a very good position that had come to her like a miracle just when she needed it most?

"Surely someone somewhere must be looking after me," thought Mary Faith, who was still old-fashioned enough to believe in a God who took care of His people just as He did long ago when "by faith the walls of Jericho fell down."

And so after that one night she did not worry very much as the long weeks went by without a word from Kim. Autumn came with its first cold days and its bursts of wind and rain, and she wondered if Kim had taken his heavy overcoat out of the wardrobe trunk where she had packed it. She wondered if he had found his silk-and-wool socks in the bottom of the steamer trunk, and once or twice she was on the verge of calling him up to tell him where they were. But she decided not to. If he was still in the mood he had been in last spring, he would probably think she was doing it just for effect.

The days of swirling rain went on; and Mary Faith, at work in her office, could hear the drumming of the drops on her window all day long, beneath the taptap of her typewriter. The green shaded lights were turned on in the middle of the afternoon and it was dark by 5 o'clock when she left the office.

REFUSES RIDE HOME

One night Mark Nesbit's car was just starting away from the curb as she stepped out of the front door of the building. It stopped, and his voice came to her through the wet and windy darkness.

"Take you home, Miss Fenton?" He never called her anything but Miss Fenton.

"No, thanks, Mr. Nesbit," she called back to him, and his car went on down the street. By the time she caught a street car she was soaked to the skin and she sat, shivering and wondering if she had not been a fool to refuse his offer of a ride home. She hoped that Mr. Nesbit would not think that she had acted in a coy and kittenish way about it, and she half-wished that she had hopped into the car and ridden home with him. That would have been the natural and sensible thing to do . . . It was hard to figure out what was the natural and sensible thing to do when you were married to one man and working in another man's office.

"Why don't you get an out-and-out divorce, Mary Faith?" Mrs. Puckett asked her every few weeks. "This way you're neither fish nor fowl nor good red herring. Neither a married woman nor a grass widow—Mrs. Farrell here at the house and Miss Fenton at the office, and neither wife nor spinster really."

WORRIES ABOUT BABY

Until that rainy October night when Mark Nesbit offered to drive her home Mary Faith's position in the office had not bothered her. She had gone back to Nesbit's just as simply as she had gone back to Mrs. Puckett's—and it had seemed to be the place to go, probably because it was so easy to return to. She was no adventurer into places, and the thought of the familiar old office had been like the thought of a safe old harbor to her.

November came in, colder than October and just as rainy. The baby could not go out for his daily airing, and Elsie reported every night that he had been restless and cross all day long.

"If he were at home he could

"I remember it, Mr. Nesbit," she said.

take his naps on the little screened porch," thought Mary Faith, "and he could have the run of five or six rooms instead of being cooped up in one room almost all day."

She had come to hate the top-floor room with its windows that looked out toward the bare treetops of Haltnorth Park, and she longed for the Wilton Street flat every hour of the day. She knew that all of the furniture had been moved out of it, and in all probability someone else was living in it now; and yet she felt that it must still be there with its flowers blooming on the window sills and its rubber plant standing in the corner of the dining room and Kim's coat hanging on the golden-oak coat-tree in the hall.

The first snow came early that year, on the first Friday in November. It began to fall early in the afternoon and by four o'clock Mary Faith's little room was filled with cold white snow-light that made it seem a different place altogether from the one it had been that morning.

She was standing at the window, looking down into the transformed courtyard below, when the door of Mark Nesbit's office opened and he came and stood beside her.

"Almost three years since you and I were out in a snowstorm like this, isn't it?" he asked. "Remember?"

She did remember. It had been the night he asked her to marry him. She remembered it because it had been the night Kim came back to her after his first long desertion of her. They had sat in his little car outside Mrs. Puckett's house and planned their future—and she had been so happy that it had seemed as though all the stars fell down and shattered in River street that night.

"Of course, I remember it, Mr. Nesbit," she said.

We Got Rid of It

Looks like high finance is still a paper chase. The boys are looking for moss on the north side of the tree.

Here's the way our committee spent the $16,000,000,000 we were given to experiment with:

Actual authorization of loans in the composite report indicate the cash in hand was a neat chunk of juggling. Cash disbursement was equal to the demand. And the supply was hilarious.

We were a 100 per cent committee. Everybody we asked was willing to borrow.

Only one man was doubtful. But we managed to force a few samples on him.

We went through the $16,000,000,000 like a toenail through a lisle sock and then made a pancake landing like a sausage on a waffle.

We feel that we have improved the financial situation because we are sure that everybody now owes more.

What makes it nice is that they owe it to the government. We will ask for a minute intermission to allow the audience to climb back into its seats.

The project is exactly like a darky with a bottle of gin. Self-liquidating.

When the time comes to repay the installments we amortize it by subtracting the balance from the interest.

It's government dough boys, and arithmetic is subordination of equal rights. If you can't pay it why you can't pay it. And if you can pay it we must have made a mistake by not lending you enough.

We believe that a citizen should be indebted to his government. After all, it is only an economical experiment with the public's own money. It belongs to the people. Our committee spent its money lavishly and are proud to state that at no time did we raise the suspicion that we were appointed to buy step-ins for Gandhi.

We expect another 16,000,000,000 at the end of the fiscal year and we promise everybody two helpings.

GIVE YOUR STOMACH ONE HOUR'S HELP

That "lump" you feel an hour or so after eating, is a symptom of slow stomach. This very common condition can be remedied.

Instead of taking soda, or anything else you must take the rest of your life, try some diapepsin. Each tablet saves half an hour's digestion time. If your stomach is one hour slow in emptying, just take two tablets of diapepsin and all that gas, sourness, and distress after meals will be gone.

One box of Pape's Diapepsin will test your stomach and correct your digestion time. Then eat anything you like, and it will digest like crackers and milk! Keep on with diapepsin a few days, until the stomach is doing its work without need of help. When it slows down, take diapepsin again; it's good for the digestive system and can't hurt you.

Pape's Diapepsin may end all your "stomach trouble" and is certainly worth trying!

NICE GOING, MRS. BEN!

(Lamar, Mo., Democrat.)

Mrs. Carl Konantz was hostess Tuesday afternoon for the Home and Garden Club party. Mrs. J. E. Hall, the president, gave a poetic introduction of the members, comparing certain groups of the club ladies to certain flowers—each group reminding her of some blooming plant. Mrs. Ben Nichols responded with humorous takeoffs on each group. For instance the group of unmarried ladies which had been compared to brown-eyed susans, Mrs. Nichols felt sure would be happier planted near a group of bachelor buttons.

'Buy American' Seen As Omen of Return Of Trade Prosperity

It represents not only an urge to buy instead of hoard, but also a determination to make sure that the benefits from such purchasing accrue to American, rather than to foreign labor.

To the extent that the patriotic movement to make the United States more self-contained succeeds, prosperity will be heightened.

As soon as the country turns away from international will o' the wisps and concentrates on the home market, it will become incumbent on business leadership to concentrate on raising the living standards of American families.

Thus, sociological advance will go hand in hand with a future expansion of trade.

Swivel chair executives, who have not yet been out in the field, have no conception of the extent to which the idea has already taken hold of the imagination of the American people.

Merchants throughout the country like the new emphasis on buying.

The slogan, moreover, directly connects buying, instead of niggardliness, with promoting social welfare and unemployment relief. It properly suggests that buying, rather than insane retrenchment, is the patriotic course for the individual to pursue.

Buying American-made products and merchandise, in effect, involves casting a ballot in favor of giving employment to others.

In the final analysis, we work for one another.

If we stop buying, we tend to deny opportunity for gainful employment to our fellowmen.

On the other hand, if we purchase the things we desire and need we keep the processes of employment functioning.

By following the stupid fashion of abstaining from buying and thus depriving ourselves and our families, we senselessly add to the vicious cycle making for a continuing depression, with its frightful human toll in unemployment.

In Wall street parlance, the "Buy American" drive is distinctly bullish, and should tend to stimulate the gross volume of business—and hence the net earnings—of American enterprises.

William C. Van Antwerp, San Francisco broker and author and former governor of the New York Stock Exchange, in a statement to the San Francisco Examiner, expresses the opinion that the new spirit of intelligent economic nationalism has aided the stock market.

"It goes without saying," Mr. Van Antwerp declared, "that all classes of American securities will benefit by the enactment of laws that will prevent dumping of foreign goods into our markets. American labor and American merchandise are being displaced under existing conditions. The one way to correct it is to 'Buy American' under legal restrictions equalizing imports into the United States on a gold basis.

"The stock market is already showing an improved tone, and it is not impossible that this has been stimulated by the 'Buy American' campaign."

In contrast with negative, do-nothing drifting, which has caused American business to slide down the slope into despair, the "Buy American" movement is a yea-saying, constructive, sales building and manpower employing development.

Americans, in viewing the future, should take heart from this constructive patriotic movement which has swept over the country.

No School Curtailment!

President Aaron Is Right in Rejecting Proposals That Educational Activities Be Cut.

The Citizens' Committee that has been investigating the financial management of the public schools of Pittsburgh has arrived at the unanimous opinion that the budget has been prepared on a fair and reasonable basis, and that no change can be made in the tax levy for 1933.

It recommends that an effort be made to cut expenses further next year, and suggests, among other things, as contributing to that end, that some of the school activities be curtailed and that the school year be shortened.

Marcus Aaron, president of the Board of Education, has wisely rejected the suggestions. He says, truly, that the proposals would endanger the effectiveness of the school system and Pittsburgh cannot afford to make the change.

Education has been the basis of American progress, and now at the moment when foreign nations have realized the importance of education, and are making great progress in educating their people and fitting them for world competition, we dare not curtail our educational program.

The reason the American workman has been able to compete successfully is because of his educated intelligence.

The reason our nation has been successful is because of the high average of intelligence of the electorate.

No democracy can succeed, and no nation can compete under modern conditions, without an intelligent and educated citizenry.

This depression is only temporary, but the effect of restricting education will be permanent.

It is unwise on that account to curtail school expenses. We should strive to secure the same progress in these days of depression that we would have made in good times.

The depression should teach us that if we had a sufficiently educated and enlightened electorate, we might be able to obviate such catastrophes.

Fair Play Demands It

Reapportionment Is Necessary to Give Allegheny County Proper Representation at Harrisburg.

Senator Frank J. Harris has introduced in the Legislature a bill reapportioning the senatorial districts to conform with the population situation disclosed by the census of 1930.

The legislative districts should also be reapportioned.

The Constitution requires the change, but the Republican state organization has been loath to put it into effect.

The reason for its reluctance is that with proper redistricting some of the machine controlled districts would lose representation at Harrisburg and independent districts would gain.

Under the provisions of Senator Harris' bill Allegheny County would have one more Senator than under the present set-up.

Justice demands that the districts be changed. Allegheny County is not properly represented at Harrisburg under the existing system.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

These Modern Lovers

When a man feels like "sitting on top of the world," it is either because some woman has just consented to marry him—or because some woman has just consented to divorce him.

After a man has explained to a dozen or more sympathetic and attractive women all the various ways in which his wife "doesn't understand him," he begins to believe it HIMSELF.

A man doesn't really enjoy deceiving the woman he loves. In fact, the average husband would never dream of deceiving his wife—if he could only think of some other way to keep her from finding things out.

Many a devoted private secretary has married her boss because she got tired of shopping for presents for him to give to OTHER women, and of standing for his next-morning grouches after his gay evenings with other girls.

Even in this day of perfect frankness, there are still lots of things that no gentleman would say to a woman—if he suspected that anybody else was listening in.

* * *

No man is really justified in becoming a woman-hater and venting his dislike on the entire sex, simply because he hasn't been successful in marrying one of them—or even because he WAS.

No woman ever masters the part of managing a man, until she gets over caring and stops TRYING, from sheer boredom.

As long as a girl merely wonders if she would like being married to a man, he is fairly safe. But, when he begins wondering "if he really gets enough to eat in restaurants," dust off your congratulations. It's all over but the wedding-bells.

* * *

A girl's thoughts just naturally run to love and marriage—but a man's seem to drag along at a snail's pace.

Isn't It So?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Thoughts while strolling: Ray Bolger, who ran away with the Radio City show, is a ringer for Will H. Hays.

Fanny Brice is difficult to recognize since her nose-bobbing. George White and his star, Bert Lahr—pals since their old burlesque days. Lyn Lary and the graceful Maris Lawlor.

Dorothy Parker, a West End (N. J.) girl, who made good in the city. Al Smith's expression often suggests the stag at bay. Mrs. Lisle Bell and Ruth Gordon could pass for twins. So could Zita Johann and Alice Hughes. And Cole Porter is George Jean Nathan, shrunk.

One-word description of Elsa Maxwell—bubbly. What became of Edith Day? Lucius Beebe is the nearest reportorial replica of silk-stockinged Richard Harding Davis. And, for goodness sake, Frank Davis and Phil Baker look alike. Then there's Judge William Young's son, Bill, Dempsey's double.

One of my favorite people—Martha Wilchinski. Everybody seems to be getting stout, save Bide Dudley, bless him. Mrs. Lynn Overman, once the beautiful—and still is—Emily Drange of the Follies. Charles Butterworth's trigger mind belies his dumb look. Edgar and Archie Selwyn's sister, Rae.

Nita Naldi's name suggests a cleaning fluid. Frank Mason pops out of a block-long auto. Alice Poole, once Ziegfeld's phone operator. What a lot of grand numbers she knew. That wind from the harbor gives the cheek a smarting afterglow, like grandma's palm.

At a theatrical club the other night, an after-dinner speaker waxed nasty toward the guest of honor. When the maligned gentleman was called, he said: "I haven't the slightest idea what the gentleman is talking about. I do know that none of you is interested in grievances, fancied or real. I came here to be amused and have been tremendously. For which I want to thank each and everyone—including my traducer. And may God bless you all." He sat down to the most deafening applause the club ever had heard.

I noticed Paul Whiteman in a chocolate brown overcoat, gazing across the street at the scene of his first triumph—the old Palais Royal. It is now a medium-priced chop suey cafe, with dusky lights and private booths, catering to Suburbia's modest young hand-holders enjoying a breathless night along the Great White Way. What memories must have flooded Paul's mind! For there, in its day, was the most colorful restaurant the town has ever known. And Paul, its most colorful figure.

Reading the mail today became a gauntlet of euphony, what with a letter from a Miss Kassam in Kissimmee, Fla., and a post card from an optician in Ogelthorpe, Ga. All I need now is a telephone call from Gil Galloon, the Madison avenue wet-washer.

William A. Brady remains a rugged figure in a theatrical producing world which has become soft-spoken. He managed nearly all the stars of another decade. A wrecker of fierce, black cigars, as well as an occasional infinitive, he is the last of the Rialto's blunderbusses with a cocked derby and a three-sheet showmanship that fills playhouses.

Years ago, Brady, crossing the ocean with Maurice Barrymore, engaged in a mock debate for a ship charity with the noted actor. The topic was intoxicating liquor. Barrymore was to plead total abstinence and Brady, the wet side. Brady stoked up at the bar as a prelude to the oratory and when he finished talking, Mr. Barrymore arose and began with: "Mr. Brady at least seems full of his subject."

I know it is silly, but, after listening to a radio broadcast this morning of a lecture on "Man, the Most Disorderly of All Creatures," I've been wandering around the house tidying up top bureau drawers.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

My Unseen Friend—
Life Source, whom some call God,
But for whose nature I have found no name—
Help me today!

This day, I think, will be a common day,
Devoid of adventure, risk or thrilling snow;
Eight working hours, plodding in a row,
Like lagging sheep, whose herder I must be,
And You, Who made me, know I hate such days!

I can face danger, or the press of haste;
Cruel shock, or sudden uproar and alarm;
Or I can laugh and play the merry clown,
Or act a part to mask some desperate need—
But something limps in me when days are dull.

I fret and whimper at monotony;
I sulk and shirk when life's procession drags;
I weep great tears of pity for myself,
And snarl with anger at some ancient wrong,
And hate my brother, and the world, and You.

And so I ask your help this common day,
Help me keep sweet, when there is none to see.
Help me be patient, though there is no praise,
And brave, without the spotlight or applause,
And honest, in the secret, unseen act.

Help me forget my foolish, strutting self;
Forget my childish need for risk and thrill;
And let me be a part of You today—
A part of Life's vast, patient, plodding plan,
As trees, and birds, and oceans are a part.

Help me be simple, like the growing grain,
That grows alike in sun or rain or wind;
And steadfast, like the deep, enduring soil
Whose services never slackens through the years,
Nor ever reckons up the gain and loss.

So help me see that every day is rare,
And still my fretting with Your boundless peace—
Dear Friend, Whom I can feel, but cannot see—
For I am like a spoiled and peevish child

Borah Wants An Honest Dollar---

So Do You, and Many of Them.

(Copyright, 1933, New York Evening Journal, Inc. Registered U. S. Patent Office.)

SENATOR BORAH SAYS WE NEED AN HONEST DOLLAR, meaning "a dollar not so hard to get." The value of a dollar and of the things it buys are too far apart.

Something will be done about the dollar, and it can't be done by taking in taxes the few dollars remaining in circulation.

A poem by "Senex," an American now abroad, includes a line about American mills that "turn out not goods, but men."

Our mills will not take in men and turn out goods until money is provided to buy the goods.

GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT'S VISIT TO MUSCLE SHOALS and his plan to let the people operate their own power plant for the benefit of those that BUY power and fertilizer carries speculation everywhere and rejoicing, with predictions of a "new American industrial empire and the transformation of the whole Tennessee River basin."

Private ownership of public necessities built up one kind of prosperity. It exploded in 1929. Perhaps a new, better kind can be built on another plan, running natural monopolies for the benefit of those that buy and use, instead of those that exploit and sell. Any port in a storm, even a government ownership port.

MRS. O. H. P. BELMONT, DEAD IN PARIS AT 80, will be remembered and thanked for the real serious work that she did in the cause of woman suffrage.

A friend said to her:

"The King of France made his nobles wear potato blossoms in their buttonholes to help Parmentier, who brought the potato to France. After that humble Frenchmen began eating potatoes that they had scornfully rejected. If you and Mrs. Mackay and a few others will wear the woman suffrage blossom in your buttonholes the rest of this grand democracy will interest itself in woman suffrage."

YESTERDAY, IN SPITE OF STRENUOUS AND SOMEWHAT puzzling objections by members of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the people were allowed to know, through Congress, how some of their hundreds of millions have been distributed to help the deserving.

Mr. Dawes' bank in Chicago got $80,000,000, and did not have to close. The San Francisco Bank of America got $64,000,000, and the Bank of Italy Mortgaging Company, of San Francisco, got $30,000,000.

RAILROADS WERE AUTHORIZED TO BORROW TWO hundred and twenty-four millions and ELEVEN THOUSAND OTHER LOANS were made or authorized, some of them quite small.

There is no proof that any of these loans were unwisely made, and they were all made in good faith.

But the farmer, watching his cattle and farm sold under mortgage foreclosure, the little business man with his name "this month's failure" must wish that they had a "fairy godfather" in Uncle Sam.

TODAY MANY ARE STARTLED TO SEE THE GOVERNMENT handing out barely TWO BILLIONS over a considerable period to help AMERICANS.

Nobody paid attention when the government handed out TEN BILLIONS to help foreign nations that cut each other's throats in war.

That's the difference between peace and war psychology.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Why do you annoy your friends by the number of times that you seek to borrow money and articles from them?

Your friends may like to be accommodating, but you easily become a nuisance.

You even ask to borrow most highly-prized articles owned by your friend—things that he or she values and wishes to preserve.

Your friend may be careful not to use them because he fears something might happen to destroy their beauty or their value.

Naturally he is reluctant to loan them even to a friend.

Yet you do not hesitate to ask.

The practice is not so often objected to because these girls are not supporting themselves.

But when a girl gets to earning her own living and finds out how hard it is to save up and buy valuable things, she does not look with such favor on the friends who ask to borrow her clothing and jewelry and who might not replace the loss.
